U.N. Committee Vote On Palestine Plan Due Today

Arab-Proposed Single State Is Spurned, 29-12

Fate Of Partition Proposal Uncertain

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 24 (AP) — The United Nations Palestine Committee tonight rejected an Arab-proposed sovereign single state of Palestine and then prepared to vote tomorrow on a plan to partition the Holy Land into separate Arab and Jewish countries.

The Arab single state plan, under which the Jews would have lived as a minority, was defeated by 29 to 12 with 14 abstentions and two delegates absent.

The United Nations Assembly 57-nation Palestine Committee then began consideration of minor amendments to the United States-Soviet sponsored plan for creating independent Arab and Jewish countries by not later than next October 1.

The committee, after being in session for more than 13 hours, adjourned at 1117 p. m. and scheduled another session for 1030 a. m. (EST) tomorrow.

Delegates anticipated a committee vote on partition sometime tomorrow and it was expected to go to the General Assembly Wednesday for a final decision where a two-thirds majority is required for adoption.

Fate Is Uncertain

Because of the high number of abstentions in voting on the Arab proposals there was still no adequate indication what would be the fate of the partition plan.

Before the committee turned down the proposal for a single state, one other Arab proposal was rejected and a third ended in a tie vote.

The committee first voted down a two part proposal to refer the legality of the proposed Holy Land partition to the International Court of Justice.

One part, dealing with the legality of creating a partitioned Palestine, was rejected 25 to 18 with 11 abstentions and three delegates absent. A second part, dealing with the legality of United Nations enforcement of partition, was rejected 21 to 20 with 13 abstentions and thre delegates absent.

The tie vote came on an Arab proposal regarding Jewish refugees recommending

1. That countries of origin should be requested to take back the Jewish refugees and displaced persons belonging to them.

2. That those Jewish refugees and displaced persons who could not be repatriated should be absorbed in the territories of members of the United Nations.

The vote on this was 16 to 16 with 23 abstentions and two delegates absent. The proposal therefore will be given to the General Assembly in plenary session for decision.

Violence Is Threatened

The committee, before casting the tie vote, has rejected a paragraph in the prambl of thep roposal that

Prisoners Hold Guards In Barricaded Laundry

WAUPUN, Wis., Nov. 24 (AP) — Warden John C. Burke said 69 prisoners were holding four guards as hostages in the barricaded laundry of the state prison and that the National Guard had been alerted.

Sheriffs' offices at Dodge, Fond Du Lac and Milwaukee counties are dispatching deputies, armed with riot guns and tear gas, to the scene.

The men are on a sitdown strike and refuse to come out, Burke said.

He declared Acting Gov. Oscar Rennebohm had been notified and that the calling out of the National Guard had been authorized if necessary, Rennebohm is en route to the prison from Milwaukee.

Burke said the prisoners refused to tell why they were striking and declared they would talk only to A. W. Bayley, director of the Department of Public Welfare.

Shadow Of Possible Civil War Cast Over Big Four Talks Which Open Today

Six U. S. Soldiers Taken Prisoner By Yugo Troops

TRIESTE, Tuesday, Nov. 25 (AP)—Six American soldiers were taken prisoner Monday morning by Yugoslav troops when they "evidently got out of bounds" while patrolling the zonal border in Venezia Giulia about 15 miles from Trieste, United States Army headquarters announced today.

The capture of the entire border patrol increased to 18 the number of United States soldiers taken into custody by the Yugoslavs in the area since August. The other 12 have been released. During the same period, five British soldiers and sailors also were taken prisoner.

The United States public relations office here said that because of a new policy, the names of the one non-commissioned officer and five privates would not be disclosed until 48 hours after their capture.

The Yugoslav authorities have confirmed that they are holding the soldiers, the office said, adding that as far as was known, all the men were in good condition.

U. S. To Limit Itself To Two Objectives

LONDON, Nov. 24 (INS) — A highly authoritative source declared tonight that Moscow-inspired strikes and disorders in France and Italy have cast the ominous shadow of possible civil war over the Big Four conference which opens in London tomorrow.

It was learned that because of the new situation, which is considered extremely dangerous, the United States will limit itself to two objectives at the conference,

Secretary of State Marshall (1) will try to get an agreement with Russia and the other powers on the economic and political unification of Germany and (2) he will attempt to get a peace treaty for Austria.

The air of tension in London on the eve of what is regarded as one of the most critical international conferences in recent times was further underscored by the statement of a leading American delegate.

The delegate predicted Marshall would walk out of the parley within two weeks if Russia tries to use it as a propaganda springboard for attacks against the United States and Marshall discovers there is no hope of getting a German agreement.

Dangerous Situation

The warning of the dangerous new international situation was coupled with an explanation by the authoritative source that the deliberate Communist instigation of strike disorders may get out of hand.

It was pointed out the disorders in Europe might lead in some direction other than that originally intended—such as fill-scale civil war in France and Italy, with subsequent ramifications abroad.

There is no doubt in the minds of some leading delegates to the conference that Russia has ordered the troubles in France and Italy.

Moscow is seen as having stirred up the recent riotous unrest as a major move in an "offensive-defensive" drive against the United States—with the Marshall plan and American foreign policy the prime targets.

Authoritative quarters said the term "offensive-defensive" is not diplomatic double talk but a technical military term for an operation which is carried out when an army finds itself in a close pocket.

Russia, politically, is considered to be in a close pocket in Europe because of the recent swing of the people away from Communism.

The western view is that Russia also fears the prospects that the Marshall plan, opposed by Moscow, may restore economic stability in Western Europe and thus remove a fertile playground for Communists.

The result is, according to authoritative information, that Rus-

House Approves Citations Against 10 Film Figures

Committee Upheld Overwhelmingly

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 — (AP) — In rapid-fire order, the House today voted contempt citations against 10 Hollywood script writers, directors and producers who refused to say "yes" or "no" when asked whether they were Communists.

By sending the citations to the United States district attorney for prosecution, the House overwhelmingly backed its Committee on Un-American Activities, which had questioned the men in its investigation of alleged Communism in Hollywood.

Maximum punishment for contempt of Congress is a year in jail and $1,000 fine.

The 10 contended that by inquiring into their political beliefs, the committee was violating the Constitution.

One Roll-Call Vote

Although each of the cases was handled separately by the House, there was only one roll-call vote and it thumpingly upheld the committee, 346 to 17.

Rep. Thomas (R-N.J.), chairman of the committee, told the House the 10 were subpoenaed "because our investigation had disclosed that they were Communists or had long records of Communist affiliation and activities."

Opponents of the citations warned against "hysteria" and contended the committee was illegally invading the field of "thought and opinion."

Fifteen Democrats, one Republican and the lone American-Laborite member opposed the citation of Albert Maltz, the only case in which there was a roll-call vote. Favoring it were 209 Republicans and 137 Democrats.

In addition to Maltz, who prepared the scenario for "Destination Tokyo" and "Cloak and Dagger," these men were cited:

Directors Are Cited

Alvah Bessie, whose screen works includec "Objective Burma."

Herbert Biberman, director of the "Master Race."

Canada Puts Price Lid On Many Foods

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Canadian government—beset by rising prices and reports of panic buying since the imposition of its "austerity" program—announced today that price ceilings will be reimposed on many processed foods.

Finance Minister Douglas Abbott said he had instructed the dominion's wartime Price and Trade Board to take necessary action to restore controls on the "more important varieties of canned fruits and vegetables."

He said he also ordered the board to be "prepared to reimpose mark-up (price) control on fresh fruits and vegetables and canned fruit juices."

Abbott, who emphasized that the government did not wish to return to general price control, did not specify when the new controls would go into effect or at what level, but officials of his department said they probably would be imposed within 48 hours.

The "austerity" program, announced last week, is designed to ease a shortage of United States dollars by cutting imports on articles ranging from automobiles and jewelry to fresh fruits. The action has produced a wave of protests from consumers and producers alike. Prices have soared, rocketed as high as $500 in the case of some automobiles.

There have been runs on fruits and vegetables in some places. Canada imports citrus and other fruits from the United States. Most of Canada's wartime price controls on food were lifted September 15. On October 21 the meat ceilings came off.

Egyptian Plot Bared

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 24. (AP)—More than a score of persons were under arrest tonight after the reported discovery of a plot to assassinate by bomb the chief of staff of the Egyptian army, Ibrahim Attala Pasha. Details were not disclosed.

LAMARRES AT HOME—Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Lamarre, who figured prominently in the Senate War Committee investigation into the private wartime activities of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, are shown n their Dayton, Ohio, home yesterday. Mrs. Lamarre, who denied Meyers' testimony that she was his "girl friend," has indicated she will sue the retired Air Forces purchasing officer for slander.

Federal Reserve Board Asks Power To Regulate Installment Purchasing

Banks Urged To Cut Speculative Loans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board today asked Congress for authority to regulate installment buying permanently, and tonight the government's bank supervisory authorities asked the nation's 15,000 banks to curtail "all loans for speculation in real estate, commodities or securities."

The Retail Credit Institute of America and four other organizations followed the Federal Reserve proposal with pleas to the Senate Banking Committee to turn down President Truman's appeal for reestablishment of consumer credit controls as part of the administration's cost-of-living program.

There have been no statutory restrictions on installment buying since November 1.

"Our country is experiencing a boom of dangerous proportions" the Federal Reserve Board, the Comptroller of the Currency and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation said in a joint appeal to banks to curb speculative credit.

They urged curtailment of speculation-motivated loans either to individuals or business.

"As far as possible, extension of bank credit under existing conditions should be confined to financing that will help production rather than merely increase consumer demands," the three agencies said.

Sen. Tobey (R-NH) chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, told reporters that instead of permanent credit controls he favors a middle course which would grant authority to restore controls until about March 15, 1949.

R. M. Evans, a member of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors, told the committee "the need for regulation is acute at the present time, but the need is not merely a temporary one."

Evans suggested that the board

Western Union's AFL Unions Take Vote On Walkout

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—AFL unions in the Western Union Telegraph Company system today began taking a strike vote among 50,000 workers.

Union officers said it would require about 10 days to complete the poll and that no tentative strike date would be set until the referendum is completed.

A walkout of AFL members in Western Union would tie up telegraph communications across the country.

AFL unions represent workers in virtually all the company's offices except New York City where the CIO American Communications Association represents 7,000 workers.

In announcing the strike vote is being taken, union officials said negotiations with Western Union for a 15 per cent wage increase had collapsed.

British-Soviet Trade Pact Talks Scheduled

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Official sources said today that Britain has scheduled new talks with the Russians, to resume at the end of this week, in a bid to write a full scale British-Soviet trade pact.

In addition the British speeded up trade negotiations with other European states.

A high government informant said Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, will fly to Moscow probably late this week, and that he will make a statement on Soviet-Russian trade negotiations in the House of Commons tomorrow.

Stassen Opens Campaign With Eight-Point Program

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 24 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen formally launched his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination tonight with a plan to blend "liberal, forward looking proposals" with "conservative attitudes."

The former Minnesota Governor offered an eight-point domestic and international program to overcome "boom or bust tendencies."

He said he intended to "spell out the details" of the plan in the succeeding months with the hope his suggestions would stimulate others to present "additional facts and alternative proposals."

"I will not do so with an attitude that these things exactly must be done," he declared.

Under this plan, Stassen said, "we might find together the best program that America can follow and that our Republican Party can present."

He appealed frankly for funds as well as votes in his first official campaign appearance. He spoke at the Milwaukee Auditorium.

"The best of progress in America has been made when liberal, forward looking proposals have been blended and adjusted with conservative attitudes into an agreed program of action," Stassen said.

"In that sense," he continued, "I do not clash with the conservatives of the Republican Party, but rather do I seek the area of agreement with them on the basis on which we can join in action by the Congress and the nation."

Stassen gave top priority to housing and what he termed "lack of adequate health service" in outlining his program at the campaign kickoff sponsored by the Republican organization of Wisconsin and the Stassen for President Volunteers of Wisconsin.

Post-Operative Hernias Repaired With Tantalum Mesh, Doctors Told

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—A new technique for repairing hernias that develop after a surgical operation—employing a screen-like tantalum mesh to cover the break—was reported today by a Johns Hopkins surgeon.

It's like covering a break in a screen door with ordinary screen wire, except that the tantalum screen is attached to human tissue beneath the skin to overcome bulging of internal structures through a break in the muscle covering and the muscle itself.

Such bulges, or hernias, sometimes occur, Dr. Amos R. Koontz told a reporter, when stitches in the muscle sheath and muscle weaken after an operation. They are most frequent, he said, in stout people whose muscle sheaths (or "fascia") are weakened anyway through the infiltration of fat. Infrequently, they can occur without a previous operation.

Koontz told the opening session of the Southern Medical Association's 41st meeting, in a preliminary report, that he had employed tantalum mesh in five cases of "ventral" (or "belly") hernias with "excellent results" and that one case had gone 17 months without a recurrance of the hernia.

One man, suffering from a hernia following a gall-bladder operation, he said, had contemplated "suicide" after another type of operation had failed to control the hernia. This same man, he said, now is "very comfortable and delighted" after having his hernia repaired with tantalum.

A woman, he said, had undergone two previous operations without control of a post-operative hernia. She is the case which has now gone 17 months without recurrence following tantalum repair.

Vandenberg Asks Speedy European Aid To Thwart "Communist Aggression"

Bridges Sees Food Shortage In U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 — (AP) — Quick emergency aid to thwart "Communist aggression" in Western Europe was urged by Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) today as another Republican senator, Bridges, of New Hampshire, declared that "meagre rations" at home might result.

Opening Senate debate on the administration proposal to send Italy, France and Austria up to $597,000,000 in stop-gap food and other supplies, Vandenberg said speedy action was necessary because "a new type of Communism"—with terror and sabotage for weapons—"is on the march."

Supporters of the winter relief measure, already approved unanimously by the Vandenberg-headed Foreign Relations Committee, predicted that the Senate would approve the bill on Wednesday or Thursday. (The measure contains no actual funds; an appropriation bill will have to be acted on later).

Deadlock Reported

The House Foreign Affairs Committee, writing its own emergency aid bill, was reported deadlocked on the question of whether this aid should be regarded as a tapering off of help to Europe or as the preliminary to a long-range recovery program.

One member, who asked that his name be withheld, told reporters: "There is a fundamental split in the Republican Party on this, despite what you hear about there not being any disagreement at all."

Bridges, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, said his group was conducting hearings on the question of raising funds for interim relief with "unprecedented" speed.

In suggesting a "strong probability" of food shortages at home, however, he said the committee would grant "no blank check requests."

If the United States ships food to the full extent contemplated by the State Department, and if next year's domestic crops are poor, Bridges said "the American people will be subject not only to rationing but possibly to meager rations."

Bridges, who later conferred with President Truman on the emergency aid question, spoke at a meeting of his committee, which heard Secretary of Agriculture Anderson testify that "we are in a position to supply the necessary aid" and should do so.

International Unity Broken

Vandenberg stepped down from the seat he occupies as president pro tem (presiding officer) of the Senate to launch the drive for quick enactment of stop-gap relief legislation—which, he said, does not commit the Senate to any long-term recovery program for Europe.

Asserting that the international unity which won the war has "fall-

FUSE OF EXPLOSIVE TAX BATTLE LIGHTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (AP)—The fuse of an explosive tax battle was lighted today by separate proposals for removal of about 6,000,000 low-income persons from the tax rolls, and for tax exemption of the first $25,000 of net income of all corporations.

Rep. Ploeser (R-Mo), chairman of the House Small Business Committee, presented the corporate exemption suggestion to the House Ways and Means Committee, to settle "the nationwide controversy over the tax exempt privilege of co-ops."

Simultaneously, though unrelated to Ploeser's proposal, a movement of undetermined strength was astir to put into the next tax-cutting bill a provision for an increase in personal exemptions — probably from the present $500, to $600

This would remove from income taxation millions of the lowest income persons.

Ways and Means Chairman Knutson (R-Minn) told reporters that Ploeser's proposal "is certainly worth looking into."

"The thinking is in the right direction," he said, "tax reduction tends to accelerate business and actually to increase overall tax collections."

But on tax relief for individuals, he stuck by his idea for percentage cuts for all the 48,500,000 taxpayers. Bills embodying this principle were killed twice by presidential vetoes earlier in the year.

Knutson said his new $4,000,000,000 tax slashing measure, to be introduced in mid-December, probably will include no provision for increased individual exemptions.

Jews Look Ahead

JERUSALEM, Nov. 24. (AP)—The Jewish Agency said today it was already recruiting young men and women for government service in a Jewish state, and the Holy Land's two chief rabbis appealed to "all nations, Christian, Islamic and others," for support of a national homeland in Palestine.

UNION PRINTERS STRIKE AGAINST CHICAGO PAPERS

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (INS)—Members of Chicago Local 16 of the AFL-typographical union struck tonight against six Chicago daily newspapers after voting a walkout, 2,330 to 61.

Publishers countered the strike vote immediately with promises to continue getting out editions.

Spokesmen for the city's two morning dailys, the Tribune and the Sun, said they would publish photo-engraved editions.

Both papers announced their editions would carry all regular features and advertising.

The Tribune said it would publish "several" editions. The Sun said it would turn out two editions daily.

First editions of the Tribune and Sun were on the streets before the printers began voting at 6 p. m. The polls closed at 8 p. m. and the results announced before 9 o'clock.

Announcement of the results by Local President John Pilch was greeted with a roar of approval. Union members who had gone to work after voting were notified to return to the meeting hall.

The six newspapers have a total circulation of 2,926,800.

French Premier Decides On Steps To Curb Strikes

Some Concessions To Labor Are Seen

PARIS, Nov. 24. (AP)—The ranks of striking French workers, already estimated at a million strong, swelled steadily tonight as Premier Robert Schuman met for the first time with his new government to take steps for meeting the threat to the French economy.

Government informants said Schuman had decided on "very energetic" measures to prevent more strikes, coupled with possible concessions to the workers already off their jobs.

The informants did not elaborate on what measures would be taken. Asked if the government would requisition railroads and other strike-bound industries, they replied "it might."

These sources said Schuman might grant the strikers' demand for an increase in the basic minimum monthly wage from 7,000 francs (about $58) to 10,800 francs ($90), provided the workers agree to end the walkouts immediately.

Pay Hike Refusal Predicted

The informants predicted that demands of the Communist-led General Labor Confederation (CGT) for an immediate 25 per cent wage increase pending negotiations for revision of minimums in all brackets would be refused.

Meanwhile, an intimate of Gen. De Gaulle said the General had cancelled a speech scheduled for delivery in Paris Thursday to avoid embarrassing the new government in its struggle with the CGT. Rene Mayer, Radical-Socialist who openly supports De Gaulle's Rally of the French People (RPF), is Minister of Economic Affairs and Finance in the new Cabinet.

These were the latest reports on strike situation:

Postal workers, mostly postmen and truck drivers, began to strike in Paris and the provinces before getting instructions from their union.

Court-Martial Trial Planned; Pension Halted

Justice Department Seeks Indictments

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP) — The Army and the Justice Department joined forces tonight in a crushing crackdown on Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, retired Air Forces purchasing officer whose private wartime activities were officially denounced as "one of the most shocking scandals ever exposed in the history of our government."

In addition, the balding, 52-year-old officer faced a probable lawsuit brought by pretty Mrs. Mildred Lamarre, who flatly denied Meyers' testimony to Senate war investigators that she was his "girl friend." "A suit for slander seems the only answer," she told reporters.

Acting only two days after the Senate committee heard final testimony that Meyers made $150,000 from a secretly-owned war subcontracting plant while he was active in procurement (purchasing) for the Air Forces, Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington announced:

1—The $461 monthly pension which Meyers has been receiving since he retired from the Army in 1945 on disability grounds—he said he had a nervous breakdown—has been stopped.

2—Steps are being taken to strip the florid, fast-talking General of his military decorations—the Distinguished Service Medal and the Legion of Merit.

3—Meyers will be tried by an Air Force court-martial.

Indictments To Be Sought

Immediately afterwards, the Justice Department announced it would go before a federal grand jury here tomorrow and seek indictments against Meyers.

The charges were not detailed in advance, but the Senate War Investigating Subcommittee which probed Meyers suggested a study of possible war fraud, corruption, perjury and income tax evasion charges.

Attorney General Clark announced last week that the income tax phase of the case would be presented to a grand jury in the city where Meyers filed his tax returns. Officials disclosed today they were filed at Baltimore.

Symington said that, as a result of the Meyers case, the Air Force would set up "a procurement system which reduces to an absolute minimum the chance of an disgraceful occurrence ever happening again."

He said also that the letter revoking the General's decorations was signed by General of the Army Eisenhower, Chief of Staff.

A sidelight to the armed forces crackdown came in the form of a bitter letter from a former Army flyer, Capt. Elmer S. Friedberg, Pottstown, Pa., threatening to resign from the Air Force reserves if "the dealers in blood money are not brought to justice in the near future."

Friedberg, whose letter was made public by Symington, asked if his comrades had died in flames "so men of Meyers' ilk could ply their filthy trade."

Symington Thanks Probers

The Secretary replied with a promise of the fullest possible investigation, a statement that "so far as

Former C. Of C. President, Noted Attorney Dies

BOSTON, Nov. 24. (AP)—William Kenneth Jackson, 61, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and nationally-known attorney, died suddenly at his home tonight.

Jackson, general counsel and a director of the United Fruit Company, served for several years as legal adviser to Gen. George W. Goethals, who engineered the construction of the Panama Canal.

He served as president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce from June, 1946, to June, 1947.

Draft Law Convictions Of Three Jehovah's Witnesses Are Upheld

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (AP) — Splitting 5 to 4, the Supreme Court today affirmed the convictions of three Jehovah's Witnesses on charges of violating the Selective Service Act by refusing to work at civilian public service camps.

The majority opinion, written by Justice Reed, upheld the classification of the three by their local draft boards as conscientious objectors instead of ministers, which would have exempted them from service.

This brought forth two sharply dissenting opinions. Justice Douglas wrote one in which Justice Black concurred. Justice Murphy wrote the other, with Justice Rutledge concurring.

Douglas said each of the "witnesses" was spending substantial time in the religious activity of preaching their faith and added:

"To deny these claimants their statutory exemption is to disregard these facts and to adopt a definition of minister which contrasts with the classification provided by Congress."

Said Murphy:

"Congress must have intended to exempt from statutory duties those ministers who are forced to labor at secular jobs to earn a living as well as those who preach to more opulent congregations."

Reed said an examination of the record in each case convinced the majority that the local boards had adequate basis to deny the three men classification as ministers.

The court also:

Refused to amend its decree holding the federal government has "paramount" rights in oil-rich lands off the California coast.

Agreed to hear arguments on the question whether a Navada divorce gives the husband the right to stop alimony payments under a New York separation decree.

Refused to rule on a contention of the New Orleans Item that a libel suit against a newspaper should be tried only in the place of publication.

U.N. Committee Vote On Palestine Plan Due Today

Fate Of Partition Proposal Uncertain

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 24 (AP) — The United Nations Palestine Committee tonight rejected an Arab-proposed sovereign single state of Palestine and then prepared to vote tomorrow on a plan to partition the Holy Land into separate Arab and Jewish countries.

The Arab single state plan, under which the Jews would have lived as a minority, was defeated by 29 to 12 with 14 abstentions and two delegates absent.

The committee, after being in session for more than 13 hours, adjourned at 1117 p. m. and scheduled another session for 1030 a. m. (EST) tomorrow.

Delegates anticipated a committee vote on partition sometime tomorrow and it was expected to go to the General Assembly Wednesday for a final decision where a two-thirds majority is required for adoption.

Fate Is Uncertain

Because of the high number of abstentions in voting on the Arab proposals there was still no adequate indication what would be the fate of the partition plan.

Before the committee turned down the proposal for a single state, one other Arab proposal was rejected and a third ended in a tie vote.

The committee first voted down a two part proposal to refer the legality of the proposed Holy Land partition to the International Court of Justice.

One part, dealing with the legality of creating a partitioned Palestine, was rejected 25 to 18 with 11 abstentions and three delegates absent. A second part, dealing with the legality of United Nations enforcement of partition, was rejected 21 to 20 with 13 abstentions and three delegates absent.

The tie vote came on an Arab proposal regarding Jewish refugees recommending

1. That countries of origin should be requested to take back the Jewish refugees and displaced persons belonging to them.

2. That those Jewish refugees and displaced persons who could not be repatriated should be absorbed in the territories of members of the United Nations.

The vote on this was 16 to 16 with 23 abstentions and two delegates absent. The proposal therefore will be given to the General Assembly in plenary session for decision.

House Approves Citations Against 10 Film Figures

Committee Upheld Overwhelmingly

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 — (AP) — In rapid-fire order, the House today voted contempt citations against 10 Hollywood script writers, directors and producers who refused to say "yes" or "no" when asked whether they were Communists.

By sending the citations to the United States district attorney for prosecution, the House overwhelmingly backed its Committee on Un-American Activities, which had questioned the men in its investigation of alleged Communism in Hollywood.

Maximum punishment for contempt of Congress is a year in jail and $1,000 fine.

The 10 contended that by inquiring into their political beliefs, the committee was violating the Constitution.

One Roll-Call Vote

Although each of the cases was handled separately by the House, there was only one roll-call vote and it thumpingly upheld the committee, 346 to 17.

Rep. Thomas (R-N.J.), chairman of the committee, told the House the 10 were subpoenaed "because our investigation had disclosed that they were Communists or had long records of Communist affiliation and activities."

Opponents of the citations warned against "hysteria" and contended the committee was illegally invading the field of "thought and opinion."

Fifteen Democrats, one Republican and the lone American-Laborite member opposed the citation of Albert Maltz, the only case in which there was a roll-call vote. Favoring it were 209 Republicans and 137 Democrats.

In addition to Maltz, who prepared the scenario for "Destination Tokyo" and "Cloak and Dagger," these men were cited:

Directors Are Cited

Herbert Biberman, director of the "Master Race."

Canada Puts Price Lid On Many Foods

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Canadian government—beset by rising prices and reports of panic buying since the imposition of its "austerity" program—announced today that price ceilings will be reimposed on many processed foods.

Finance Minister Douglas Abbott said he had instructed the dominion's wartime Price and Trade Board to take necessary action to restore controls on the "more important varieties of canned fruits and vegetables."

He said he also ordered the board to be "prepared to reimpose markup (price) control on fresh fruits and vegetables and canned fruit juices."

Abbott, who emphasized that the government did not wish to return to general price control, did not specify when the new controls would go into effect or at what level, but officials of his department said they probably would be imposed within 48 hours.

The "austerity" program, announced last week, is designed to ease a shortage of United States dollars by cutting imports on articles ranging from automobiles and jewelry to fresh fruits. The action has produced a wave of protests from consumers and producers alike. Prices have soared, rocketed as high as $500 in the case of some automobiles.

There have been runs on fruits and vegetables in some places. Canada imports citrus and other fruits from the United States. Most of Canada's wartime price controls on food were lifted September 15. On October 21 the meat ceilings came off.

Egyptian Plot Bared

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 24. (AP)—More than a score of persons were under arrest tonight after the reported discovery of a plot to assassinate by bomb the chief of staff of the Egyptian army, Ibrahim Attala Pasha. Details were not disclosed.

LAMARRES AT HOME—Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Lamarre, who figured prominently in the Senate War Committee investigation into the private wartime activities of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, are shown n their Dayton, Ohio, home yesterday. Mrs. Lamarre, who denied Meyers' testimony that she was his "girl friend," has indicated she will sue the retired Air Forces purchasing officer for slander.

Federal Reserve Board Asks Power To Regulate Installment Purchasing

Western Union's AFL Unions Take Vote On Walkout

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—AFL unions in the Western Union Telegraph Company system today began taking a strike vote among 50,000 workers.

Union officers said it would require about 10 days to complete the poll and that no tentative strike date would be set until the referendum is completed.

A walkout of AFL members in Western Union would tie up telegraph communications across the country.

AFL unions represent workers in virtually all the company's offices except New York City where the CIO American Communications Association represents 7,000 workers.

In announcing the strike vote is being taken, union officials said negotiations with Western Union for a 15 per cent wage increase had collapsed.

British-Soviet Trade Pact Talks Scheduled

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Official sources said today that Britain has scheduled new talks with the Russians, to resume at the end of this week, in a bid to write a full scale British-Soviet trade pact.

In addition the British speeded up trade negotiations with other European states.

A high government informant said Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, will fly to Moscow probably late this week, and that he will make a statement on Soviet-Russian trade negotiations in the House of Commons tomorrow.

Banks Urged To Cut Speculative Loans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board today asked Congress for authority to regulate installment buying permanently, and tonight the government's bank supervisory authorities asked the nation's 15,000 banks to curtail "all loans for speculation in real estate, commodities or securities."

The Retail Credit Institute of America and four other organizations followed the Federal Reserve proposal with pleas to the Senate Banking Committee to turn down President Truman's appeal for reestablishment of consumer credit controls as part of the administration's cost-of-living program.

There have been no statutory restrictions on installment buying since November 1.

"Our country is experiencing a boom of dangerous proportions" the Federal Reserve Board, the Comptroller of the Currency and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation said in a joint appeal to banks to curb speculative credit.

They urged curtailment of speculation-motivated loans either to individuals or business.

"As far as possible, extension of bank credit under existing conditions should be confined to financing that will help production rather than merely increase consumer demands," the three agencies said.

Sen. Tobey (R-NH) chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, told reporters that instead of permanent credit controls he favors a middle course which would grant authority to restore controls until about March 15, 1949.

R. M. Evans, a member of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors, told the committee "the need for regulation is acute at the present time, but the need is not merely a temporary one."

Evans suggested that the board

Stassen Opens Campaign With Eight-Point Program

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 24 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen formally launched his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination tonight with a plan to blend "liberal, forward looking proposals" with "conservative attitudes."

The former Minnesota Governor offered an eight-point domestic and international program to overcome "boom or bust tendencies."

He said he intended to "spell out the details" of the plan in the succeeding months with the hope his suggestions would stimulate others to present "additional facts and alternative proposals."

"I will not do so with an attitude that these things exactly must be done," he declared.

Under this plan, Stassen said, "we might find together the best program that America can follow and that our Republican Party can present."

He appealed frankly for funds as well as votes in his first official campaign appearance. He spoke at the Milwaukee Auditorium.

"The best of progress in America has been made when liberal, forward looking proposals have been blended and adjusted with conservative attitudes into an agreed program of action," Stassen said.

"In that sense," he continued, "I do not clash with the conservatives of the Republican Party, but rather do I seek the area of agreement with them on the basis on which we can join in action by the Congress and the nation."

Stassen gave top priority to housing and what he termed "lack of adequate health service" in outlining his program at the campaign kickoff sponsored by the Republican organization of Wisconsin and the Stassen for President Volunteers of Wisconsin.

"Everyone on Social Security should be covered by an insurance that will pay duly verified and rea-

Bridges Sees Food Shortage In U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 — (AP) — Quick emergency aid to thwart "Communist aggression" in Western Europe was urged by Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) today as another Republican senator, Bridges, of New Hampshire, declared that "meagre rations" at home might result.

Opening Senate debate on the administration proposal to send Italy, France and Austria up to $597,000,000 in stop-gap food and other supplies, Vandenberg said speedy action was necessary because "a new type of Communism"—with terror and sabotage for weapons—"is on the march."

Supporters of the winter relief measure, already approved unanimously by the Vandenberg-headed Foreign Relations Committee, predicted that the Senate would approve the bill on Wednesday or Thursday. (The measure contains no actual funds; an appropriation bill will have to be acted on later).

Deadlock Reported

The House Foreign Affairs Committee, writing its own emergency aid bill, was reported deadlocked on the question of whether this aid should be regarded as a tapering off of help to Europe or as the preliminary to a long-range recovery program.

One member, who asked that his name be withheld, told reporters: "There is a fundamental split in the Republican Party on this, despite what you hear about there not being any disagreement at all."

Bridges, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, said his group was conducting hearings on the question of raising funds for interim relief with "unprecedented" speed.

In suggesting a "strong probability" of food shortages at home, however, he said the committee would grant "no blank check requests."

If the United States ships food to the full extent contemplated by the State Department, and if next year's domestic crops are poor, Bridges said "the American people will be subject not only to rationing but possibly to meager rations."

Bridges, who later conferred with President Truman on the emergency aid question, spoke at a meeting of his committee, which heard Secretary of Agriculture Anderson testify that "we are in a position to supply the necessary aid" and should do so.

International Unity Broken

Vandenberg stepped down from the seat he occupies as president pro tem (presiding officer) of the Senate to launch the drive for quick enactment of stop-gap relief legislation—which, he said, does not commit the Senate to any long-term recovery program for Europe.

Asserting that the international unity which won the war has "fall-

FUSE OF EXPLOSIVE TAX BATTLE LIGHTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (AP)—The fuse of an explosive tax battle was lighted today by separate proposals for removal of about 6,000,000 low-income persons from the tax rolls, and for tax exemption of the first $25,000 of net income of all corporations.

Rep. Ploeser (R-Mo), chairman of the House Small Business Committee, presented the corporate exemption suggestion to the House Ways and Means Committee, to settle "the nationwide controversy over the tax exempt privilege of co-ops."

Simultaneously, though unrelated to Ploeser's proposal, a movement of undetermined strength was astir to put into the next tax-cutting bill a provision for an increase in personal exemptions — probably from the present $500, to $600

This would remove from income taxation millions of the lowest income persons.

Ways and Means Chairman Knutson (R-Minn) told reporters that Ploeser's proposal "is certainly worth looking into."

"The thinking is in the right direction," he said, "tax reduction tends to accelerate business and actually to increase overall tax collections."

But on tax relief for individuals, he stuck by his idea for percentage cuts for all the 48,500,000 taxpayers. Bills embodying this principle were killed twice by presidential vetoes earlier in the year.

Knutson said his new $4,000,000,000 tax slashing measure, to be introduced in mid-December, probably will include no provision for increased individual exemptions.

Jews Look Ahead

JERUSALEM, Nov. 24. (AP)—The Jewish Agency said today it was already recruiting young men and women for government service in a Jewish state, and the Holy Land's two chief rabbis appealed to "all nations, Christian, Islamic and others," for support of a national homeland in Palestine.

UNION PRINTERS STRIKE AGAINST CHICAGO PAPERS

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (INS)—Members of Chicago Local 16 of the AFL-typographical union struck tonight against six Chicago daily newspapers after voting a walkout, 2,330 to 61.

Publishers countered the strike vote immediately with promises to continue getting out editions.

Spokesmen for the city's two morning dailys, the Tribune and the Sun, said they would publish photo-engraved editions.

Both papers announced their editions would carry all regular features and advertising.

The Tribune said it would publish "several" editions. The Sun said it would turn out two editions daily.

First editions of the Tribune and Sun were on the streets before the printers began voting at 6 p. m. The polls closed at 8 p. m. and the results announced before 9 o'clock.

Announcement of the results by Local President John Pilch was greeted with a roar of approval. Union members who had gone to work after voting were notified to return to the meeting hall.

The six newspapers have a total circulation of 2,926,800.

Some Concessions To Labor Are Seen

PARIS, Nov. 24. (AP)—The ranks of striking French workers, already estimated at a million strong, swelled steadily tonight as Premier Robert Schuman met for the first time with his new government to take steps for meeting the threat to the French economy.

Government informants said Schuman had decided on "very energetic" measures to prevent more strikes, coupled with possible concessions to the workers already off their jobs.

The informants did not elaborate on what measures would be taken. Asked if the government would requisition railroads and other strike-bound industries, they replied "it might."

These sources said Schuman might grant the strikers' demand for an increase in the basic minimum monthly wage from 7,000 francs (about $58) to 10,800 francs ($90), provided the workers agree to end the walkouts immediately.

Pay Hike Refusal Predicted

The informants predicted that demands of the Communist-led General Labor Confederation (CGT) for an immediate 25 per cent wage increase pending negotiations for revision of minimums in all brackets would be refused.

Meanwhile, an intimate of Gen. De Gaulle said the General had cancelled a speech scheduled for delivery in Paris Thursday to avoid embarrassing the new government in its struggle with the CGT. Rene Mayer, Radical-Socialist who openly supports De Gaulle's Rally of the French People (RPF), is Minister of Economic Affairs and Finance in the new Cabinet.

These were the latest reports on strike situation:

Postal workers, mostly postmen and truck drivers, began to strike in Paris and the provinces before getting instructions from their union.

Justice Department Seeks Indictments

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP) — The Army and the Justice Department joined forces tonight in a crushing crackdown on Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, retired Air Forces purchasing officer whose private wartime activities were officially denounced as "one of the most shocking scandals ever exposed in the history of our government."

In addition, the balding, 52-year-old officer faced a probable lawsuit brought by pretty Mrs. Mildred Lamarre, who flatly denied Meyers' testimony to Senate war investigators that she was his "girl friend." "A suit for slander seems the only answer," she told reporters.

Acting only two days after the Senate committee heard final testimony that Meyers made $150,000 from a secretly-owned war subcontracting plant while he was active in procurement (purchasing) for the Air Forces, Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington announced:

1—The $461 monthly pension which Meyers has been receiving since he retired from the Army in 1945 on disability grounds—he said he had a nervous breakdown—has been stopped.

2—Steps are being taken to strip the florid, fast-talking General of his military decorations—the Distinguished Service Medal and the Legion of Merit.

3—Meyers will be tried by an Air Force court-martial.

Indictments To Be Sought

Immediately afterwards, the Justice Department announced it would go before a federal grand jury here tomorrow and seek indictments against Meyers.

The charges were not detailed in advance, but the Senate War Investigating Subcommittee which probed Meyers suggested a study of possible war fraud, corruption, perjury and income tax evasion charges.

Attorney General Clark announced last week that the income tax phase of the case would be presented to a grand jury in the city where Meyers filed his tax returns. Officials disclosed today they were filed at Baltimore.

Symington said that, as a result of the Meyers case, the Air Force would set up "a procurement system which reduces to an absolute minimum the chance of an disgraceful occurrence ever happening again."

He said also that the letter revoking the General's decorations was signed by General of the Army Eisenhower, Chief of Staff.

A sidelight to the armed forces crackdown came in the form of a bitter letter from a former Army flyer, Capt. Elmer S. Friedberg, Pottstown, Pa., threatening to resign from the Air Force reserves if "the dealers in blood money are not brought to justice in the near future."

Friedberg, whose letter was made public by Symington, asked if his comrades had died in flames "so men of Meyers' ilk could ply their filthy trade."

Symington Thanks Probers

The Secretary replied with a promise of the fullest possible investigation, a statement that "so far as

Former C. Of C. President, Noted Attorney Dies

BOSTON, Nov. 24. (AP)—William Kenneth Jackson, 61, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and nationally-known attorney, died suddenly at his home tonight.

Jackson, general counsel and a director of the United Fruit Company, served for several years as legal adviser to Gen. George W. Goethals, who engineered the construction of the Panama Canal.

He served as president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce from June, 1946, to June, 1947.

Prisoners Hold Guards In Barricaded Laundry

WAUPUN, Wis., Nov. 24 (AP) — Warden John C. Burke said 69 prisoners were holding four guards as hostages in the barricaded laundry of the state prison and that the National Guard had been alerted.

Sheriffs' offices at Dodge, Fond Du Lac and Milwaukee counties are dispatching deputies, armed with riot guns and tear gas, to the scene.

The men are on a sitdown strike and refuse to come out, Burke said.

He declared Acting Gov. Oscar Rennebohm had been notified and that the calling out of the National Guard had been authorized if necessary, Rennebohm is en route to the prison from Milwaukee.

Burke said the prisoners refused to tell why they were striking and declared they would talk only to A. W. Bayley, director of the Department of Public Welfare.

Post-Operative Hernias Repaired With Tantalum Mesh, Doctors Told

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24 (AP)—A new technique for repairing hernias that develop after a surgical operation—employing a screen-like tantalum mesh to cover the break—was reported today by a Johns Hopkins surgeon.

It's like covering a break in a screen door with ordinary screen wire, except that the tantalum screen is attached to human tissue beneath the skin to overcome bulging of internal structures through a break in the muscle covering and the muscle itself.

Such bulges, or hernias, sometimes occur, Dr. Amos R. Koontz told a reporter, when stitches in the muscle sheath and muscle weaken after an operation. They are most frequent, he said, in stout people whose muscle sheaths (or "fascia") are weakened anyway through the infiltration of fat. Infrequently, they can occur without a previous operation.

Koontz told the opening session of the Southern Medical Association's 41st meeting, in a preliminary report, that he had employed tantalum mesh in five cases of "ventral" (or "belly") hernias with "excellent results" and that one case had gone 17 months without a recurrance of the hernia.

One man, suffering from a hernia following a gall-bladder operation, he said, had contemplated "suicide" after another type of operation had failed to control the hernia. This same man, he said, now is "very comfortable and delighted" after having his hernia repaired with tantalum.

A woman, he said, had undergone two previous operations without control of a post-operative hernia. She is the case which has now gone 17 months without recurrence following tantalum repair.

Draft Law Convictions Of Three Jehovah's Witnesses Are Upheld

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (AP) — Splitting 5 to 4, the Supreme Court today affirmed the convictions of three Jehovah's Witnesses on charges of violating the Selective Service Act by refusing to work at civilian public service camps.

The majority opinion, written by Justice Reed, upheld the classification of the three by their local draft boards as conscientious objectors instead of ministers, which would have exempted them from service.

This brought forth two sharply dissenting opinions. Justice Douglas wrote one in which Justice Black concurred. Justice Murphy wrote the other, with Justice Rutledge concurring.

Douglas said each of the "witnesses" was spending substantial time in the religious activity of preaching their faith and added:

"To deny these claimants their statutory exemption is to disregard these facts and to adopt a definition of minister which contrasts with the classification provided by Congress."

Said Murphy:

"Congress must have intended to exempt from statutory duties those ministers who are forced to labor at secular jobs to earn a living as well as those who preach to more opulent congregations."

Reed said an examination of the record in each case convinced the majority that the local boards had adequate basis to deny the three men classification as ministers.

The court also:

Refused to amend its decree holding the federal government has "paramount" rights in oil-rich lands off the California coast.

Agreed to hear arguments on the question whether a Navada divorce gives the husband the right to stop alimony payments under a New York separation decree.

Refused to rule on a contention of the New Orleans Item that a libel suit against a newspaper should be tried only in the place of publication.

Reaction To Sales Tax Shocks Lane

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 24 (AP) —In his first official homecoming since his election as Governor of Maryland, William Preston Lane, Jr., told a gathering of 250 here that the public reaction to the sales tax had been a "shocking thing to me."

Gov. and Mrs. Lane and their daughter, Dorothy, were guests of honor tonight at a dinner sponsored by the Democratic Club of Washington County.

The Governor pointed out that the federal government takes $700,000,000 worth of taxes a year out of the pockets of Marylanders, and "apparently the people don't understand or complain about this."

He said it had been his administration's "unpleasant duty" to produce additional revenue thorough new taxation, in order to support a program that includes "building the best school system in America," improving the state road system, and raising standards of health. He asserted the state's mental institutions should be raised to the level of "hospitals" rather than the level of "prisons."

Lane said he felt that the "broad mass of the people" are "willing to sacrifice" to reach these objectives, that he "still has the confidence, faith, and trust of the people amongst whom I have lived."

sonable bills which are incurred for medical and hospital expenses in excess of $250 in any one year," he said.

Development of huge projects "of as many as 25,000 units" on contract by private builders, with furnished dwellings sold to owner occupiers and investors would alleviate the housing shortage, Stassen maintained.

Stassen listed six other policies which he said "must be inaugurated to prevent the boom and bust tendencies of our free economy." They included:

Reduction in taxes to specifically give a break to small new businesses.

Maintenance of consumer credit control.

Insistence that agriculture should never be permitted to be distressed.

A labor policy "that is fair and just and maintains a balance between individually managed capital and free organized labor."

Affirmative backing of the United Nations, making clear "we would never follow a policy of appeasement toward anyone."

False Alarm

NEW YORK, Nov. 24. (AP)—The pilot of a Northwest Airlines DC-4, en route from Cleveland to Detroit, radioed tonight that his plane was afire, but later reported the exhaust of the ship was only giving off an unusual amount of smoke, the Civil Aeronautics Authority reported.

"Pretty Please" Slayer Is Sentenced To Chair

COUDERSPORT, Pa., Nov. 24. (AP) —George H. Chapman, 37-year-old woodchopper, was sentenced today to die in the electric chair for the "pretty please" slaying of his wife, Minnie, 37.

Chapman, who pleaded guilty to the charge, was sentenced by Judge Robert R. Lewis in Potter County Court.

James Berger, attorney for Chapman, said he would file an appeal from the sentence to the state supreme court.

The charge was filed by Deputy Sheriff Carl H. Butler, who testified the man made a statement the couple had been drinking the previous night and that he shot her because she refused to say "pretty please."

sia is bringing into play every possible political weapon to combat American leadership.

Conference Failure Considered

Moscow's tactics are reviewed as extremely dangerous because no one knows where they will lead.

In view of the situation that has developed, Marshall is determined to concentrate on the Austrian peace treaty and German unification.

He will not press for acceptance of the proposed American for-power security pact, or for a final German peace treaty.

He is understood to feel that to go after the latter two objectives now would be putting the cart before the horse.

The American delegation meanwhile is said to be considering the possibility of a conference failure.

If it should be decided that it is useless to hold further meetings of the Big Four Foreign Ministers, such problems as the German and Austrian peace settlement may be referred to the United Nations.

Controls Covered Autos

He said the board had in mind controls "in much the same form" as those which expired at the start of this month. In general, those required down payments of one-third with no more than 15 months to take care of the balance.

The controls covered about a dozen items, insluding automobiles, refrigerators and washing machines.

"We believe Congress would defeat its own purpose if it attempted to confine operation of the legislation to an unduly short period. It would be rash to assme that inflationary pressures will subside in the near future," Evans said.

But M. I. Behrels, a director of the Retail Credit Institute, said the restoration of consumer credit controls would be "definitely inflationary."

Dewey Flays U. S. Chinese Policy

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey declared tonight the American government is "bankrupt so far as Chinese policy is concerned" and said that, unless aid is sent China, "the 450 million free people" of that country may well fall into Communist hands.

The United States and "all other nations which resist totalitarian dictatorship are being attacked by all means short of war," Dewey told Columbia University Law School alumni at a dinner, "but the program of Communist world conquest of the remaining nations is further advanced in China, the largest nation of all.

"The cold war, which has become a warm war in Europe, is a very hot and successful war in China. The inescapable fact is that unless we change our national policy immediately there is good reason to believe that the 450 million free people of China will soon fall wholly into Communist hands."

Before launching into a broad attack on the administration's post-war policy toward China, Dewey noted he was speaking on a "non-political occasion" but said "in the state of the world today, there is no subject which is not deeply fraught with heavy political implications."

The titular Republican Party leader said the nation generally was agreed "that we have no choice today whether or not to act in the world emergency."

Alleged Slavers Held Under Bond

PORTSMOUTH, O., Nov. 24 (AP) — Five men and three women, accused of being part of a big ring of white slavers, were placed under $10,000 bond each today as this Ohio River city and its neighbor, Ironton, calmed down from the aftermath of a 36-man FBI raid on the latter's call house district.

The men were held in the Scioto County jail following their arraignment before United States Commissionr Laurence M. Kimble. The latest charged was Robert Worthington, 26, arrested at the Ironton depot Sunday night.

The three women, plus 28 others being held under I8,000 bond each as material witnesses, were given their dinners in the jail this afternoon, preparatory to loading into a chartered bus for transfer to the Cincinnati workhouse, 90 miles west.

Four other defendants were held elsewhere in Columbus, United States Commissioner Robert S. Newlon fixed $10,000 bond each for Mrs. Annida Veazey, alias Irene Wilson, 24, who was accused of inducing a girl to travel from Baltimore to Ironton for immoral purposes, and her husband, William Hardin Veazey, 41, accused of bringing two women from Huntington, W. The other two, Nicholas R. Dinora and Joyce Dinora, were held at Benld, Ill.

asserted Palestine could not take any more Jewish immigrants with serious injury to the economy of the country.

The voting began after the Arab Higher Committee for Palestine charged that the United States and Russia were pursuing a "destructive and subversive policy under divergent motives" in the Middle East and told the United Nations a Jewish country could be established in Palestine only over "our dead bodies."

In a speech filled with threats of violence, Jamal Effendi Husseini, deputy chairman of the Arab committee, declared his people would fight against partition of the Holy Land into Jewish and Arab countries as advocated by the United States, Russia and others.

Before Husseini addressed the committee, Moche Shertok, of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, said that if the United Nations did not make a decision on Palestine, help would be rushed from many countries to aid Jews in the Holy Land.

Egypt earlier had made new predictions of a holy war in the Middle East if Palestine is partitioned.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (AP)—An appeal of Premier Stalin to "speak directly and personally to the American people" on Russia's proposals for a general postwar settlement was made today by a scientist who played a leading role in development of the atomic bomb.

In an open "letter to Stalin," Dr Leo Szilard, sometimes called "the father of the atomic bomb" told the Soviet leader it is "clearly within your power to give the American people a choice between two alternative courses of foreign policy."

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL SAYS:

"Dealers Handling Kaiser-Frazer Cars Offer the Highest Trade-In Allowances"

"I hope that's true of our dealers everywhere!" says Joseph W. Frazer

I don't know that all of the more than 4,000 Kaiser-Frazer dealers are offering "highest trade-in allowances," as reported by the press, but I sincerely hope so. For personally, I feel that the used-car allowances being made by many automobile dealers today are far too low.

We have constantly urged our dealers to offer fair trade-in allowances, based on what cars will bring when they are re-sold, less the cost of handling and reconditioning.

Such fair practices, we tell our dealers, will build for them sound and continuing business.

Before you come to a decision on your next car, I hope you will find out what your Kaiser-Frazer dealer will allow you on your old car. Dealing with him, you'll not only receive fair treatment on both sales and service, but you'll get the most modern automobile built today.

Reaction To Sales Tax Shocks Lane

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 24 (AP) —In his first official homecoming since his election as Governor of Maryland, William Preston Lane, Jr., told a gathering of 250 here that the public reaction to the sales tax had been a "shocking thing to me."

Gov. and Mrs. Lane and their daughter, Dorothy, were guests of honor tonight at a dinner sponsored by the Democratic Club of Washington County.

The Governor pointed out that the federal government takes $700,000,000 worth of taxes a year out of the pockets of Marylanders, and "apparently the people don't understand or complain about this."

He said it had been his administration's "unpleasant duty" to produce additional revenue thorough new taxation, in order to support a program that includes "building the best school system in America," improving the state road system, and raising standards of health. He asserted the state's mental institutions should be raised to the level of "hospitals" rather than the level of "prisons."

Lane said he felt that the "broad mass of the people" are "willing to sacrifice" to reach these objectives, that he "still has the confidence, faith, and trust of the people amongst whom I have lived."

sonable bills which are incurred for medical and hospital expenses in excess of $250 in any one year," he said.

Development of huge projects "of as many as 25,000 units" on contract by private builders, with furnished dwellings sold to owner occupiers and investors would alleviate the housing shortage, Stassen maintained.

Stassen listed six other policies which he said "must be inaugurated to prevent the boom and bust tendencies of our free economy." They included:

Reduction in taxes to specifically give a break to small new businesses.

Maintenance of consumer credit control.

Insistence that agriculture should never be permitted to be distressed.

A labor policy "that is fair and just and maintains a balance between individually managed capital and free organized labor."

Affirmative backing of the United Nations, making clear "we would never follow a policy of appeasement toward anyone."

False Alarm

NEW YORK, Nov. 24. (AP)—The pilot of a Northwest Airlines DC-4, en route from Cleveland to Detroit, radioed tonight that his plane was afire, but later reported the exhaust of the ship was only giving off an unusual amount of smoke, the Civil Aeronautics Authority reported.

"Pretty Please" Slayer Is Sentenced To Chair

COUDERSPORT, Pa., Nov. 24. (AP) —George H. Chapman, 37-year-old woodchopper, was sentenced today to die in the electric chair for the "pretty please" slaying of his wife, Minnie, 37.

Chapman, who pleaded guilty to the charge, was sentenced by Judge Robert R. Lewis in Potter County Court.

James Berger, attorney for Chapman, said he would file an appeal from the sentence to the state supreme court.

The charge was filed by Deputy Sheriff Carl H. Butler, who testified the man made a statement the couple had been drinking the previous night and that he shot her because she refused to say "pretty please."

Shadow Of Possible

sia is bringing into play every possible politcal weapon to combat American leadership.

Conference Failure Considered

Moscow's tactics are reviewed as extremely dangerous because no one knows where they will lead.

In view of the situation that has developed, Marshall is determined to concentrate on the Austrian peace treaty and German unification.

He will not press for acceptance of the proposed American for-power security pact, or for a final German peace treaty.

He is understood to feel that to go after the latter two objectives now would be putting the cart before the horse.

The American delegation meanwhile is said to be considering the possibility of a conference failure.

If it should be decided that it is useless to hold further meetings of the Big Four Foreign Ministers, such problems as the German and Austrian peace settlement may be referred to the United Nations.

be given authority to fix controls for at least three years if Congress were not disposed to make it permanent.

Controls Covered Autos

He said the board had in mind controls "in much the same form" as those which expired at the start of this month. In general, those required down payments of one-third with no more than 15 months to take care of the balance.

The controls covered about a dozen items, including automobiles, refrigerators and washing machines.

"We believe Congress would defeat its own purpose if it attempted to confine operation of the legislation to an unduly short period. It would be rash to assme that inflationary pressures will subside in the near future," Evans said.

But M. I. Behrels, a director of the Retail Credit Institute, said the restoration of consumer credit controls would be "definitely inflationary."

Dewey Flays U. S. Chinese Policy

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey declared tonight the American government is "bankrupt so far as Chinese policy is concerned" and said that, unless aid is sent China, "the 450 million free people" of that country may well fall into Communist hands.

The United States and "all other nations which resist totalitarian dictatorship are being attacked by all means short of war," Dewey told Columbia University Law School alumni at a dinner, "but the program of Communist world conquest of the remaining nations is further advanced in China, the largest nation of all.

"The cold war, which has become a warm war in Europe, is a very hot and successful war in China. The inescapable fact is that unless we change our national policy immediately there is good reason to believe that the 450 million free people of China will soon fall wholly into Communist hands."

Before launching into a broad attack on the administration's post-war policy toward China, Dewey noted he was speaking on a "non-political occasion" but said "in the state of the world today, there is no subject which is not deeply fraught with heavy political implications."

The titular Republican Party leader said the nation generally was agreed "that we have no choice today whether or not to act in the world emergency."

Nine Killed, Five Hurt In Jamaica Theater Fire

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Nov. 24. (AP) —Fire lit by an explosion in film stores in the offices of the Gaiety Theater today killed nine persons, some of whom could be seen clawing futilely at a heavy glass door jammed shut by the blast. Five others were injured.

A door through which the doomed men and women might have escaped onto the street had been walled up only last week in a reconstruction program.

"A new type of Communism is on the march. In the United Nations, which is still the world's best bridge acros this ominous gap, this new aggression boycotts what it cannot defeat or veto.

"It operates not only through ruthless pressures on often terrorized satellites. It operates through internal subversion and sabotage in other lands where its trained and disciplined minorities faithfully contribute to the chaos and confusion which encourage Communistic conquest."

Alleged Slavers Held Under Bond

PORTSMOUTH, O., Nov. 24 (AP) — Five men and three women, accused of being part of a big ring of white slavers, were placed under $10,000 bond each today as this Ohio River city and its neighbor, Ironton, calmed down from the aftermath of a 36-man FBI raid on the latter's call house district.

The men were held in the Scioto County jail following their arraignment before United States Commissionr Laurence M. Kimble. The latest charged was Robert Worthington, 26, arrested at the Ironton depot Sunday night.

The three women, plus 28 others being held under $5,000 bond each as material witnesses, were given their dinners in the jail this afternoon, preparatory to loading into a chartered bus for transfer to the Cincinnati workhouse, 90 miles west.

Four other defendants were held elsewhere in Columbus, United States Commissioner Robert S. Newlon fixed $10,000 bond each for Mrs. Annida Veazey, alias Irene Wilson, 24, who was accused of inducing a girl to travel from Baltimore to Ironton for immoral purposes, and her husband, William Hardin Veazey, 41, accused of bringing two women from Huntington, W. Va., to Ironton, a distance of 20 miles. Their preliminary hearing was set for December 3.

The other two, Nicholas R. Dinora and Joyce Dinora, were held at Benid, Ill.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 24. (AP)—Gov. Lane proclaimed Thursday Thanksgiving Day in Maryland and urged Free State families to join in the "silent" guest movement and contribute to the assistance of "some unfortunate perron abroad."

asserted Palestine could not take any more Jewish immigrants with serious injury to the economy of the country.

The voting began after the Arab Higher Committee for Palestine charged that the United States and Russia were pursuing a "destructive and subversive policy under divergent motives" in the Middle East and told the United Nations a Jewish country could be established in Palestine only over "our dead bodies."

In a speech filled with threats of violence, Jamal Effendi Husseini, deputy chairman of the Arab committee, declared his people would fight against partition of the Holy Land into Jewish and Arab countries as advocated by the United States, Russia and others.

Before Husseini addressed the committee, Moche Shertok, of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, said that if the United Nations did not make a decision on Palestine, help would be rushed from many countries to aid Jews in the Holy Land.

Egypt earlier had made new predictions of a holy war in the Middle East if Palestine is partitioned.

"Father Of Atom Bomb" Appeals To Premier Stalin

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (AP)—An appeal of Premier Stalin to "speak directly and personally to the American people" on Russia's proposals for a general postwar settlement was made today by a scientist who played a leading role in development of the atomic bomb.

In an open "letter to Stalin," Dr Leo Szilard, sometimes called "the father of the atomic bomb" told the Soviet leader it is "clearly within your power to give the American people a choice between two alternative courses of foreign policy."

If deterioration of American-Soviet relations continues for another six months, he added, a "fateful change" might take root in the minds of the American people and "more likely than not the further course of events will be out of the control of the two governments involved. x x x"

Advice To The Lovelorn

There's No Excuse For Second Mistake, 19-Year-Old Girl Is Advised

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going with a fellow for a month and a half almost every night. I care for him very much and he feels the same way about me. I am 19, he is 21, and he has told me that he is only out for a good time.

About two months ago, I was jilted by a sailor with whom I had been going for a year and a half. We had planned to be married, so I had an affair with him, as I thought it was all right. Recently I told this fellow I am now going with about it and he felt bad about it, and last week I entered an affair with him, too, although I knew it was wrong.

I don't know where I stand exactly, and I do need advice. Please help me. I will do as you say.

"DISGUSTED"

Dear "Disgusted":

I don't know exactly what sort of advice you are looking for, nor what you expect me to tell you to do. You certainly have sense enough to know that you have been doing wrong. Do you need somebody to tell you to stop it and start behaving properly?

A girl with character would be careful not to make such a mistake once; let alone repeat it; and it is certainly particularly hard to understand in your case, since you say the chap you are going with now told you plainly he was only out for a good time.

My advice, since you ask it, is that you stop going with this boy and keep away in the future from his type. But I wonder if you are going to take it.

Christmas Gifts For Boy Friends

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am very perplexed about giving a gift to a boy friend at Christmas time. I am 15 and the boy is 17 and out of school. I don't go steady with him, as my mother won't allow it, but I do go out with him every Sunday, usually roller-skating.

I expect to receive a gift from him, as he gave me a birthday gift, but my mother doesn't think it proper for me to buy him one. I thought something impersonal, like cigarettes or a wallet, would be all right. But I don't know what to do.

"PERPLEXED"

Dear "Perplexed":

I see no reason at all why you should not give your boy friend a Christmas gift if you would like to do so. To exchange simple and inexpensive gifts does not indicate that your friendship is anything but a normal companionship between a boy and a girl.

Of course you are right in thinking it should be an impersonal type of thing. Cigarettes would be appropriate, or a book on some subject in which he is interested; perhaps a game, records, etc.

Parents' Consent Necessary

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Would a girl under 18 and a boy under 21 need their parents' consent to get married in the following states: Oregon, Arkansas, Kansas, Montana, New Mexico, Nevada?

"C.V.V."

Dear "C.V.C.":

How many states are you thinking of getting married in? And I would think it foolish for girls and boys as young as the ages you mention to marry without their parents' consent, anyway.

However, the answer to your question is, a girl under 18 and a boy under 21 cannot be married in any of the states you list without their parents' consent.

Better think the whole thing over a while longer.

There's No Excuse For Second Mistake, 19-Year-Old Girl Is Advised

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going with a fellow for a month and a half almost every night. I care for him very much and he feels the same way about me. I am 19, he is 21, and he has told me that he is only out for a good time.

About two months ago, I was jilted by a sailor with whom I had been going for a year and a half. We had planned to be married, so I had an affair with him, as I thought it was all right. Recently I told this fellow I am now going with about it and he felt bad about it, and last week I entered an affair with him, too, although I knew it was wrong.

I don't know where I stand exactly, and I do need advice. Please help me. I will do as you say.

"DISGUSTED"

Dear "Disgusted":

I don't know exactly what sort of advice you are looking for, nor what you expect me to tell you to do. You certainly have sense enough to know that you have been doing wrong. Do you need somebody to tell you to stop it and start behaving properly?

A girl with character would be careful not to make such a mistake once; let alone repeat it; and it is certainly particularly hard to understand in your case, since you say the chap you are going with now told you plainly he was only out for a good time.

My advice, since you ask it, is that you stop going with this boy and keep away in the future from his type. But I wonder if you are going to take it.

Christmas Gifts For Boy Friends

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am very perplexed about giving a gift to a boy friend at Christmas time. I am 15 and the boy is 17 and out of school. I don't go steady with him, as my mother won't allow it, but I do go out with him every Sunday, usually roller-skating.

I expect to receive a gift from him, as he gave me a birthday gift, but my mother doesn't think it proper for me to buy him one. I thought something impersonal, like cigarettes or a wallet, would be all right. But I don't know what to do.

"PERPLEXED"

Dear "Perplexed":

I see no reason at all why you should not give your boy friend a Christmas gift if you would like to do so. To exchange simple and inexpensive gifts does not indicate that your friendship is anything but a normal companionship between a boy and a girl.

Of course you are right in thinking it should be an impersonal type of thing. Cigarettes would be appropriate, or a book on some subject in which he is interested; perhaps a game, records, etc.

Parents' Consent Necessary

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Would a girl under 18 and a boy under 21 need their parents' consent to get married in the following states: Oregon, Arkansas, Kansas, Montana, New Mexico, Nevada?

"C.V.V."

Dear "C.V.C.":

How many states are you thinking of getting married in? And I would think it foolish for girls and boys as young as the ages you mention to marry without their parents' consent, anyway.

However, the answer to your question is, a girl under 18 and a boy under 21 cannot be married in any of the states you list without their parents' consent.

Better think the whole thing over a while longer.

U. S. Should Play No Favorites In France

The Communist conspiracy to defeat the Marshall Plan in Europe has plunged France into her worst national crisis since the military defeat of 1940. Leon Blum, veteran leader of the minority Socialist Party, tried and failed to form a Center and moderate Left coalition to halt inflation and arrest the tidal wave of strikes and demonstrations. The Popular Republican, Robert Schuman, has succeeded in winning a vote of confidence from the National Assembly.

In this dangerous situation it is imperative that our State Department continue its policy of working with any non-Communist French government which has the support of parliament—and play no favorites otherwise! If Schuman can form a stable government (and it appears now that he will) and work with the Western democracies, well and good. If other attempts fail and France turns to de Gaulle, we should work with him, unless and until he abandons the principles has has advocated up to now.

There is a group within the State Department and a number of more or less leftists commentators who choose to regard de Gaulle as a "neo-Fascist" from whom the United States must rescue French democracy. Just before the recent local elections in France our diplomatic observers reported to Washington that the de Gaulle Rally would go nowhere.

Actually, of course, the Rally emerged as the largest party in France. That dismally wrong prediction was probably based on wishful thinking. The observers wanted the Ramadier coalition to win because they approved his policies. The same people "plugged" Blum for the same reason.

There is a great deal about de Gaulle that Americans don't know and would like to know. He might some day turn out to be a dictator. But, on the record, of his actions and words to date, he seems a patriotic Frenchman with some conservative and some radical ideas, with a very difficult personality and with strong convictions about the need for constitutional reform in France.

Naturally, a life-long Socialist like Blum dislikes de Gaulle. But it is something else again when an American commentator like Walter Lippmann writes that de Gaulle stands for a dictatorship of the Right, having "cut himself loose from the restraints of constitutionalism." That ignores the fact that de Gaulle has repeatedly declared he would never become premier until the French people, in a national referendum, voted a new constitution patterned roughly after the American model.

The United States should not tie any political strings to the Marshall Plan. But neither should we play any favorites among the non-Communist parties of Western Europe. To do so might lead to considerable trouble for Europe and for ourselves.

It Was Quite A Menagerie— Roosevelt Cabinet Makeup

Harry H. Woodring, one of late President Roosevelt's Secretaries of War, makes a sweeping and pungent characterization of New Deal Cabinet members, in whom he finds a weakness for "displaying grudges, betraying intimate official associations and friendship through statements and magazine articles for dollars and cents."

He seems to refer particularly to the "meddling" propensities of former Treasury Secretary Morgenthau and to the testimony before a Congress committee of the "ambition-bitten Louis Johnson, erstwhile Assistant Secretary of War." The actual facts and records, he declares, have been "incorrectly presented by birds that have fouled the nests of public service"—which of course, is going some.

He might go further, for the quarrelsome relations, let us call them "infelicities," among the members of the Roosevelt Administration were notorious. State Secretary Hull did not get along with his undersecretary, Sumner Welles. Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones and Vice President Wallace conducted so bitter a public quarrel that the President had practically to knock their heads together.

Attorney General Jackson, promoted to the Supreme Court, came out with a savage blast against Hugo Black, a fellow justice, Ickes. Secretary of the Interior, made himself impossible to President Truman, and had to get out. As Secretary of the Interior, Henry Wallace tried to blow up America's foreign policy as promulgated by Secretary of State Byrnes, and he, too, was fired. Since then he has publicly identified the Truman policy as "Wall Street's."

There is more of the same. Ickes is at work on his memoirs. Postmaster General Farley's account pictures Roosevelt (uhconsciously, perhaps) as a snob, and as a public official whose personal word did not amount to much. Without pursuing the subject further and taking note of Ed "Belgian Block" Flynn and Harry "Spend-and-Tax" Hopkins, both Cabinet worthies, we close with the possibly partisan comment that the two Republican members of the Roosevelt political family, Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox, carried themselves with a discretion which is—or should be—a Republican tradition.

Which Is Bigger?

It's important to be big in Los Angeles, though it is better to be colossal. Perhaps that is why the Southern California oasis is now putting Philadelphia's nose out of joint by claiming to be the third largest city in the United States.

The 1940 census ranked Los Angeles fifth, behind New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Detroit. Los Angeles then was credited with a population of 1,504,277. Detroit with 1,623,000, Philadelphia with 1,931,000.

The Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, at a recent dinner honoring Pennsylvania's movie actor, James Stewart, was outraged to receive a telegram from the Los Angeles Chamber, stating that the message of congratulations came from the "third largest city in the United States." This caused Vice President Frank G. Binswanger, of the Quaker City Chamber to dash to Los Angeles to present "positive proof" that Philadelphia is still number three.

Probably the argument will not be settled until 1950 census figures are released, and they are likely to show that Detroit as well as Los Angeles has topped Philadelphia in population.

Merely to get it straight, mince pie will not be de rigueur until along about the Holidays; these are the Pumpkin Pie Weeks.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

REST IN VIRUS PNEUMONIA

DURING the last 10 years so much progress has been made in the treatment of the common types of pneumonia that the disease is no longer dreaded. The use of penicillin and the sulfonamides is responsible for such advances but much research will be needed to solve the atypical forms.

Virus pneumonia is an example of an obstinate variety. It is looked upon as a newcomer among chest ailments yet the disease is probably new. Our grandfathers undoubtedly encountered it but in those days, physicians were interested in whether lobar or bronchopneumonia existed. The change came when certain vaccines and the wonder drugs were introduced, which means that it is more important to know the species of germ present. Old terminology was discarded and the names, pneumococcic or streptococcic pneumonia were substituted.

But in many pneumonia victims the laboratory was unable to find the causative organism. This puzzled the scientists until the virus was implicated. On further study it was shown that not one but many different viruses can cause the malady.

At first the condition resembles the flu, with fatigue and generalized body aching. The sufferer feels chilly, the temperature rises, and a hacking cough develops. Instead of improving in a day or two as might be expected, the disturbance continues. The thermometer reading varies between 99 and 103 degrees F. and the individual feels hot one moment and cold the next. Cough is particularly distressing and does not respond to the usual remedies. It comes in spells and, after barking violently for a moment or two, the patient falls back on the bed utterly exhausted. After several such bouts the chest and abdominal muscles become sore. No sputum is raised at first but later it becomes thick and purulent.

In general the patient does not appear or feel as ill as those afflicted with the more typical pneumonias. Exceptions to the rule occur, however, as the disorder can be severe and occasionally fatal. But the majority get well even tho symptoms persist; fever sometimes remains for several weeks. An infection of this kind often leaves the individual weak for a long time. Many break out in a profuse sweat after the slightest exertion. Ultimately, strength returns and complete recovery ensues.

The diagnosis is made by examination, X-rays, and laboratory tests. The number of white blood cells is rarely elevated in contrast to chest diseases of other origins. Isolating the virus from the secretion of the throat is a difficult and costly project, hence is rarely done.

The sulfonamides or penicillin are used frequently but seldom prove effective. Bed rest is essential. Codeine and aminophylline are used to combat cough and the inhalation of steam helps also. Otherwise symptoms are treated as they arise.

SHE KNOWS BETTER

J. N. writes: My doctor orders me to take a cold nerve bath but I always thought a hot bath was better. I am 15 years old and so nervous that he wants me out of school.

REPLY

I doubt if it will make much difference but since you sought the physician's advice, why not listen to it.

TINGLING LEGS

Mrs. C. writes: For many years I have had a sensation of pins and needles in my legs. Could this be a manifestation of hardening of the arteries?

REPLY

Yes, but there are other possibilities such as anemia and nervous disorders.

TIME TO CURE

B. E. R. writes: What is the length of time required to cure syphilis?

REPLY

It varies, depending upon the duration of the disease. Alleged cures have occurred in 10 days, but many authorities feel that it is safer to continue treatment intermittently for 18 months. Thereafter, frequent blood tests should be made for three years.

PROSTATE

W. R. writes: What are the symptoms of an enlarged prostate?

REPLY

This depends upon the degree of enlargement but in general frequent, painful, and sluggish urination are the most common manifestations. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on enlarged prostate.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

G.T.E. writes: What can be done for high blood pressure?

REPLY

There are many helpful procedures including the reduction of overweight and decreasing every day stress and strain. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hypertension.

INTERNAL RACKET

L. Z. writes: What makes your stomach growl?

REPLY

Who, me? Such noises originate from the movements of the contents of the intestinal tract. They are going on all the time but seldom become loud enough to be heard.

VITAMIN SHORTAGE

K. W. writes: What causes a vitamin B deficiency?

REPLY

The most common cause is an inadequate intake of vitamin B foods. This may occur in the presence of a fad diet, alcoholism, or various illnesses. Sometimes gastrointestinal tract disorders do not permit proper utilization of the substance even tho an ample supply is taken. Too many carobydrates may be a factor.

SICK HEADACHES

A. J. writes: Where do migraine headaches come from?

REPLY

Pain originates in the blood vessels of the brain. First these structures are contracted due to spasm and then they become overstretched.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Cold Print Cannot Describe Enthusiasm And Generosity Of Americans In Building Friendship Bridge To Europe With Food To Win Peace

Says DREW PEARSON

ABOARD THE SOUTHWEST SPECIAL FRIENDSHIP TRAIN, Nov. 24—A lot of my editors are probably wondering when I am going to quit collecting food and get back to being a newspaperman (so, also, is my wife). However, when the people of the Southwest announce that they've been blessed with a big wheat crop and want to share it with others, and when they go out and raise some 150 carloads of wheat with no urging from anyone and no help from their Government—then that, in my opinion, is news. Furthermore, it's invigorating, stimulating news that I get a lot more kick out of writing about than I do peeking through keyholes in Washington.

One of the hardest things to tell in print, however, is the enthusiasm, the generosity, and the enterprise of the American people when it comes to giving food for friendship. This was the most spontaneous movement toward world brotherhood and friendship this country has probably ever seen and chiefly behind it is the belief that, whereas battleships can win wars, food can help win the peace.

Warm, Thrilling Response

For two weeks now I have been riding three different sections of the Friendship Train, from Sunny California, through snowy Wyoming, across the brown plains of Kansas and through the smoke-begrimed industrial cities of Pennsylvania. But, regardless of geography, weather or industry, the response has been equally warm and thrilling.

This has not been government aid from diplomat to diplomat, but from people to people. Every conceivable cross section of American life has co-operated. Railroads and railroad employees, small towns and big towns, all religions, all races, rich and poor—all turned out at the railroad stations to help build the bridge of friendship between Europe and the United States.

In Ft. Worth, Texas, big-hearted Amon Carter, who usually gives away broad-brimmed Texas hats, this time gave away 15 carloads of flour (along with other Ft. Worth residents) and had the flour bags especially stamped with messages to the French and Italian people. . . . In Secaucus, N. J., the farmers, under the leadership of Mayor John J. Kane, sold pigs and contributed the cash equivalent of one pig each to the Friendship Train—total $2,800. . . . David C. White, a big wheat farmer 20 miles south of Dodge City, Kansas, gave five carloads of wheat because, as he expressed it, "in the 25th chapter of Matthew, Christ says—'as ye have done unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.'" . . . Dick Long, managing editor of the Wichita Eagle, practically quit being a newspaperman in order to organize this Southwest Special of the Friendship Train. . . . Hundreds of newspapers used up tons of precious newsprint telling their readers about the train and scores of radio stations sacrificed valuable advestising to do the same.

Children Make Sacrifices

In Sedgwick County, the school children collected wastepaper, ran errands, saved their money until they raised enough to buy one whole carload of wheat (and that's a lot of wheat) . . . In Philadelphia, the children of the John Bartram High School contributed seven times as much money as the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association-Joe Grundy's high-tariff outfit which used to write U. S. tariff laws. . . . In Grand Island, Nebraska, the teamsters union, headed by Bill Noble, furnished twenty men to load cars. . . . In Trenton, N. J., Mrs. Laura Marsavitz, a teacher in a Negro school, had won a war prize for making parachutes. The prize was a Bible. When the train passed through Trenton she came to the station with her school children and asked that the Bible be sent with the train to Europe.

In Newton, Kansas, the Mennonite church scoured the adjacent wheat-growing counties until 28 cars of wheat and flour were attached to the Friendship Train. . . . The Tall Corn Network in Iowa staged an all-out radio drive for food and funds, later reported that, for the first time, people who phoned in to the radio stations pledging money gave more than they pledged.

Down in Texas the eight district managers of the Lions Club worked so intensively that carload after carload came in from all over Texas—Long View, Austin, Amarillo, Plainview, Lubbock, Sherman, Beaumont. Other service clubs, plus local radio stations and newspapers, worked with them. The Rock Island Railroad and the Missouri Pacific helped the Santa Fe by bringing these off-the-mainline cars to Wichita, where the Santa Fe Southwest Special started. In Pennsylvania, the Reading Railroad also cooperated with the Penn RR in hauling off five cars.

Outstanding Response

Greenville, S. C. decided to attach one boxcar to the Friendship Train, but, before it finished, hooked on two. Reported Broadus Bailey of Greenville: "For many years I have helped our community campaigns, but never have I seen such a voluntary response."

In Toledo, Ohio, Arthur Wieland, vice president of Willys Overland, organized a fleet of station wagons and jeeps to pick up donations.

Up in the mountains of Central Pennsylvania, well off the main line of the train, Lockhaven and Renovo insisted on loading cars. So did Williamsport, Clearfield, Bellefonte, Bedford, Tyrone and other off-line towns . . . Because California didn't have much time to organize, the citizens of Berkeley raised $4,000 after the train left. The momentum of Oakland's drive also carried over, so energetic Mayor Joseph E. Smith has just reported that city raised a total of $46,613. . . . Los Angeles, the starting point for the first Friendship Train, also raised $35,000 after the train left. They couldn't stop the money from rolling in.

Biggest Shortage In America Is "Work Shortage;" Dangerous

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—Everybody has known that it costs much more to build a house today than ever before, yet few people have known why. Here are some of the reasons, as derived from a national survey of about 60 cities:

A bricklayer before the war used to lay 1,000 bricks a day, for which he averaged $13.68 per day in wages. A bricklayer now lays 540 bricks per day, for which he receives $18.96.

Wages in every one of the building trades have risen considerably and yet tile setters are producing 50 per cent less work, carpenters 43 per cent less, plumbers 44 per cent less, lathers 43 per cent less, electricians 41 per cent less, plasterers 37 per cent less, cement finishers 36 per cent less, painters 40 per cent less per man than before the war.

The average over-all drop in output per man in the building trades is 38 per cent. The wages per hour in the building trades nevertheless are 76 per cent higher than in 1940.

How any nation can beat inflation or keep solvent and prevent an economic collapse and depression by insisting on more-pay-for-less-work is one of the questions which goes unanswered. Mostly it is because the facts have been suppressed.

Some Traceable To Truman

Political government doesn't like to disclose these facts because some of the blame for encouraging more-pay-for-les-work would be located in the policies and speeches of President Truman.

Labor unions do not like to disclose these facts because they prefer to shift the line of attack to the price front. They prefer to spread the impression that prices are high because profits are abnormal. It is significant that the unions will not give out detailed figures on the output per man or the reasons for the drop.

Such figures as are available come from contractors who have made a survey of results as tabulated from 60 cities.

If employers get together to restrict output they would run afoul of the anti-trust laws governing monopoly and restraint of trade. But labor unions are exempted from prosecution for maintaining monopolies. The Congress of the United States thus far has been intimidated by the laborunion bosses and so have many of the city governments where the rackets in city ordinances and regulations and inspection systems are open secrets. The public hasn't been awakened to the real story of why veterans who fought for their freedoms and for fair play in a democratic system come home to find it almost impossible to build a house at low cost because there is a dictatorship by the few against the many.

President Truman has made many recommendations about price control and credit control but he hasn't ventured to get at the real reason for the high costs of housing—as plainly illegal and within the province of government to cure as are the activities of any monopolists now being attacked by the Department of Justice.

Truman Erects Smoke Screen

About all the Truman administration has done is to erect a smoke screen by persecuting real-estate men for maintaining the same rate of commission on sales that they charged before the war—an insignificant factor in building arts. Collusion by union bosses in slowing down production while demanding higher wages seems to have been overlooked entirely by the administration and incidentally by the Republican strategists who apparently don't know a good issue when one stares them in the face.

Prices are up 93 per cent on an average for building materials since 1940 and the cost of residential building is about 125 per cent higher than pre-war. Anybody can figure out why. If output per man is less, costs go up. In bricklaying, for instance, the hourly wages are up 72 per cent above 1940, the output has dropped about 60 per cent per man hours and it all figures up to an increase of 219 per cent in wage costs

No country ever was headed more plainly for economic disaster than the United States unless an aroused public opinion takes a look at the facts about the drop in output and does something about it. Since the public is busy trying to struggle with these slowdowns in building and high prices, maybe Congress, as a representative body, will take up the task. The biggest shortage in America is a "work shortage" brought about by a conspiracy to limit or restrict production.

Curb On Prices, Not Tax Cut Is Urged First For Congress

By MARK SULLIVAN

As Congress gets under way, party leaders and official committees, looking forward to the regular session in January, move toward decision about whether there shall be tax reduction. It is less a clear-cut conflict than a groping, and less a debate than a discussion. All agree that tax reduction does not stand alone—that the question of reducing or not reducing must be considered in its relation to two other subjects, aid to Europe and reduction of the national debt.

Contrasting points of view, which are by no means wholly in contrast, were stated by a Republican and a Democrat at a public meeting at New York last week. The Republican floor leader in the House, Representative Charles A. Halleck, of Indiana, held that, within the national budget as now set up, there can be and should be all three — some tax reduction, some reduction of the national debt and aid to Europe. Mr. Halleck's summing up, while having some touch of partisanship and argumentative eloquence, was concrete and definite:

"Our position is that, by courageous, honest, statesmanlike and careful action, we should be able to meet our requirements abroad, provide all necessary governmental services and functions, begin the orderly liquidation of our national debt and also give the people much-needed and well-deserved tax relief."

Snyder Asks "Revision"

At the same meeting, an authoritative Democratic position was stated by Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder. To grasp his position a distinction should be borne in mind between "tax reduction" and "tax revision." The latter terms means a readjustment of rates and methods, looking toward an improved system, rather than out-right reduction.

"I am convinced that before deciding on tax reductions, the Congress should first consider foreign aid within a balanced budget; second, adequate debt reduction, and third, equitable tax revision," he said.

In these two views, and in actual facts, the three—tax reduction, reduction of the national debt and foreign aid — compete with each other as demands on the national Treasury, and in their competition seem to chase each other around in a circle. But above all three is a condition which determines each and much else besides.

The recent meeting at which Democratic Secretary Snyder and Republican Floor Leader Halleck stated their positions took place Nov. 20. Two days later, from the government Bureau of Labor Statistics and other official or authoritative sources came figures about prices and cost of living. These were repetitions of an old story. More accurately they were the latest chapters in a continued story. The wholesale price index at an all-time record high, 66 per cent above pre-war. The increase in cost of living since the middle of last year 23 per cent, the increase in cost of food, 40 per cent.

Inflation Fight Is First

That spells inflation, not merely spells it but shouts it. It goes on at an accelerated pace, reflected in the reports given out periodically which repeatedly add to the figures the ominous words "new high."

The new reports that came out last week shout to Congress. They tell that body and its leaders that all they say about tax reduction is futile unless inflation is checked. For if inflation goes on, the figures about tax reduction, and about the related matters of foreign aid and debt reduction, would become out of date. If the wheat and fuel and other goods to be sent to Europe for aid the coming winter go higher in price, the present estimate of what Congress is asked to appropriate, 597 million dollars, would become too small. As for the larger estimates for later aid under the Marshall plan, these would become astronomically larger if in future months and years prices should become cumulatively higher.

These conditions prescribe a judgment. The judgment would postpone tax reduction to the arresting of inflation. Only after Congress has taken the necessary steps to this end, and after the steps have had effect, after there has been an actual check to rising prices—only then can Congress have dependable data to determine whether there can be tax reduction. Not merely tax reduction as an actual step, but even discussion about the possibility of it, is untimely until the checking of inflation has been accomplished.

Additional Reminders

Now that we are to give Europe additional billions of dollars in terms of goods and services, it is wise to go back to Bretton Woods where the World Bank and the International Fund were created to see precisely what it was that the American people were told.

Henry Morgenthau, in explaining the need for a World Bank, spoke roseately of the investment of private capital in the war-devastated countries when peace comes. The World Bank was to do this:

". . . With abundant capital, the devastated countries can move steadily toward rehabilitation and a constantly improving standard of living. Nothing could be more conducive to political stability and to international collaboration. Without adequate supplies of capital, however, recovery in Europe and Asia will be slow and sporadic, and economic discontent and international bitterness will in time assure disturbing proportions."

Nothing of the sort happened. In a word, hope springs eternal in the human breast—but what are the facts?

Franklin D. Roosevelt, in 1944, in his message to the Bretton Woods delegates, said:

". . . Commerce is the life blood of a free society. We must see to it that the arteries which carry that bloodstream are not clogged again, as they have been in the past, by artificial barriers created through senseless economic rivalries.

"Economic diseases are highly communicable. It follows, therefore, that the economic health of every country is a proper matter of concern to all its neighbors, near and distant. Only through a dynamic and a soundly expanding world economy can the living standards of individual nations be advanced to levels which will permit a full realization of our hopes for the future."

To quote Henry Morgenthau again:

". . . Prosperity, like peace, is indivisible. We cannot afford to have it scattered here or there among the fortunate or to enjoy it at the expense of others. Poverty, wherever it exists, is menacing to us all and undermines the well-being of each of us. It can no more be localized than war, but spreads and saps the economic strength of all the more-favored areas of the earth. We know now that the thread of economic life in every nation is inseparably woven into a fabric of world economy . . ."

The International Latex Corporation, Playtex Park, Dover, Del., presented an advertisement "as a public service," in which it is stated:

"Today (1945) we have a second chance to build a structure of lasting peace. We all know there will not be a third. That is why we have joined the other United Nations to plan the political machinery for preventing aggression.

"And that is why, at Bretton Woods, we joined in planning the machinery for expanding world trade, for assuring prosperity, jobs, and security for all peoples."

John Maynard Keynes, Chairman of the British delegation to Bretton Woods, told that conference that there would be a "crisis" without the world bank, but that "it would be a great mistake" to confuse the bank, the stabilization fund and the long time it will take Great Britain to repay her debts, exclusive of lend-lease, which he placed at $12,000,000,000. Keynes also said that as a result of Bretton Woods, the international fund would make gold "a monarch subject to constitutional limitations," whatever that might mean.

Of course, the fund has long been in existence, but if gold is any kind of a monarch, it is one without a throne.

Sumner Welles wrote:

". . . But the surest way of guaranteeing the profitable participation by the American people in world trade in the future will be through their realization that international commerce will not exist unless international confidence and international purchasing power are restored, and that such restoration will be immeasurably retarded unless they are prepared to cooperate fully with other nations in the establishment of such agencies as those planned at the recent monetary conference."

Well, there is a lot more of the same, but none of it has worked out as suggested. Instead came the British Loan, the Stop-Gap financing and the various Marshall Plans. The roseately optimistic still continue singing that only American billions are necessary to save us from the next catastrophe. What saved us from the last crisis?

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Aim Is Everything

I was interested in the statement of Coach Tuss McLaughry of Dartmouth College, who is quoted as having said that he always took his football team into a game expecting to win. That was the goal. It should be the goal of us all whenever we set out to gain an objective.

Again in these talks I want to quote from that interesting and inspiring little book by W. MacNeile Dixon, "An Apology for the Arts." He wrote: "To have always in mind the highest kind of excellence is a great thing in any art. To be yourself the severest critic of your work is a second great thing. To despise easy success is a third."

There is a thrill to expectancy—to the feeling that you are going to win in whatever you do, no matter what the result. It is far better to aim high for something that you most dearly want, and even fail in the attempt, than to aim at nothing definite—and get what you don't want!

There are always intermediate gains all along the line to a high endeavor. Like the athlete, who may fail in his attempt to win, he has not wholly lost. If he has trained faithfully, he has much to show—and he may still expect to win at a latter date. None of us win all the time, excepting in degrees.

It is not a bad thing to have a little fear of the high exploits of others, for then we may dismiss many of the futile and mediocre things and concentrate upon substantial steps toward the higher exploits. It is a valuable decision to keep the mind employed toward a set standard of excellence and not depart from it. Once established there is magic to its pulling power!

Great art and great literature remain. Nothing disturbs them. An aged monk, upon looking upon the masterpiece, Titian's "The Last Supper," remarked to an admiring painter: "I look at them (the figures) until I sometimes think that they are the realities, and we are but the shadows."

We can stand still and watch, and even do a deal of thinking as we stand—but the procession passes on—and we are not of it! It is better to get in that procession, be both in it and of it—and keep expecting a place at its head.

U. S. Should Play No Favorites In France

The Communist conspiracy to defeat the Marshall Plan in Europe has plunged France into her worst national crisis since the military defeat of 1940. Leon Blum, veteran leader of the minority Socialist Party, tried and failed to form a Center and moderate Left coalition to halt inflation and arrest the tidal wave of strikes and demonstrations. The Popular Republican, Robert Schuman, has succeeded in winning a vote of confidence from the National Assembly.

In this dangerous situation it is imperative that our State Department continue its policy of working with any non-Communist French government which has the support of parliament—and play no favorites otherwise! If Schuman can form a stable government (and it appears now that he will) and work with the Western democracies, well and good. If other attempts fail and France turns to de Gaulle, we should work with him, unless and until he abandons the principles has has advocated up to now.

There is a group within the State Department and a number of more or less leftists commentators who choose to regard de Gaulle as a "neo-Fascist" from whom the United States must rescue French democracy. Just before the recent local elections in France our diplomatic observers reported to Washington that the de Gaulle Rally would go nowhere.

Actually, of course, the Rally emerged as the largest party in France. That dismally wrong prediction was probably based on wishful thinking. The observers wanted the Ramadier coalition to win because they approved his policies. The same people "plugged" Blum for the same reason.

There is a great deal about de Gaulle that Americans don't know and would like to know. He might some day turn out to be a dictator. But, on the record, of his actions and words to date, he seems a patriotic Frenchman with some conservative and some radical ideas, with a very difficult personality and with strong convictions about the need for constitutional reform in France.

Naturally, a life-long Socialist like Blum dislikes de Gaulle. But it is something else again when an American commentator like Walter Lippmann writes that de Gaulle stands for a dictatorship of the Right, having "cut himself loose from the restraints of constitutionalism." That ignores the fact that de Gaulle has repeatedly declared he would never become premier until the French people, in a national referendum, voted a new constitution patterned roughly after the American model.

The United States should not tie any political strings to the Marshall Plan. But neither should we play any favorites among the non-Communist parties of Western Europe. To do so might lead to considerable trouble for Europe and for ourselves.

It Was Quite A Menagerie— Roosevelt Cabinet Makeup

Harry H. Woodring, one of late President Roosevelt's Secretaries of War, makes a sweeping and pungent characterization of New Deal Cabinet members, in whom he finds a weakness for "displaying grudges, betraying intimate official associations and friendship through statements and magazine articles for dollars and cents."

He seems to refer particularly to the "meddling" propensities of former Treasury Secretary Morgenthau and to the testimony before a Congress committee of the "ambition-bitten Louis Johnson, erstwhile Assistant Secretary of War." The actual facts and records, he declares, have been "incorrectly presented by birds that have fouled the nests of public service"—which of course, is going some.

He might go further, for the quarrelsome relations, let us call them "infelicities," among the members of the Roosevelt Administration were notorious. State Secretary Hull did not get along with his undersecretary, Sumner Welles. Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones and Vice President Wallace conducted so bitter a public quarrel that the President had practically to knock their heads together.

Attorney General Jackson, promoted to the Supreme Court, came out with a savage blast against Hugo Black, a fellow justice, Ickes. Secretary of the Interior, made himself impossible to President Truman, and had to get out. As Secretary of the Interior, Henry Wallace tried to blow up America's foreign policy as promulgated by Secretary of State Byrnes, and he, too, was fired. Since then he has publicly identified the Truman policy as "Wall Street's."

There is more of the same. Ickes is at work on his memoirs. Postmaster General Farley's account pictures Roosevelt (unconsciously, perhaps) as a snob, and as a public official whose personal word did not amount to much. Without pursuing the subject further and taking note of Ed "Belgian Block" Flynn and Harry "Spend-and-Tax" Hopkins, both Cabinet worthies, we close with the possibly partisan comment that the two Republican members of the Roosevelt political family, Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox, carried themselves with a discretion which is—or should be—a Republican tradition.

Which Is Bigger?

It's important to be big in Los Angeles, though it is better to be colossal. Perhaps that is why the Southern California oasis is now putting Philadelphia's nose out of joint by claiming to be the third largest city in the United States.

The 1940 census ranked Los Angeles fifth, behind New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Detroit. Los Angeles then was credited with a population of 1,504,277. Detroit with 1,623,000, Philadelphia with 1,931,000.

The Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, at a recent dinner honoring Pennsylvania's movie actor, James Stewart, was outraged to receive a telegram from the Los Angeles Chamber, stating that the message of congratulations came from the "third largest city in the United States." This caused Vice President Frank G. Binswanger, of the Quaker City Chamber to dash to Los Angeles to present "positive proof" that Philadelphia is still number three.

Probably the argument will not be settled until 1950 census figures are released, and they are likely to show that Detroit as well as Los Angeles has topped Philadelphia in population.

Merely to get it straight, mince pie will not be de rigueur until along about the Holidays; these are the Pumpkin Pie Weeks.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

REST IN VIRUS PNEUMONIA

DURING the last 10 years so much progress has been made in the treatment of the common types of pneumonia that the disease is no longer dreaded. The use of penicillin and the sulfonamides is responsible for such advances but much research will be needed to solve the atypical forms.

Virus pneumonia is an example of an obstinate variety. It is looked upon as a newcomer among chest ailments yet the disease is probably new. Our grandfathers undoubtedly encountered it but in those days, physicians were interested in whether lobar or bronchopneumonia existed. The change came when certain vaccines and the wonder drugs were introduced, which means that it is more important to know the species of germ present. Old terminology was discarded and the names, pneumococcic or streptococcic pneumonia were substituted.

But in many pneumonia victims the laboratory was unable to find the causative organism. This puzzled the scientists until the virus was implicated. On further study it was shown that not one but many different viruses can cause the malady.

At first the condition resembles the flu, with fatigue and generalized body aching. The sufferer feels chilly, the temperature rises, and a hacking cough develops. Instead of improving in a day or two as might be expected, the disturbance continues. The thermometer reading varies between 99 and 103 degrees F. and the individual feels hot one moment and cold the next. Cough is particularly distressing and does not respond to the usual remedies. It comes in spells and, after barking violently for a moment or two, the patient falls back on the bed utterly exhausted. After several such bouts the chest and abdominal muscles become sore. No sputum is raised at first but later it becomes thick and purulent.

In general the patient does not appear or feel as ill as those afflicted with the more typical pneumonias. Exceptions to the rule occur, however, as the disorder can be severe and occasionally fatal. But the majority get well even tho symptoms persist; fever sometimes remains for several weeks. An infection of this kind often leaves the individual weak for a long time. Many break out in a profuse sweat after the slightest exertion. Ultimately, strength returns and complete recovery ensues.

The diagnosis is made by examination, X-rays, and laboratory tests. The number of white blood cells is rarely elevated in contrast to chest diseases of other origins. Isolating the virus from the secretion of the throat is a difficult and costly project, hence is rarely done.

The sulfonamides or penicillin are used frequently but seldom prove effective. Bed rest is essential. Codeine and aminophylline are used to combat cough and the inhalation of steam helps also. Otherwise symptoms are treated as they arise.

SHE KNOWS BETTER

J. N. writes: My doctor orders me to take a cold nerve bath but I always thought a hot bath was better. I am 15 years old and so nervous that he wants me out of school.

REPLY

I doubt if it will make much difference but since you sought the physician's advice, why not listen to it.

TINGLING LEGS

Mrs. C. writes: For many years I have had a sensation of pins and needles in my legs. Could this be a manifestation of hardening of the arteries?

REPLY

Yes, but there are other possibilities such as anemia and nervous disorders.

TIME TO CURE

B. E. R. writes: What is the length of time required to cure syphilis?

REPLY

It varies, depending upon the duration of the disease. Alleged cures have occurred in 10 days, but many authorities feel that it is safer to continue treatment intermittently for 18 months. Thereafter, frequent blood tests should be made for three years.

PROSTATE

W. R. writes: What are the symptoms of an enlarged prostate?

REPLY

This depends upon the degree of enlargement but in general frequent, painful, and sluggish urination are the most common manifestations. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on enlarged prostate.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

G.T.E. writes: What can be done for high blood pressure?

REPLY

There are many helpful procedures including the reduction of overweight and decreasing every day stress and strain. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hypertension.

INTERNAL RACKET

L. Z. writes: What makes your stomach growl?

REPLY

Who, me? Such noises originate from the movements of the contents of the intestinal tract. They are going on all the time but seldom become loud enough to be heard.

VITAMIN SHORTAGE

K. W. writes: What causes a vitamin B deficiency?

REPLY

The most common cause is an inadequate intake of vitamin B foods. This may occur in the presence of a fad diet, alcoholism, or various illnesses. Sometimes gastrointestinal tract disorders do not permit proper utilization of the substance even tho an ample supply is taken. Too many carobydrates may be a factor.

SICK HEADACHES

A. J. writes: Where do migraine headaches come from?

REPLY

Pain originates in the blood vessels of the brain. First these structures are contracted due to spasm and then they become overstretched.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Cold Print Cannot Describe Enthusiasm And Generosity Of Americans In Building Friendship Bridge To Europe With Food To Win Peace

Says DREW PEARSON

ABOARD THE SOUTHWEST SPECIAL FRIENDSHIP TRAIN, Nov. 24—A lot of my editors are probably wondering when I am going to quit collecting food and get back to being a newspaperman (so, also, is my wife). However, when the people of the Southwest announce that they've been blessed with a big wheat crop and want to share it with others, and when they go out and raise some 150 carloads of wheat with no urging from anyone and no help from their Government—then that, in my opinion, is news. Furthermore, it's invigorating, stimulating news that I get a lot more kick out of writing about than I do peeking through keyholes in Washington.

One of the hardest things to tell in print, however, is the enthusiasm, the generosity, and the enterprise of the American people when it comes to giving food for friendship. This was the most spontaneous movement toward world brotherhood and friendship this country has probably ever seen and chiefly behind it is the belief that, whereas battleships can win wars, food can help win the peace.

Warm, Thrilling Response

For two weeks now I have been riding three different sections of the Friendship Train, from Sunny California, through snowy Wyoming, across the brown plains of Kansas and through the smoke-begrimed industrial cities of Pennsylvania. But, regardless of geography, weather or industry, the response has been equally warm and thrilling.

This has not been government aid from diplomat to diplomat, but from people to people. Every conceivable cross section of American life has co-operated. Railroads and railroad employees, small towns and big towns, all religions, all races, rich and poor—all turned out at the railroad stations to help build the bridge of friendship between Europe and the United States.

In Ft. Worth, Texas, big-hearted Amon Carter, who usually gives away broad-brimmed Texas hats, this time gave away 15 carloads of flour (along with other Ft. Worth residents) and had the flour bags especially stamped with messages to the French and Italian people. . . . In Secaucus, N. J., the farmers, under the leadership of Mayor John J. Kane, sold pigs and contributed the cash equivalent of one pig each to the Friendship Train—total $2,800. . . . David C. White, a big wheat farmer 20 miles south of Dodge City, Kansas, gave five carloads of wheat because, as he expressed it, "in the 25th chapter of Matthew, Christ says—'as ye have done unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.'" . . . Dick Long, managing editor of the Wichita Eagle, practically quit being a newspaperman in order to organize this Southwest Special of the Friendship Train. . . . Hundreds of newspapers used up tons of precious newsprint telling their readers about the train and scores of radio stations sacrificed valuable advestising to do the same.

Children Make Sacrifices

In Sedgwick County, the school children collected wastepaper, ran errands, saved their money until they raised enough to buy one whole carload of wheat (and that's a lot of wheat) . . . In Philadelphia, the children of the John Bartram High School contributed seven times as much money as the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association-Joe Grundy's high-tariff outfit which used to write U. S. tariff laws. . . . In Grand Island, Nebraska, the teamsters union, headed by Bill Noble, furnished twenty men to load cars. . . . In Trenton, N. J., Mrs. Laura Marsavitz, a teacher in a Negro school, had won a war prize for making parachutes. The prize was a Bible. When the train passed through Trenton she came to the station with her school children and asked that the Bible be sent with the train to Europe.

In Newton, Kansas, the Mennonite church scoured the adjacent wheat-growing counties until 28 cars of wheat and flour were attached to the Friendship Train. . . . The Tall Corn Network in Iowa staged an all-out radio drive for food and funds, later reported that, for the first time, people who phoned in to the radio stations pledging money gave more than they pledged.

Down in Texas the eight district managers of the Lions Club worked so intensively that carload after carload came in from all over Texas—Long View, Austin, Amarillo, Plainview, Lubbock, Sherman, Beaumont. Other service clubs, plus local radio stations and newspapers, worked with them. The Rock Island Railroad and the Missouri Pacific helped the Santa Fe by bringing these off-the-mainline cars to Wichita, where the Santa Fe Southwest Special started. In Pennsylvania, the Reading Railroad also cooperated with the Penn RR in hauling off five cars.

Outstanding Response

Greenville, S. C. decided to attach one boxcar to the Friendship Train, but, before it finished, hooked on two. Reported Broadus Bailey of Greenville: "For many years I have helped our community campaigns, but never have I seen such a voluntary response."

In Toledo, Ohio, Arthur Wieland, vice president of Willys Overland, organized a fleet of station wagons and jeeps to pick up donations.

Up in the mountains of Central Pennsylvania, well off the main line of the train, Lockhaven and Renovo insisted on loading cars. So did Williamsport, Clearfield, Bellefonte, Bedford, Tyrone and other off-line towns . . . Because California didn't have much time to organize, the citizens of Berkeley raised $4,000 after the train left. The momentum of Oakland's drive also carried over, so energetic Mayor Joseph E. Smith has just reported that city raised a total of $46,613. . . . Los Angeles, the starting point for the first Friendship Train, also raised $35,000 after the train left. They couldn't stop the money from rolling in.

Biggest Shortage In America Is "Work Shortage;" Dangerous

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—Everybody has known that it costs much more to build a house today than ever before, yet few people have known why. Here are some of the reasons, as derived from a national survey of about 60 cities:

A bricklayer before the war used to lay 1,000 bricks a day, for which he averaged $13.68 per day in wages. A bricklayer now lays 540 bricks per day, for which he receives $18.96.

Wages in every one of the building trades have risen considerably and yet tile setters are producing 50 per cent less work, carpenters 43 per cent less, plumbers 44 per cent less, lathers 43 per cent less, electricians 41 per cent less, plasterers 37 per cent less, cement finishers 36 per cent less, painters 40 per cent less per man than before the war.

The average over-all drop in output per man in the building trades is 38 per cent. The wages per hour in the building trades nevertheless are 76 per cent higher than in 1940.

How any nation can beat inflation or keep solvent and prevent an economic collapse and depression by insisting on more-pay-for-less-work is one of the questions which goes unanswered. Mostly it is because the facts have been suppressed.

Some Traceable To Truman

Political government doesn't like to disclose these facts because some of the blame for encouraging more-pay-for-les-work would be located in the policies and speeches of President Truman.

Labor unions do not like to disclose these facts because they prefer to shift the line of attack to the price front. They prefer to spread the impression that prices are high because profits are abnormal. It is significant that the unions will not give out detailed figures on the output per man or the reasons for the drop.

Such figures as are available come from contractors who have made a survey of results as tabulated from 60 cities.

If employers get together to restrict output they would run afoul of the anti-trust laws governing monopoly and restraint of trade. But labor unions are exempted from prosecution for maintaining monopolies. The Congress of the United States thus far has been intimidated by the laborunion bosses and so have many of the city governments where the rackets in city ordinances and regulations and inspection systems are open secrets. The public hasn't been awakened to the real story of why veterans who fought for their freedoms and for fair play in a democratic system come home to find it almost impossible to build a house at low cost because there is a dictatorship by the few against the many.

President Truman has made many recommendations about price control and credit control but he hasn't ventured to get at the real reason for the high costs of housing—as plainly illegal and within the province of government to cure as are the activities of any monopolists now being attacked by the Department of Justice.

Truman Erects Smoke Screen

About all the Truman administration has done is to erect a smoke screen by persecuting real-estate men for maintaining the same rate of commission on sales that they charged before the war—an insignificant factor in building arts. Collusion by union bosses in slowing down production while demanding higher wages seems to have been overlooked entirely by the administration and incidentally by the Republican strategists who apparently don't know a good issue when one stares them in the face.

Prices are up 93 per cent on an average for building materials since 1940 and the cost of residential building is about 125 per cent higher than pre-war. Anybody can figure out why. If output per man is less, costs go up. In bricklaying, for instance, the hourly wages are up 72 per cent above 1940, the output has dropped about 60 per cent per man hours and it all figures up to an increase of 219 per cent in wage costs

No country ever was headed more plainly for economic disaster than the United States unless an aroused public opinion takes a look at the facts about the drop in output and does something about it. Since the public is busy trying to struggle with these slowdowns in building and high prices, maybe Congress, as a representative body, will take up the task. The biggest shortage in America is a "work shortage" brought about by a conspiracy to limit or restrict production.

Curb On Prices, Not Tax Cut Is Urged First For Congress

By MARK SULLIVAN

As Congress gets under way, party leaders and official committees, looking forward to the regular session in January, move toward decision about whether there shall be tax reduction. It is less a clear-cut conflict than a groping, and less a debate than a discussion. All agree that tax reduction does not stand alone—that the question of reducing or not reducing must be considered in its relation to two other subjects, aid to Europe and reduction of the national debt.

Contrasting points of view, which are by no means wholly in contrast, were stated by a Republican and a Democrat at a public meeting at New York last week. The Republican floor leader in the House, Representative Charles A. Halleck, of Indiana, held that, within the national budget as now set up, there can be and should be all three — some tax reduction, some reduction of the national debt and aid to Europe. Mr. Halleck's summing up, while having some touch of partisanship and argumentative eloquence, was concrete and definite:

"Our position is that, by courageous, honest, statesmanlike and careful action, we should be able to meet our requirements abroad, provide all necessary governmental services and functions, begin the orderly liquidation of our national debt and also give the people much-needed and well-deserved tax relief."

Snyder Asks "Revision"

At the same meeting, an authoritative Democratic position was stated by Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder. To grasp his position a distinction should be borne in mind between "tax reduction" and "tax revision." The latter terms means a readjustment of rates and methods, looking toward an improved system, rather than out-right reduction.

"I am convinced that before deciding on tax reductions, the Congress should first consider foreign aid within a balanced budget; second, adequate debt reduction, and third, equitable tax revision," he said.

In these two views, and in actual facts, the three—tax reduction, reduction of the national debt and foreign aid — compete with each other as demands on the national Treasury, and in their competition seem to chase each other around in a circle. But above all three is a condition which determines each and much else besides.

The recent meeting at which Democratic Secretary Snyder and Republican Floor Leader Halleck stated their positions took place Nov. 20. Two days later, from the government Bureau of Labor Statistics and other official or authoritative sources came figures about prices and cost of living. These were repetitions of an old story. More accurately they were the latest chapters in a continued story. The wholesale price index at an all-time record high, 66 per cent above pre-war. The increase in cost of living since the middle of last year 23 per cent, the increase in cost of food, 40 per cent.

Inflation Fight Is First

That spells inflation, not merely spells it but shouts it. It goes on at an accelerated pace, reflected in the reports given out periodically which repeatedly add to the figures the ominous words "new high."

The new reports that came out last week shout to Congress. They tell that body and its leaders that all they say about tax reduction is futile unless inflation is checked. For if inflation goes on, the figures about tax reduction, and about the related matters of foreign aid and debt reduction, would become out of date. If the wheat and fuel and other goods to be sent to Europe for aid the coming winter go higher in price, the present estimate of what Congress is asked to appropriate, 597 million dollars, would become too small. As for the larger estimates for later aid under the Marshall plan, these would become astronomically larger if in future months and years prices should become cumulatively higher.

These conditions prescribe a judgment. The judgment would postpone tax reduction to the arresting of inflation. Only after Congress has taken the necessary steps to this end, and after the steps have had effect, after there has been an actual check to rising prices—only then can Congress have dependable data to determine whether there can be tax reduction. Not merely tax reduction as an actual step, but even discussion about the possibility of it, is untimely until the checking of inflation has been accomplished.

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Additional Reminders

Now that we are to give Europe additional billions of dollars in terms of goods and services, it is wise to go back to Bretton Woods where the World Bank and the International Fund were created to see precisely what it was that the American people were told.

Henry Morgenthau, in explaining the need for a World Bank, spoke roseately of the investment of private capital in the war-devastated countries when peace comes. The World Bank was to do this:

". . . With abundant capital, the devastated countries can move steadily toward rehabilitation and a constantly improving standard of living. Nothing could be more conducive to political stability and to international collaboration. Without adequate supplies of capital, however, recovery in Europe and Asia will be slow and sporadic, and economic discontent and international bitterness will in time assure disturbing proportions."

Nothing of the sort happened. In a word, hope springs eternal in the human breast—but what are the facts?

Franklin D. Roosevelt, in 1944, in his message to the Bretton Woods delegates, said:

". . . Commerce is the life blood of a free society. We must see to it that the arteries which carry that bloodstream are not clogged again, as they have been in the past, by artificial barriers created through senseless economic rivalries.

"Economic diseases are highly communicable. It follows, therefore, that the economic health of every country is a proper matter of concern to all its neighbors, near and distant. Only through a dynamic and a soundly expanding world economy can the living standards of individual nations be advanced to levels which will permit a full realization of our hopes for the future."

To quote Henry Morgenthau again:

". . . Prosperity, like peace, is indivisible. We cannot afford to have it scattered here or there among the fortunate or to enjoy it at the expense of others. Poverty, wherever it exists, is menacing to us all and undermines the well-being of each of us. It can no more be localized than war, but spreads and saps the economic strength of all the more-favored areas of the earth. We know now that the thread of economic life in every nation is inseparably woven into a fabric of world economy . . ."

The International Latex Corporation, Playtex Park, Dover, Del., presented an advertisement "as a public service," in which it is stated:

"Today (1945) we have a second chance to build a structure of lasting peace. We all know there will not be a third. That is why we have joined the other United Nations to plan the political machinery for preventing aggression.

"And that is why, at Bretton Woods, we joined in planning the machinery for expanding world trade, for assuring prosperity, jobs, and security for all peoples."

John Maynard Keynes, Chairman of the British delegation to Bretton Woods, told that conference that there would be a "crisis" without the world bank, but that "it would be a great mistake" to confuse the bank, the stabilization fund and the long time it will take Great Britain to repay her debts, exclusive of lend-lease, which he placed at $12,000,000,000. Keynes also said that as a result of Bretton Woods, the international fund would make gold "a monarch subject to constitutional limitations," whatever that might mean.

Of course, the fund has long been in existence, but if gold is any kind of a monarch, it is one without a throne.

Sumner Welles wrote:

". . . But the surest way of guaranteeing the profitable participation by the American people in world trade in the future will be through their realization that international commerce will not exist unless international confidence and international purchasing power are restored, and that such restoration will be immeasurably retarded unless they are prepared to cooperate fully with other nations in the establishment of such agencies as those planned at the recent monetary conference."

Well, there is a lot more of the same, but none of it has worked out as suggested. Instead came the British Loan, the Stop-Gap financing and the various Marshall Plans. The roseately optimistic still continue singing that only American billions are necessary to save us from the next catastrophe. What saved us from the last crisis?

Today's Talk

Aim Is Everything

I was interested in the statement of Coach Tuss McLaughry of Dartmouth College, who is quoted as having said that he always took his football team into a game expecting to win. That was the goal. It should be the goal of us all whenever we set out to gain an objective.

Again in these talks I want to quote from that interesting and inspiring little book by W. MacNeile Dixon, "An Apology for the Arts." He wrote: "To have always in mind the highest kind of excellence is a great thing in any art. To be yourself the severest critic of your work is a second great thing. To despise easy success is a third."

There is a thrill to expectancy—to the feeling that you are going to win in whatever you do, no matter what the result. It is far better to aim high for something that you most dearly want, and even fail in the attempt, than to aim at nothing definite—and get what you don't want!

There are always intermediate gains all along the line to a high endeavor. Like the athlete, who may fail in his attempt to win, he has not wholly lost. If he has trained faithfully, he has much to show—and he may still expect to win at a latter date. None of us win all the time, excepting in degrees.

It is not a bad thing to have a little fear of the high exploits of others, for then we may dismiss many of the futile and mediocre things and concentrate upon substantial steps toward the higher exploits. It is a valuable decision to keep the mind employed toward a set standard of excellence and not depart from it. Once established there is magic to its pulling power!

Great art and great literature remain. Nothing disturbs them. An aged monk, upon looking upon the masterpiece, Titian's "The Last Supper," remarked to an admiring painter: "I look at them (the figures) until I sometimes think that they are the realities, and we are but the shadows."

We can stand still and watch, and even do a deal of thinking as we stand—but the procession passes on—and we are not of it! It is better to get in that procession, be both in it and of it—and keep expecting a place at its head.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

You've heard it said that a man who keeps a pet is a man who can be trusted.

I'm not so sure.

When I was a skinny kid on the East Side, every other tenement had a pigeon coop on the roof. Who owned these pigeons? Gangsters, mostly.

Billy Rose

During the Prohibition years, a good part of our hoodlum population spent most of its lighter moments up among the chimney pots. The boys installed elaborate coops and filled them with pouters, Fantails, Jacobins, Barbs and Turbits. (Good thing Volume P of the Britannica is on my desk.) The hoods went completely gaga over their Fantail buddies. They would anoint their feathers with olive oil and wash the dust out of their eyes with rose water. If a chesty little cakewalker sneezed once too often, they didn't hesitate to chew up the mash and feed it right out of the sides of their mouths. Come Winter, some of them would sleep in the coops because they were told the human body gave off the right kind of heat for their strutting darlings.

None of which will surprise my 2½ literate readers. The art of pigeon breeding, plain and fancy, has always been the Sport of Bums. (Okay, okay. , I don't mean you.) A dog-eared volume, vintage 1858, describes pigeon lovers as "The Pariahs of Society—Costermongers, Pugilists, Rat-catchers, Dog-stealers—men who live in courts, alleys and other by-places of the Metropolis."

The social life of many of the toughies of the Twenties was organized around this pigeon passion. The rooftop coop was their country club. Barrels of beer would be lugged up and consumed while the boys discussed the proper mixtures of buckwheat and barley, the efficacy of tincture of aconite in treating coo-coo catarrh. And, of course, the fine points of their homers, divers and high climbers. When they spoke about "Inside Tumblers," they were talking about pigeon acrobats rather than ways and means of cracking a safe.

Sometimes these devotees of the dove put the snatch on each other's prize specimens—birdnapping, they called it. Hot words and fists would fly. I understand that at least fifteen deaths that went down in precinct house records as "accidental" resulted from one pigeon impresario nupdging another off a roof.

There's a tender love story about one of these bums. This bum owned about 400 birds. Several times a year he and his pals would crate their best homers and ship them to brother fanciers as far west as Chicago to be released. The betting would run up into the thousands as to whose bird would come winging home first.

One day the bum got stuck on a nice girl. She was the daughter of a well-heeled halvah entrepreneur. When the bum proposed matrimony, the girl said, "I know about you pigeon fellas. I'm not spending no honeymoon up in no coop on Rutgers Street. If you want for us to get married, you gotta come down off the roof. It's me or the pigeons."

The night of the wedding, the bum went up to the roof for the last time. He knew he couldn't give his birds away—they were homers which would make a beeline back to the old roost. Besides, he couldn't stand the idea of another pair of mitts fondling his flock. He opened the door of the coop, lifted out a pigeon, and brushed it softly against his Five O'clock Shadow.

"Good-bye, Gwendolyn," he whispered.

He twisted its neck and dropped it in a barrel.

The bum did this 399 more times. Then he went downstairs and climbed into his rented tux.

The Howe Rupture Shield has no leg strap; waterproof, sanitary, practically indestructible, and can be worn while bathing. Each shield is skillfully molded and fitted to the parts under heat, which gives a perfect fit and satisfaction.

Large and difficult ruptures following operation especially solicited.

RUPTURE

GEO. L. HOWE

Well-known expert, of Indianapolis, and ex-U. S. Army Medical Corpsmen, will personally demonstrate his method without charge at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Cumberland, Friday, November 28th from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Mr. Howe says the Howe method contracts the openings in remarkably short time on the average case, regardless of the size or location of the rupture, and no matter how much you lift or strain, and puts you back to work the same day as efficient as before you were ruptured.

The Howe Rupture Shield has no leg strap; waterproof, sanitary, practically indestructible, and can be worn while bathing. Each shield is skillfully molded and fitted to the parts under heat, which gives a perfect fit and satisfaction.

Large and difficult ruptures following operation especially solicited.

Do not overlook this opportunity if you want gratifying results. Mailing address P. O. Box 5233 E. Michigan St. Station, Indianapolis 1, Ind.

Mayor Will Name Group To Study Dr. Ray's Report

Station WCUM Seeks Street Antenna Site

Appointment of a committee to study the report of Dr. Joseph M. Ray on "Improving the Government of Cumberland" and to recommend charter changes yesterday was authorized by the Mayor and Council, who also heard photographers speak against unfair competition and received a request for permission to use Luray Street as the site of an antenna for Cumberland's new radio station, WCUM.

Mayor Post indicated he will submit names of a committee to study the report to the council next week.

Authorization to name the committee was granted after a letter was received from Harold W. Smith, Chamber of Commerce secretary, inquiring why its letter of last June recommending appointment of a committee, had not been answered.

A petition signed by eight Cumberland photographers asked the Mayor and Council to enact an ordinance to prevent unfair competition on the part of itinerant photographers.

Local Licensing Illegal

Local photographers contend that outsiders come here to get the Christmas business, and George A. Ruhl, speaking for the local photographers, said Cumberland provided protection until last spring when the licensing ordinance was revamped.

Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, explained that the Supreme Court ruled a number of years ago that the itinerant photographers are engaged in interstate commerce and cannot be licensed locally. He added that the local ordinance had not been enforced for a number of years.

Milton O. Pyle, manager of radio station WCUM, offered to buy or lease Luray Street, which exists on paper only, for erection of the antenna. He said he has obtained an option to buy a number of nearby properties, and added that the antenna should be located in the street so there will be sufficient room for wires which will be placed underground.

Pyle said permission has been obtained to run wires under the parade ground to be constructed next to the Naval Armory, but City Attorney Heskett voiced opposition to closing Luray Street, saying there is a distinct possibility the Naval Armory and parade ground as well as the Marine Armory may attract 5,000 or more persons to the site on occasions, and all streets should be kept open.

Mayor Thomas S. Post proposed that the Tower Realty Company, Baltimore, owner of the station, buy more land and place the antenna on its own property. Council members will meet with Pyle at 2 p. m. Wednesday to visit the location.

Wants 250 Watts

Pyle said the company has permission for a 100 watt station but wants to expand to 250 watts and is making plans for the latter possibility.

Mayor Post reported that a number of South End merchants had requested that the work of replacing the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal bridge with pipe be delayed until after Christmas. Work is scheduled to start December 1 when the structure will be closed to vehicular traffic, and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer and Commissioner Myers G. Light maintained the bridge is in bad condition and should be removed as soon as possible. Work is expected to continue 50 days. Council took no action.

The Water Department was authorized to ask for bids for a one-ton truck and a two-door sedan. The Health Department was empowered to seek bids for a Rogers bulldozer and an Oliver Industrial 60-inch tractor for use at the dump.

The Council voted $100 to the Christmas Seal drive.

In another order the various departments were ordered closed Thursday for Thanksgiving.

Puts Out Forest Fire In Her Front Yard

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—(AP)—Mrs. O. C. Stegmaier heard a crackling sound, smelled smoke, looked out a front window of her home and was startled to see two large cedar trees afire on the terrace. She put out the miniature forest fire with the garden hose before the arrival of firemen who theorized a carelessly-tossed cigarette was responsible.

$10,000 Damage Suit To End In Court Today

Woman Claims She Fell Down Stairway

A suit for $10,000 damages filed against G. C. Murphy Company, a corporation, operators of a Baltimore Street store here, was heard before an October jury in Circuit Court yesterday, and continued until today. Entered by Mrs. Bessie Shrout, who claims she was seriously injured when she fell down a stairway in the store August 1, 1946 at 3:30 p. m., the case will be continued today.

Defense attorneys, William C. Walsh and Thomas F. Finan told the Court they have one more witness, Dr. D. B. Grove, who will be heard this morning. Dr. Grove was out of the city yesterday. Following this testimony, attorneys are expected to argue the case, although a move will probably be made by the defense to have the case taken from the jury, they indicated.

Mrs. Shrout was on the witness stand yesterday morning and under examination by her attorneys, Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., told how she fell down the steps in the store, after making purchases on the second floor. She claims she was injured about the right leg, heel, back and hips. She said she slipped on a banana peel, which was lying with other bits of rubbish on the stairway.

She said that later she spent ten days in Memorial Hospital and since then has been unable to resume employment in a New Jersey hospital where she had worked for a short period prior to the accident.

Mrs. Shrout claims her back is injured and that she suffers from numbness in her right leg when she has to stand for any length of time.

Evelyn Wilson, 18, of Bedford Road, a former employe at the store, testified she was requested by a woman customer to call her a cab as she wasn't feeling well. She also stated that she did not remember who the woman was or what she looked like, but that the occasion was sometime in August of 1946.

Other witnesses who testified included Dr. F. A. G. Murray, Mary A. Swisher, the plaintiff's daughter; Woodrow Shrout, a son, and Dr. Blaine M. Schindler.

The defense also called Max Bastian, store manager, Harry Williams, his assistant; Azelma Frantz, and Benjamin Wright, superintendent of Memorial Hospital, who identified hospital records.

Defense testimony showed that the stairway is well lighted with two-300 watt bulbs, one at the top and one at the bottom, with a large window about half way down. It was also brought out that the woman made no formal complaint at the store and declined help offered by the Wilson girl, who called a cab for her, as requested.

The store manager, Bastian, and his assistant, Williams, said they knew nothing about the affair until they read it in the papers. They also testified there is a hand rail on the stairway, which Mrs. Shrout apparently did not use.

Basement Of Local Hotel Is Slightly Damaged By Fire

Occupants of the Allegany Hotel Inn, 229 Baltimore Avenue, were routed from the building early yesterday afternoon when a fire broke out in the basement of the structure.

Central and East Side Fire Companies were summoned at 1:15 p. m. after a fire which broke out under a work bench in the basement got out of control.

Firemen said the blaze, which did minor damage to the basement, was brought under control by 2 p. m. just as the flames were licking their way to the first floor by way of a partition.

The management reported last night that damage from the fire was believed small adding that an attempt will be made today to make an exact estimate. All guests were able to return to their rooms and operations were reported normal last night.

Although wiring in the basement was damaged by the fire, the management said all lighting was in operation with the exception of the basement lights and fixtures controlled from there.

Firemen said they were told the blaze started under a work bench in the cellar presumably after hot coals fell on some papers beneath the bench as hot ashes from the furnace were being removed

One of the employes of the hotel, firemen said they were told, turned in an alarm after his attempts to put out the blaze were unsuccessful.

Firemen said both smoke and water damage was slight in spite of the fact that dense clouds of smoke were pouring from the basement shortly after they arrived.

Firemen Answer Calls

West Side Company extinguished a flue fire at the home of Edward G. Francis, 224 Wallace Street, Sunday at 9:45 p. m. The same company was called to the 300 block of Fayette Street Sunday at 11:32 p. m. to extinguish an auto fire. Firemen said a loose battery terminal in the car owned by Sara E. Wright, was responsible for the call.

Mayor Will Name Group To Study Dr. Ray's Report

Station WCUM Seeks Street Antenna Site

Appointment of a committee to study the report of Dr. Joseph M. Ray on "Improving the Government of Cumberland" and to recommend charter changes yesterday was authorized by the Mayor and Council, who also heard photographers speak against unfair competition and received a request for permission to use Luray Street as the site of an antenna for Cumberland's new radio station, WCUM.

Mayor Post indicated he will submit names of a committee to study the report to the council next week.

Authorization to name the committee was granted after a letter was received from Harold W. Smith, Chamber of Commerce secretary, inquiring why its letter of last June recommending appointment of a committee, had not been answered.

A petition signed by eight Cumberland photographers asked the Mayor and Council to enact an ordinance to prevent unfair competition on the part of itinerant photographers.

Local Licensing Illegal

Local photographers contend that outsiders come here to get the Christmas business, and George A. Ruhl, speaking for the local photographers, said Cumberland provided protection until last spring when the licensing ordinance was revamped.

Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, explained that the Supreme Court ruled a number of years ago that the itinerant photographers are engaged in interstate commerce and cannot be licensed locally. He added that the local ordinance had not been enforced for a number of years.

Milton O. Pyle, manager of radio station WCUM, offered to buy or lease Luray Street, which exists on paper only, for erection of the antenna. He said he has obtained an option to buy a number of nearby properties, and added that the antenna should be located in the street so there will be sufficient room for wires which will be placed underground.

Pyle said permission has been obtained to run wires under the parade ground to be constructed next to the Naval Armory, but City Attorney Heskett voiced opposition to closing Luray Street, saying there is a distinct possibility the Naval Armory and parade ground as well as the Marine Armory may attract 5,000 or more persons to the site on occasions, and all streets should be kept open.

Mayor Thomas S. Post proposed that the Tower Realty Company, Baltimore, owner of the station, buy more land and place the antenna on its own property. Council members will meet with Pyle at 2 p. m. Wednesday to visit the location.

Wants 250 Watts

Pyle said the company has permission for a 100 watt station but wants to expand to 250 watts and is making plans for the latter possibility.

Mayor Post reported that a number of South End merchants had requested that the work of replacing the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal bridge with pipe be delayed until after Christmas. Work is scheduled to start December 1 when the structure will be closed to vehicular traffic, and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer and Commissioner Myers G. Light maintained the bridge is in bad condition and should be removed as soon as possible. Work is expected to continue 30 days. Council took no action.

The Water Department was authorized to ask for bids for a one-ton truck and a two-door sedan. The Health Department was empowered to seek bids for a Rogers bulldozer and an Oliver Industrial 60-inch tractor for use at the dump.

The Council voted $100 to the Christmas Seal drive.

In another order the various departments were ordered closed Thursday for Thanksgiving.

Woman Claims She Fell Down Stairway

A suit for $10,000 damages filed against G. C. Murphy Company, a corporation, operators of a Baltimore Street store here, was heard before an October jury in Circuit Court yesterday, and continued until today. Entered by Mrs. Bessie Shrout, who claims she was seriously injured when she fell down a stairway in the store August 1, 1946 at 3:30 p. m., the case will be continued today.

Defense attorneys, William C. Walsh and Thomas F. Finan told the Court they have one more witness, Dr. D. B. Grove, who will be heard this morning. Dr. Grove was out of the city yesterday. Following this testimony, attorneys are expected to argue the case, although a move will probably be made by the defense to have the case taken from the jury, they indicated.

Mrs. Shrout was on the witness stand yesterday morning and under examination by her attorneys, Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., told how she fell down the steps in the store, after making purchases on the second floor. She claims she was injured about the right leg, heel, back and hips. She said she slipped on a banana peel, which was lying with other bits of rubbish on the stairway.

She said that later she spent ten days in Memorial Hospital and since then has been unable to resume employment in a New Jersey hospital where she had worked for a short period prior to the accident.

Mrs. Shrout claims her back is injured and that she suffers from numbness in her right leg when she has to stand for any length of time.

Evelyn Wilson, 18, of Bedford Road, a former employe at the store, testified she was requested by a woman customer to call her a cab as she wasn't feeling well. She also stated that she did not remember who the woman was or what she looked like, but that the occasion was sometime in August of 1946.

Other witnesses who testified included Dr. F. A. G. Murray, Mary A. Swisher, the plaintiff's daughter; Woodrow Shrout, a son, and Dr. Blaine M. Schindler.

The defense also called Max Bastian, store manager, Harry Williams, his assistant; Azelma Frantz, and Benjamin Wright, superintendent of Memorial Hospital, who identified hospital records.

Defense testimony showed that the stairway is well lighted with two-300 watt bulbs, one at the top and one at the bottom, with a large window about half way down. It was also brought out that the woman made no formal complaint at the store and declined help offered by the Wilson girl, who called a cab for her, as requested.

The store manager, Bastian, and his assistant, Williams, said they knew nothing about the affair until they read it in the papers. They also testified there is a hand rail on the stairway, which Mrs. Shrout apparently did not use.

Basement Of Local Hotel Is Slightly Damaged By Fire

Occupants of the Allegany Hotel Inn, 229 Baltimore Avenue, were routed from the building early yesterday afternoon when a fire broke out in the basement of the structure.

Central and East Side Fire Companies were summoned at 1:15 p. m. after a fire which broke out under a work bench in the basement got out of control.

Firemen said the blaze, which did minor damage to the basement, was brought under control by 2 p. m. just as the flames were licking their way to the first floor by way of a partition.

The management reported last night that damage from the fire was believed small adding that an attempt will be made today to make an exact estimate. All guests were able to return to their rooms and operations were reported normal last night.

Although wiring in the basement was damaged by the fire, the management said all lighting was in operation with the exception of the basement lights and fixtures controlled from there.

Firemen said they were told the blaze started under a work bench in the cellar presumably after hot coals fell on some papers beneath the bench as hot ashes from the furnace were being removed.

One of the employes of the hotel, firemen said they were told, turned in an alarm after his attempts to put out the blaze were unsuccessful.

Firemen said both smoke and water damage was slight in spite of the fact that dense clouds of smoke were pouring from the basement shortly after they arrived.

New U. S. Jet Fighter Passes Flight Tests

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24 —(AP) — The United States Air Force announced today a new jet-propelled fighter plane designed to probe the sonic speed realm has completed its initial flight tests.

The radically-designed plane, the XP-86, was built for the Air Force by North American Aviation and the announcement said it will top 600 miles an hour under actual combat conditions.

The plane features swept back wings and tail assembly, similar to those of the Douglas Skyrocket with which the Navy proposes to challenge the sonic speed realm.

Fighting Irish Return To Top Football Berth

97 Of 192 Writers Favor Notre Dame

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—Notre Dame's resounding 59-6 rout of Tulane sent the Fighting Irish back into the No. 1 spot in the weekly Associated Press poll of football writers in a close finish with the powerful Michigan Wolverines.

Of the 192 writers participating this week, 97 put Notre Dame in first place and 81 voted for Michigan with Southern Methodist drawing six firsts, Southern California and North Carolina, three each, and Penn State and Columbia, each one.

Notre Dame's margin in the total point column, compiled on the basis of 10 points for a first place vote and so on down to 1 for a 10th place ballot, was even closer. The Irish had 1798 points to 1768 for Michigan which led last week with 140 of 246 votes.

Michigan wound up a perfect season, unbeaten and untied, by blanking Ohio State, 21-0, to assure a spot in the Rose Bowl opposite Southern California. Nevertheless, the Wolverines dropped back a peg and Notre Dame took over.

The total vote with points figured on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis (first place votes in parentheses)

BERARDINO QUITS BASEBALL; SIGNS MOVIE CONTRACT

The handsome infielder said that Polimer thinks "I have possibilities as a romantic lead, and we're going to keep the same name — Berardino is something like Valentino."

Bowl Fever Breaks Out At Maryland

Expect Bids If Terps Win Over N. C. State

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 24—(AP)—There were some slight signs of bowl fever—probably just the symptomatic rash breaking out—around the Maryland campus today, but Coach Jim Tatum was determined not to let the bug bite him until after this week ends.

There was talk that if the mighty Maryland Terrapins can get by North Carolina State Saturday that several bowl bids might be forthcoming.

The one mentioned most was the 'Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. Tatum last year took his Oklahoma Sooners to that town and knocked off North Carolina State—the same team the Terps are to meet Saturday.

Problem Is N. C. State

An athletic department spokesman said, however, that "we are not interested in bowl game talk now whatsoever — our problem is North Carolina State."

He said that if the Terps could win, then if a "decent offer is received, we might talk of a bowl game."

Meanwhile, Coach Tatum dismissed the possibility the N. C. State game might be shifted to Griffith Stadium, Washington. He said the game had been slated for College Park, and would be played here.

The athletic department said that seats were available, and that in view of Thanksgiving holida;, many students going home would stay for the week-end and leave more seats for persons wishing to attend the game.

Lu Gambino and Sammy Behr were selected by the squad to be co-captains for the contest, the final one for Behr, a senior.

The record for Maryland now stands at seven won and two lost, the defeats coming from Duke and North Carolina. The Terrapin stock went up considerably after last week's 20-6 drubbing handed to Vanderbilt.

Tatum Has Lame Back

Tatum, who has a lame back as a result of a minor accident while on the Tennessee trip last week, wanted no part of bowl talk as he called the squad out for a workout on a soggy field today. The job ahead, in the opinion of the coach, was to beat North Carolina State before thinking about this or that invitation for a New Year's Day clambake.

Admittedly, bowl "feelers" have been reaching College Park for weeks but Tatum has looked upon them more or less as form letters, without giving them much thought until the season ends.

Ralph Zanelli Wins New England Title

BOSTON, Nov. 24—(AP)—Ralph Zanelli, 148, the durable Providence, R. I. veteran, retained his New England middleweight boxing title by gaining a divided decision over Al (Red) Priest, 156½, of Cambridge, in their return 12-round bout tonight before 7,121 crowd at the Boston Garden.

Priest, who lost his sectional honors by a wide margin to Zanelli in Providence about a month ago, failed to make effective use of his decisive weight advantage while going down to defeat for the first time in a Boston ring. A year ago the Cambridge redhead was this section's fistic standout.

Class C Title Won By Eastern Shore Eleven

Teams Battle In Rain On College Park Field

Playing in heavy rain on a muddy field, the Centerville High soccer team from the Eastern Shore defeated the Bruce High School team from Westernport yesterday by a score of 2-0.

The game, deciding the Class C state soccer championship, was played at College Park. Because of poor playing conditions, most of the action was confined to the center of the field.

Centerville scored in the second quarter on a freak play when the Bruce goalkeeper, R. Dayton, kicked the ball into C. Lister, who played left inside for Centerville. The ball richocheted and bounded back through the Bruce goal.

H. Cook, right inside for Centerville, scored the second goal after Dayton fumbled the ball in the final quarter.

The lineups:

Centerville—J. Draper, goalkeeper; R. Bostie, right fullback; E. Cook, left fullback; W. Howard, right halfback; B. Benny, center; B. Whaley, left center; L. Mears, left wing; C. Lister, left inside; D. Clark, center; H. Cook, right inside; R. Brown, right wing.

Bruce—(same order) R. Dayton, P. Karlewitz, D. Moran, G. Shaffer, V. Parsons, T. Wilt, T. Cain, R. Fitzgerald, J. Davisson, J. Broadwater and J. Howard.

Bruce subs were E. Hanna and R. Harmon.

MINELLI IS VICTOR OVER MONTGOMERY

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov 24 (AP) —Livio Minelli, a speedy whirling dervish from Milan, Italy, blasted former lightweight champion Bob Montgomery's return to the ring tonight with a popular eight-round decision before 5,974 at the arena.

The curly black haired Italian gained his 103rd consecutive victory as an amateur and professional boxer and his ninth straight since coming to the United States as Judge Jesse Laskey awarded him a 6-3-1 verdict; Judge Frank Knarsborough scored it 8-2 and Referee Charley Daggert handed in a 7-3 decision.

Montgomery was a prohibitive favorite at more than 2 to 1 at ringside but once the battle got underway the Philadelphia Bobcat, weighing 142—highest poundage of his career—knew he was in for a fight. The 143 pound Italian featured a long left that he started from the floor and ended in Montgomery's mid section.

Chuck Taylor Matched With Sugar Robinson

DETROIT, Nov. 24 (AP) — Contracts for a world's welterweight title bout between Champion Ray "Sugar" Robinson of New York and Chuck Taylor of Coalville, Pa., were signed here today.

George Geneford, Robinson's manager, and Taylor signed the papers calling for a 15-round match here Dec. 19 in Olympia Stadium, promoted by Nick Londes.

League Will Meet

A meeting will be held at the Westernport City Hall tonight at 8 o'clock to formulate plans for the opening of the Interstate Basketball League season.

Five clubs are reported to have joined the circuit and another team is expected to be added at tonight's session.

Will Honor Catamounts

A banquet honoring Potomac State's football team will be held in the Potomac State College's dining room at Keyser, December 13, at 7 p. m.

HORSEMEN down in the Blue Grass region of Kentucky will tell you that since Man O'War died the honor of being the "greatest living thoroughbred" goes to Bull Lea, the Calumet Farm horse. Bull Lea sired offspring who have won $1,250,000 this year. (International)

Mann Scores KO, Billy Lafferty Beats Catanese

Dull Program Marks Royale Fistic Show

Bill Mann, local middleweight, representing the Diamond Athletic Club, knocked out Jimmy Childress, of the Pikesville Boys' Club, Mt. Wilson, Md., in 41 seconds of the third and final round of their bout last night in the Royale Athletic Club's amateur boxing show at the State Armory.

The Mann-Childress slugfest highlighted a dull card of seven bouts which was marred by a number of last minute cancellations.

It was announced by Matchmaker Presley W. "Red" Mauk that Childress and a flyweight were the only Mt. Wilson boxers to arrive here, the others including Harry Jefira, manager of the team having been detained as a result of an automobile mishap near Hagerstown. Childress was scheduled to fight Randall "Skeets" Starkey in the feature go, but the latter pulled out of the bout yesterday, claiming he had injured his shoulder.

In the Mann-Childress slugfest, Jimmy was floored for counts of one and nine in the first round and eight in the second before Mann finally put him down for keeps in the final heat. Mann hit the deck for no count in the opening stanza.

Lafferty Wins Decision

A surprise was recorded in the 7th and final match on the card when Bill Lafferty, of St. Mary's A. C., appeared in his third amateur match, pounded out a 3 to 0 decision over the seasoned campaigner Jimmie Catanese. Lafferty put Catanese down for eight in the first round and took a nine count knockdown himself in the third.

In the curtain raiser, Jimmie Deetz of the Diamond A. C. won a split decision over Tommy Lynn of St. Mary's while in bout No. 2 Clarence "Tiny" Deetz, Jimmie's brother, won the nod over Calvin Creek, Royale A. C. flyweight.

Melvin Washington, Royale A. C. 142-pounder, walloped Paul Goetz and took the bout on a TKO in the third round when Referee Jack Rorick decided Goetz had enough.

Koelker Wins Easy One

Jake Koelker, Diamond A. C. featherweight, was too good for the game Johnny House and easily won the decision in the fourth bout on the program. Koelker carried too many guns and House absorbed Jake's best punches like a sponge absorbing water.

In bout No. 5 William Braithwaite, won the "duke" over John Maffley, Royale A. C. It was a 3-0 verdict.

Jack Rorick refereed the first four bouts and James E. Kelley, Jr., handled the last three. The judges were Randy Millholland and Howard "Red" Bush and the timer, "Bobby" Cavanaugh. Nelson W. Russler was announcer. Approximately 400 persons paid to see the show, the second poor one of the season here.

No Scents Stealing When Stinky's There

DILLON, Mont.—(AP)—A watchman which roams a warehouse by night and lives in a cage by day is employed by the Dillon Hide and Fur Company.

FIGHT RESULTS

Jimmie Deetz, 108, Diamond A.C. won 2-1 decision over Tommy Lynn, 110, St. Mary's Boys' Club.

Bill Mann, 149, Diamond A.C., knocked out Jimmy Childress, 150, of the Pikesville Boys' Club, Mt. Wilson, Md., in 41 seconds of the third round.

Bill Lafferty, 140, St. Mary's A.C., won 3-0 decision over Jimmie Catanese, 135, Royale A.C.

Terry Is Knocked Down But Defeats Palermo

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—Terry Young came off the floor tonight in the ninth round to pound out a unanimous decision over Frankie Palermo in the ten round main event at the St. Nicholas Arena.

Terry, who at 138¼, gave away a 2¼ pound advantage as well as height and reach to his fellow New Yorker, was leading handily when Palermo dropped him for a count of four with a solid right hook to the jaw.

Young got up glassy eyed but his ring savvy plus the beating he had administered to Palermo earlier in the fight enabled him to last the round.

Milne Is Winner

EAST LANSING, Mich, Nov 24 (AP)—Jack Milne, a dark horse from North Carolina, sloshed through the gluey, sticky mire that covered the four-mile Michigan State cross country course here today to win the ninth annual NCAA meet in 20 minutes, 41.1 seconds.

WOLVERINES LEAVE FOR COAST DEC. 19

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 24—(AP)—"We'll attempt to justify the Western Conference's faith in us," Fritz Crisler declared today following Michigan's unanimous selection as Big Nine standard bearer in the New Year's day Rose Bowl game against Southern California.

Crisler indicated he would leave here with his fabulous Wolverines about Dec. 19, when the Christmas vacation begins at Ann Arbor.

The Wolverines will be retracing a 46-year-old glory trail. In 1901, Michigan defeated Stanford 49-0 in the first Rose Bowl Game. That was the year that football replaced chariot racing as the major spectacle at the tournament of roses.

Boudreau Signs 2-Year Contract To Manage Tribe

Dispels All Rumors He Will Be Traded

CLEVELAND, Nov. 24 (INS)—Lou Boudreau signed a two year contract as playing manager of the Cleveland Indians tonight and dispelled all rumors and speculation that he was on his way out.

The contract calls for a "considerable" increase over the star shortstop's former salary.

Signing of the document was in the office of President Bill Veeck, with sports writers and cameramen as an audience. Veeck said:

"I have just signed Lou to what virtually is a two-year contract. A considerable increase in salary goes with it."

"What do you mean by 'virtually?'" Bill was asked.

After some explaining the 33-year-old Veeck concluded:

"Well, I guess a contract is a contract. If we should let Boudreau go before it expires, we'd have to pay him off."

Boudreau, Cleveland sportswriters' choice as their "baseball man of the year," said he was well pleased with the contract.

The 30-year-old manager-shortstop and Veeck both emphasized that they had little difficulty at coming to terms. Although they were closeted in Veeck's office more than two hours, Veeck said the discussion was mostly on prospects for next season.

Lou came to Cleveland unannounced from his home in Harvey, Ill., to put an end to all rumors that he and Veeck had reached the parting of the ways.

That Boudreau was on his way out of Cleveland was first publicized during the last world series. Lou was mentioned as figuring in a deal which would have brought Vernon Stephens to Cleveland from St. Louis Browns.

Although Veeck admitted discussing this deal, it never materialized and was permanently spiked when Stephens went to Boston in a deal between the Red Sox and the Browns last week.

Purchase Price Placed At Three Million Dollars

St. Louis, New York Papers Report Deal

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 24 (AP) — Reports persisted today without official confirmation or denial that the St. Louis Cardinals and at least part of the National League club's vast minor league properties have been sold to a syndicate including Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan.

Owner Sam Breadon, besieged with inquiries from newsmen, indicated he will make an announcement on the matter later. "I can't say anything now, but I will have something to say later," Breadon said. "However, it won't be today."

The reports placed the purchase price at $3,500,000.

Without disclosing its sources, the Post-Disptch said Breadon was reported to have accepted an offer of that amount from a syndicate including Hannegan; the Skouras Brothers, movie magnates; Edwin W. Pauley, California oil man; and Sidney Solomon, Jr., St. Louis insurance executive.

Sports Columnist Bill Corum, writing in the New York Journal-American, said flatly the club and all of its vast farm system had been sold for $3,500,000 to Hannegan, the three Skouras brothers, and one of two St. Louis residents.

The Post-Dispatch said the deal was reported to include the 16 minor league clubs owned by the Cardinals and physical properties of the club's three most important minor league holdings—Columbus of the American Association, Rochester of the International League, and Houston of the Texas League. Earlier the newspaper said the deal was said to include only these three clubs, the parent organization, and physical properties.

The Post-Dispatch said the deal was reported to include the Cardinals and the club's three most important minor league properties, Columbus of the American Association, Rochester of the International League, and Houston of the Texas League.

National League President Ford Frick said at Lafayette, Ind., where he was attending a football dinner, that he knew "absolutely nothing" about the reported sale except what he had read in the newspapers.

A successor to DaGrosa was not expected to be announced until at least a week after the season ends.

Change In Navy Coaching System Urged By Ingram

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (INS)—Admiral Jonas Ingram (retired) took time out from his present duties as commissioner of the All-America Football Conference today to recommend a switch in the coaching system at the U. S. Naval Academy.

The former coach and athletic director at the Naval Academy proposed that Navy follow Army's example and abandon its tour-of-duty system in rotating football coaches.

Such a relationship would be similar to the one which exists at West Point between the Military Academy and Earl Blaik, mentor of the Cadet eleven.

Bowl Fever Breaks Out At Maryland

Expect Bids If Terps Win Over N. C. State

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 24—(AP)—There were some slight signs of bowl fever—probably just the symptomatic rash breaking out—around the Maryland campus today, but Coach Jim Tatum was determined not to let the bug bite him until after this week ends.

There was talk that if the mighty Maryland Terrapins can get by North Carolina State Saturday that several bowl bids might be forthcoming.

The one mentioned most was the 'Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. Tatum last year took his Oklahoma Sooners to that town and knocked off North Carolina State—the same team the Terps are to meet Saturday.

Problem Is N. C. State

An athletic department spokesman said, however, that "we are not interested in bowl game talk now whatsoever — our problem is North Carolina State."

He said that if the Terps could win, then if a "decent offer is received, we might talk of a bowl game."

Meanwhile, Coach Tatum dismissed the possibility the N. C. State game might be shifted to Griffith Stadium, Washington. He said the game had been slated for College Park, and would be played here.

The athletic department said that seats were available, and that in view of Thanksgiving holida; , many students going home would stay for the week-end and leave more seats for persons wishing to attend the game.

Lu Gambino and Sammy Behr were selected by the squad to be co-captains for the contest, the final one for Behr, a senior.

The record for Maryland now stands at seven won and two lost, the defeats coming from Duke and North Carolina. The Terrapin stock went up considerably after last week's 20-6 drubbing handed to Vanderbilt.

Tatum Has Lame Back

Tatum, who has a lame back as a result of a minor accident while on the Tennessee trip last week, wanted no part of bowl talk as he called the squad out for a workout on a soggy field today. The job ahead, in the opinion of the coach, was to beat North Carolina State before thinking about this or that invitation for a New Year's Day clambake.

Admittedly, bowl "feelers" have been reaching College Park for weeks but Tatum has looked upon them more or less as form letters, without giving them much thought until the season ends.

Ralph Zanelli Wins New England Title

BOSTON, Nov. 24—(AP)—Ralph Zanelli, 148, the durable Providence, R. I. veteran, retained his New England middleweight boxing title by gaining a divided decision over Al (Red) Priest, 156½, of Cambridge, in their return 12-round bout tonight before 7,121 crowd at the Boston Garden.

Priest, who lost his sectional honors by a wide margin to Zanelli in Providence about a month ago, failed to make effective use of his decisive weight advantage while going down to defeat for the first time in a Boston ring. A year ago the Cambridge redhead was this section's fistic standout.

Class C Title Won By Eastern Shore Eleven

Teams Battle In Rain On College Park Field

Playing in heavy rain on a muddy field, the Centerville High soccer team from the Eastern Shore defeated the Bruce High School team from Westernport yesterday by a score of 2-0.

The game, deciding the Class C state soccer championship, was played at College Park. Because of poor playing conditions, most of the action was confined to the center of the field.

Centerville scored in the second quarter on a freak play when the Bruce goalkeeper, R. Dayton, kicked the ball into C. Lister, who played left inside for Centerville. The ball richocheted and bounded back through the Bruce goal.

H. Cook, right inside for Centerville, scored the second goal after Dayton fumbled the ball in the final quarter.

The lineups:

Centerville—J. Drape , goalkeeper; R. Bostie, right fullback; E. Cook, left fullback; W. Howard, right halfback; B. Benny, center; B. Whaley, left center; L. Mears, left wing; C. Lister, left inside; D. Clark, center; H. Cook, right inside; R. Brown, right wing.

Bruce—(same order) R. Dayton, P. Karlewitz, D. Moran, G. Shaffer, V. Parsons, T. Wilt, T. Cain, R. Fitzgerald, J. Davisson, J. Broadwater and J. Howard.

Bruce subs were E. Hanna and R. Harmon.

MINELLI IS VICTOR OVER MONTGOMERY

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov 24 (AP)—Livio Minelli, a speedy whirling dervish from Milan, Italy, blasted former lightweight champion Bob Montgomery's return to the ring tonight with a popular eight-round decision before 5,974 at the arena.

The curly black haired Italian gained his 103rd consecutive victory as an amateur and professional boxer and his ninth straight since coming to the United States as Judge Jesse Laskey awarded him a 6-3-1 verdict; Judge Frank Knarsborough scored it 8-2 and Referee Charley Daggert handed in a 7-3 decision.

Montgomery was a prohibitive favorite at more than 2 to 1 at ringside but once the battle got underway the Philadelphia Bobcat, weighing 142—highest poundage of his career—knew he was in for a fight. The 143 pound Italian featured a long left that he started from the floor and ended in Montgomery's mid section.

Mann Scores KO, Billy Lafferty Beats Catanese

Dull Program Marks Royale Fistic Show

Bill Mann, local middleweight, representing the Diamond Athletic Club, knocked out Jimmy Childress, of the Pikesville Boys' Club, Mt. Wilson, Md., in 41 seconds of the third and final round of their bout last night in the Royale Athletic Club's amateur boxing show at the State Armory.

The Mann-Childress slugfest highlighted a dull card of seven bouts which was marred by a number of last minute cancellations.

It was announced by Matchmaker Presley W. "Red" Mauk that Childress and a flyweight were the only Mt. Wilson boxers to arrive here, the others including Harry Jefira, manager of the team having been detained as a result of an automobile mishap near Hagerstown. Childress was scheduled to fight Randall "Skeets" Starkey in the feature go, but the latter pulled out of the bout yesterday, claiming he had injured his shoulder.

In the Mann-Childress slugfest, Jimmy was floored for counts of one and nine in the first round and eight in the second before Mann finally put him down for keeps in the final heat. Mann hit the deck for no count in the opening stanza.

Lafferty Wins Decision

A surprise was recorded in the 7th and final match on the card when Bill Lafferty, of St. Mary's A. C., appeared in his third amateur match, pounded out a 3 to 0 decision over the seasoned campaigner Jimmie Catanese. Lafferty put Catanese down for eight in the first round and took a nine count knockdown himself in the third.

In the curtain raiser, Jimmie Deetz of the Diamond A. C. won a split decision over Tommy Lynn of St. Mary's while in bout No. 2 Clarence "Tiny" Deetz, Jimmie's brother, won the nod over Calvin Creek, Royale A. C. flyweight.

Melvin Washington, Royale A. C. 142-pounder, walloped Paul Goetz and took the bout on a TKO in the third round when Referee Jack Rorick decided Goetz had enough.

Koelker Wins Easy One

Jake Koelker, Diamond A. C. featherweight, was too good for the game Johnny House and easily won the decision in the fourth bout on the program. Koelker carried too many guns and House absorbed Jake's best punches like a sponge absorbing water.

In bout No. 5 William Braithwaite, won the "duke" over John Maffley, Royale A. C. It was a 3-0 verdict.

Terry Is Knocked Down But Defeats Palermo

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—Terry Young came off the floor tonight in the ninth round to pound out a unanimous decision over Frankie Palermo in the ten round main event at the St. Nicholas Arena.

Terry, who at 138¼, gave away a 2¼ pound advantage as well as height and reach to his fellow New Yorker, was leading handily when Palermo dropped him for a count of four with a solid right hook to the jaw.

Young got up glassy eyed but his ring savvy plus the beating he had administered to Palermo earlier in the fight enabled him to last the round.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 24 (INS)—Lou Boudreau signed a two year contract as playing manager of the Cleveland Indians tonight and dispelled all rumors and speculation that he was on his way out.

Purchase Price Placed At Three Million Dollars

St. Louis, New York Papers Report Deal

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 24 (AP) — Reports persisted today without official confirmation or denial that the St. Louis Cardinals and at least part of the National League club's vast minor league properties have been sold to a syndicate including Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan.

Owner Sam Breadon, besieged with inquiries from newsmen, indicated he will make an announcement on the matter later. "I can't say anything now, but I will have something to say later," Breadon said. "However, it won't be today."

The reports placed the purchase price at $3,500,000.

Without disclosing its sources, the Post-Disptch said Breadon was reported to have accepted an offer of that amount from a syndicate including Hannegan; the Skouras Brothers, movie magnates; Edwin W. Pauley, California oil man; and Sidney Solomon, Jr., St. Louis insurance executive.

Sports Columnist Bill Corum, writing in the New York Journal-American, said flatly the club and all of its vast farm system had been sold for $3,500,000 to Hannegan, the three Skouras brothers, and one of two St. Louis residents.

The Post-Dispatch said the deal was reported to include the 16 minor league clubs owned by the Cardinals and physical properties of the club's three most important minor league holdings—Columbus of the American Association, Rochester of the International League, and Houston of the Texas League. Earlier the newspaper said the deal was said to include only these three clubs, the parent organization, and physical properties.

The Post-Dispatch said the deal was reported to include the Cardinals and the club's three most important minor league properties, Columbus of the American Association, Rochester of the International League, and Houston of the Texas League.

National League President Ford Frick said at Lafayette, Ind., where he was attending a football dinner, that he knew "absolutely nothing" about the reported sale except what he had read in the newspapers.

DaGrosa Resigns Holy Cross Post

Grid Coach Gives No Reason For Quitting

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 24.—(INS)—John (Ox) DaGrosa resigned this afternoon as head coach of football at Holy Cross College.

His letter of resignation was accepted by Rev. William J. Healy, S. J., president of the college. The resignation will take effect as soon as the season's finale with Boston College next Saturday is over.

A successor to DaGrosa was not expected to be announced until at least a week after the season ends.

No reason for the resignation was given by DaGrosa in his letter to the college president. He merely said he regretted exceedingly he could not accept Fr. Healy's offer to continue his contract.

Change In Navy Coaching System Urged By Ingram

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (INS)—Admiral Jonas Ingram (retired) took time out from his present duties as commissioner of the All-America Football Conference today to recommend a switch in the coaching system at the U. S. Naval Academy.

The former coach and athletic director at the Naval Academy proposed that Navy follow Army's example and abandon its tour-of-duty system in rotating football coaches.

Such a relationship would be similar to the one which exists at West Point between the Military Academy and Earl Blaik, mentor of the Cadet eleven.

Army To Battle Navy, Penn Battles Cornell

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24 (AP) — The Quaker City becomes the nation's football capital this holiday weekend with nearly a quarter of a million persons expected to witness three of the year's choice gridiron attractions.

The big one of course is the annual Army-Navy spectacle Saturday but it must share spectator interest with the Thanksgiving Day tussle between Penn and Cornell and the Sunday professional battle between the Philadelphia Eagles and Pittsburgh Steelers.

Each of the games will be played at a different site. Army and Navy will do battle in the huge municipal stadium before a sellout crowd of more than 100,000. Penn and Cornell play their traditional contest before 80,000 at Franklin Field.

The National Football League struggle, expected to go a long way in determining the eastern division king, likely will establish a new attendance mark for Shibe Park at upwards of 40,000.

Municipal stadium's contract for the Army-Navy game expires with this year's game, but city officials were busy laying plans today to confer with West Point and Annapolis officials regarding a new pact.

Penn and Cornell meeting for the 54th time, will attract Franklin Field's fourth sellout of the year. The Penn team already has clinched the Ivy league title and will be aiming for an undefeated season, its first such record since 1908. Penn has won seven games, and played a 7-7 tie with Army.

The most important game from a championship standpoint will be the Eagles-Steelers professional game. Neither club has won an NFL division title but the championship this year will rest either with Pittsburgh or Philadelphia.

At present the Steelers (seven won, three lost) hold a half game edge over the Eagles (6-3). In a previous meeting at Pittsburgh, the Steelers won 35 to 24.

Big Nine Conference Coaches Name Eleven

CHICAGO, Nov. 24. (AP) — Title-winning Michigan placed four players, sweeping three backfield berths, to dominate the all-Big Nine football team selected for the Associated Press today by conference coaches.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 24 (AP)—W. L. Brann's Gallorette was assigned top weight of 124 pounds for Saturday's $20,000 added Bryan and O'Hara Memorial Handicap, racing secretary and handicapper John Turner, Sr., disclosed today. The money-winning champion mare gets one pound more than the Ridgewood Stable's Double Jay, recent winner of the Prince George Autumn Handicap here. The test is at a mile and three-sixteenths.

Christiana Stable's Service Pilot was given 117 with Pentagon Stable's The Doge at 116, Brookmeade Stable's Boss at 112 and J. H. Hammond's Butler, winner of the Lynch Memorial Handicap, at 110.

Bay State Ring Group Suspends Eight Boxers

BOSTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Massachusetts Boxing Commission today suspended eight fighters — among them featherweight Whistling Willie Roache and lightweight Pat Demers.

Roache, of Wilmington, Del., was barred from Bay State rings until Jan. 4, 1948 for failing to keep an engagement in New Hampshire.

Demers, former New England lightweight champion, was suspended indefinitely at the request of the District of Columbia boxing commissioner.

Kid Caruso of West Newton, Bobby Martin of Boston, Frankie Martin of Boston, Augie Brett of Hartford, Al Pinel of New Bedford, Larry Laramie of Melrose.

Big Nine Conference Coaches Name Eleven

CHICAGO, Nov. 24. (AP)— Title-winning Michigan placed four players, sweeping three backfield berths, to dominate the all-Big Nine football team selected for the Associated Press today by conference coaches.

The balloting failed to produce a single unanimous choice, although Bob Chappuis, the sole repeater from last year's honor team, and Chalmers (Bump) Elliott, Michigan's great halfback duo, and guard Leo Nomellini of Minnesota each missed only one first team vote for 16 out of 18 possible points.

The selections:

|---|---|---|---|
| Isaiah Owens, Illinois | End | Robert Mann, Michigan | End |

PORTLAND, Me.—(AP)—When the cry "It's a holdup" issued from a store here, a passerby called police.

Two police cruisers and several patrolmen converged on the store with drawn guns. They discovered that the cry had come from an outraged storekeeper protesting to a truck driver about the price of a shipment.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

EN ROUTE TO HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24—(INS)—When someone asked cute little Wanda Hendrix if she and Audie Murphy, the most decorated war hero, were going to get married, she said: "We haven't arrived at the psychological moment to discuss that"—whatever that means!

Ann Sheridan

Well, psychological moment or not—Wanda continues zooming along on the Paramount lot, getting official star billing with Claude Rains in "Abigail, Dear Heart." It's a sentimental story of a young girl, married to an older man, and although MacDonald Carey comes along to complicate things, it isn't one of those triangle affairs.

I thought when I saw Wanda in "Ride The Pink Horse" that she was one of the freshest and most talented of the newcomers. That girl is going places in a big way.

"The Pursuit Of Love," the Nancy Mitford book, goes into production next spring, and Charlie Einfield is trying to get Dorothy McGuire for the lead. After "Gentleman's Agreement," Dorothy is sought by every studio, she's still under joint contract to David Selznick and 20th Century-Fox, however.

Charile, with a new bankroll and a new standing following the box office success of "Body and Soul," returned to the coast with his partner, David Loew. Their next picture is "Wild Calendar," starring Ginger Rogers and Glenn Ford. They're also getting "The Passion Of Eugene Aram" ready for Charles Boyer.

"Body and Soul" gave Enterprise a shot in the arm, and one they certainly needed right about now.

Jose Ferrer could write his own ticket in Hollywood after he finishes "Joan" with Ingrid Bergman. But he doesn't want to stay there.

Instead, he goes to Italy to star in and direct Pietro Di Donato's story, "Christ In Concrete" which is being produced by Rod Geiger, the man who did "Open City"—the best of the Italian movies.

I hear Ferrer chose this offer in preference to Hollywood bids because he has wanted to direct for a long time.

Funny, isn't it, that this story which has a Brooklyn background can be made cheaper in Italy.

Celeste Holm, who returns to the stage for the month of December in the role of Ado Annie in "Oklahoma," is very smart, I think. She tells me she won't let herself get stale on types and feels that returning to Broadway even for a short time will give her a chance to get her close to her audience.

I am not surprised that her favorite role is the one in "Gentleman's Agreement" for which she received such flattering notices.

Snapshots of New York and Hollywood collected at random:

Helena Carter hurried back to the coast the minute she learned George Raft was arriving in town on his way to Europe. Reason, up to now Helena was successful in avoiding making personal appearances for "Intrigue," the picture she made with Raft. She was afraid that George might try to talk her into it. I know that Sam Bischoff and United Artists have been very unlucky in convincing the Carter girl.

Gladys Swarthout's husband, Frank Chapman, is going into the producing business. He will bring "Moll Flanders" to the stage in January. It's a musical, and Deems Taylor is composing the score.

Walking from the Plaza to the Stork, we met Bunny Waters and Johnny Green on Fifth Avenue. They told me it was their wedding anniversary and the two of them had had dinner together. Johnny told me he had been called east by the death of his mother.

Mrs. Humphrey Bogart, in a fluffy dress, one of the few I have ever seen "Baby" wear, was at the Stork with Bogey and the Paul Zuckermans (Ruth Taylor). Baby told me she had bought her dress in Brooklyn. They had been to see Paul Kelly in "Command Performance" and were glad, as all of us are, over Paul's Broadway triumph.

The RKO Studio Club players are putting on "Out of the Frying Pan" at the Las Palmas playhouse to raise money for Christmas baskets.

Ann Sheridan and Steve Hannagan in the Cub Room as devoted as ever. Sometimes I wonder if Ann and Steve aren't secretly Mr. and Mrs. in spite of their denials.

Marjorie Reynolds sails for London today for the star role in "Burlesque" on the stage there.

Tony Martin and Betty Avery Drown back together at the Mocambo. This romance was sizzling a few months ago.

That's all today.

"The Pursuit Of Love," the Nancy Mitford book, goes into production next spring, and Charlie Einfield is trying to get Dorothy McGuire for the lead. After "Gentleman's Agreement," Dorothy is sought by every studio, she's still under joint contract to David Selznick and 20th Century-Fox, however.

Charile, with a new bankroll and a new standing following the box office success of "Body and Soul," returned to the coast with his partner, David Loew. Their next picture is "Wild Calendar," starring Ginger Rogers and Glenn Ford. They're also getting "The Passion Of Eugene Aram" ready for Charles Boyer.

"Body and Soul" gave Enterprise a shot in the arm, and one they certainly needed right about now.

Jose Ferrer could write his own ticket in Hollywood after he finishes "Joan" with Ingrid Bergman. But he doesn't want to stay there.

Instead, he goes to Italy to star in and direct Pietro Di Donato's story, "Christ In Concrete" which is being produced by Rod Geiger, the man who did "Open City"—the best of the Italian movies.

I hear Ferrer chose this offer in preference to Hollywood bids because he has wanted to direct for a long time.

Funny, isn't it, that this story which has a Brooklyn background can be made cheaper in Italy.

Celeste Holm, who returns to the stage for the month of December in the role of Ado Annie in "Oklahoma," is very smart, I think. She tells me she won't let herself get stale on types and feels that returning to Broadway even for a short time will give her a chance to get her close to her audience.

I am not surprised that her favorite role is the one in "Gentleman's Agreement" for which she received such flattering notices.

Snapshots of New York and Hollywood collected at random:

Helena Carter hurried back to the coast the minute she learned George Raft was arriving in town on his way to Europe. Reason, up to now Helena was successful in avoiding making personal appearances for "Intrigue," the picture she made with Raft. She was afraid that George might try to talk her into it. I know that Sam Bischoff and United Artists have been very unlucky in convincing the Carter girl.

Gladys Swarthout's husband, Frank Chapman, is going into the producing business. He will bring "Moll Flanders" to the stage in January. It's a musical, and Deems Taylor is composing the score.

Walking from the Plaza to the Stork, we met Bunny Waters and Johnny Green on Fifth Avenue. They told me it was their wedding anniversary and the two of them had had dinner together. Johnny told me he had been called east by the death of his mother.

Mrs. Humphrey Bogart, in a fluffy dress, one of the few I have ever seen "Baby" wear, was at the Stork with Bogey and the Paul Zuckermans (Ruth Taylor). Baby told me she had bought her dress in Brooklyn. They had been to see Paul Kelly in "Command Performance" and were glad, as all of us are, over Paul's Broadway triumph.

The RKO Studio Club players are putting on "Out of the Frying Pan" at the Las Palmas playhouse to raise money for Christmas baskets.

Ann Sheridan and Steve Hannagan in the Cub Room as devoted as ever. Sometimes I wonder if Ann and Steve aren't secretly Mr. and Mrs. in spite of their denials.

Marjorie Reynolds sails for London today for the star role in "Burlesque" on the stage there.

Tony Martin and Betty Avery Drown back together at the Mocambo. This romance was sizzling a few months ago.

That's all today.

Following the concert, students, alumni and others interested in the success of the local team will meet in front of Firemen's Hall and form a parade which, headed by the drum and bugle corps of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, will march to Beall High athletic field, where a pep meeting will be held around a bonfire.

Short talks will be given by Roger X. Day, representing the faculty, Joseph Hoopengardner, the football coach; Edward Finzel, director of athletics; Dale Coleman and Thomas Turner, co-captains of the football team, Lindy Catherman, president of the Student Forum, Charles N. # RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Town Meeting In Berlin

"America's Town Meeting of the Air" (ABC 8:30 p. m. EST Tuesdays) is that rare thing, a genuinely distinguished radio program. A distinguished program, according to my definition, is one that is not only well-intentioned but also one that is old enough to have acquired prestige and popular enough to have acquired a respectable number of listeners. "Town Meeting" qualifies on all three counts and off hand I can think of only two or three others in the same high category.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur

Now in its thirteenth year, "Town Meeting" has engaged in the last couple of weeks in a notable international experiment which was not entirely successful. A week ago, the town crier's bell rang not only in New York but also in Berlin where a screened audience of Germans and two speakers shared the air with two other speakers and an American audience in New York on the question "What Future For Germany?" Tonight the broadcast emanates from London and New York. Last summer "Town Meeting" scampered about the American countryside, leaving small seeds of learning in its wake.

General Douglas MacArthur employed a Japanese replica of "Town Meeting of the Air" to teach the Japanese there were two sides to any question, which, to the Japanese, was such an astounding idea they travelled for miles to get near a radio to hear well known Japanese take opposite sides in an argument. "Town Meeting", in fact, is becoming quite an international institution.

The trip to Germany was a bold idea but it didn't come off entirely well. Overseas transmission is a hazardous experiment at best and is particularly hazardous where ideas must be framed exactly if they are to mean anything at all. The muddiness of the transmission made large parts of the broadcast either incomprehensible or extreme'y difficult to follow.

I have one other criticism of this broadcast which applies, I'm afraid, to a good many "Town Meeting" broadcasts. The question "What Future for Germany?" is so broad and vague that there are no clear negative and affirmative stands that may be taken on it. The four speakers, James P. Warburg, former deputy director of the overseas branch of the Office of War Information; Sonia Tomara, former war correspondent for the New York Herald Tribune; Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, deputy military governor of Germany; and Dr. Karl Spieker, executive committee chairman for the bizonal organization in Germany, floundered badly trying to find some common ground of disagreement.

This is a common fault with "Town Meeting". Some of the debated questions are of such breadth that opposing arguments fly past each other about a block apart and there is no real meeting of minds. "Town Meeting" generates livelier arguments when it grapples with smaller subjects. One recent debate on the question "Is There a Communist Threat In Hollywood?" brought forth a spirited if sometimes ludicrous, argument between State Senator Jack B. Tenney of California and Emmet Lavery, president of the Screen Writers Guild. One of the most illuminating of "Town Meeting" broadcasts this year was a defense and attack of the Taft-Hartley Bill and one of the wittiest and most profound arguments took place between Dr. Lin Yutang and Dr. Harlow Shapley taking respectively the negative and affirmative stands on the question—"Has Twentieth Century Civilization Improved Mankind?"

To get back to the Berlin broadcast, it became gripping only when German civilians asked questions about their conquerers. One asked she asked whether the Americans contemplated the abandonment of Berlin which brought an emphatic denial from General Hays and another whether Americans really believed in pushing a positive policy in Germany which brought an equally emphatic affirmative from Mr. Warburg.

It is right here, when the uninformed, anxious mind of the ordinary citizen grapples with the informed or at least opinionated minds of the experts that "Town Meeting" ceases to be just another forum program and becomes a real town meeting. The idea is not just to listen but to take part. In discussing the responsibility of education in the post war world, George V. Denny, moderator of the program, once declared: "Man is afraid of ideas because he has not been trained to use them."

"Town Meeting" won't help anyone to use ideas but it will encourage him to touch them, to handle them and to find out what they are. Just how well "Town Meeting" succeeds in stimulating discussion among its listeners was demonstrated earlier this year when the American Broadcasting Company moved it from Thursday to Tuesday nights in order to protect the rest of its Thursday night programs. "Town Meeting", a network official explained, stirred up the listeners to such extent that they turned off the radio to continue the argument. No higher compliment could have been paid.

Losing Tendencies Prevail In Stock Market After Fairly Fast Opening

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP) — A smattering of stock market leaders attracted timid bidding today but the direction was downward for the majority of the more active performers.

Losing tendencies prevailed after a fairly fast opening. Dealings slowed at intervals. There were a few comebacks in the final hour but the majority of rails softened and declines of fractions to two points or so predominated at the close. Volume of 720,000 shares compared with 980,000 Friday and 750,000 last Monday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .3 of a point at 65, its third successive dip. The utilities average edged into new low ground for 1947. Of 973 issues registering, 549 fell and 218 rose.

Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway was up 2½ at 17½.

Liggett and Myers conceded 2¾ at 88 and International Business Machines

Off a point or better were Southern Railway 34⅞, du Pont 187 and American Can 82¾.

Backward in the curb were Kaiser-Frazer and Root Petroleum. Turnover here was 230,000 shares versus 220,000 in the previous full session.

A long list of railroad obligations beat a further retreat in today's bond market although some resistant spots appeared.

In other sections of the list quotations were well mixed, with price changes in either directon generally held to fractons.

Dealings held at a moderate pace, total sales of $4,370,000 comparing with $5,250,000 in the latest five-hour session Friday.

Most United States government issues held close to their previous level in over-the-counter dealings although the 2½s of September 1967-72 were off 5-32 at 103 17-32 bid.

SALLY'S SALLIES

"That's what I don't like about these new fashions."

RADIO IN REVIEW

Town Meeting In Berlin

"America's Town Meeting of the Air" (ABC 8:30 p. m. EST Tuesdays) is that rare thing, a genuinely distinguished radio program. A distinguished program, according to my definition, is one that is not only well-intentioned but also one that is old enough to have acquired prestige and popular enough to have acquired a respectable number of listeners. "Town Meeting" qualifies on all three counts and off hand I can think of only two or three others in the same high category.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur

Now in its thirteenth year, "Town Meeting" has engaged in the last couple of weeks in a notable international experiment which was not entirely successful. A week ago, the town crier's bell rang not only in New York but also in Berlin where a screened audience of Germans and two speakers shared the air with two other speakers and an American audience in New York on the question "What Future For Germany?" Tonight the broadcast emanates from London and New York. Last summer "Town Meeting" scampered about the American countryside, leaving small seeds of learning in its wake.

General Douglas MacArthur employed a Japanese replica of "Town Meeting of the Air" to teach the Japanese there were two sides to any question, which, to the Japanese, was such an astounding idea they travelled for miles to get near a radio to hear well known Japanese take opposite sides in an argument. "Town Meeting", in fact, is becoming quite an international institution.

The trip to Germany was a bold idea but it didn't come off entirely well. Overseas transmission is a hazardous experiment at best and is particularly hazardous where ideas must be framed exactly if they are to mean anything at all. The muddiness of the transmission made large parts of the broadcast either incomprehensible or extreme'y difficult to follow.

I have one other criticism of this broadcast which applies, I'm afraid, to a good many "Town Meeting" broadcasts. The question "What Future for Germany?" is so broad and vague that there are no clear negative and affirmative stands that may be taken on it. The four speakers, James P. Warburg, former deputy director of the overseas branch of the Office of War Information; Sonia Tomara, former war correspondent for the New York Herald Tribune; Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, deputy military governor of Germany; and Dr. Karl Spieker, executive committee chairman for the bizonal organization in Germany, floundered badly trying to find some common ground of disagreement.

This is a common fault with "Town Meeting". Some of the debated questions are of such breadth that opposing arguments fly past each other like ships in the night and there is no real meeting of minds. "Town Meeting" generates livelier arguments when it grapples with smaller subjects. One recent debate on the question "Is There a Communist Threat In Hollywood?" brought forth a spirited, if sometimes ludicrous, argument between State Senator Jack B. Tenney of California and Emmet Lavery, president of the Screen Writers Guild. One of the most illuminating of "Town Meeting" broadcasts this year was a defense and attack of the Taft-Hartley Bill and one of the wittiest and most profound arguments took place between Dr. Lin Yutang and Dr. Harlow Shapley taking respectively the negative and affirmative stands on the question—"Has Twentieth Century Civilization Improved Mankind?"

To get back to the Berlin broadcast, it became gripping only when German civilians asked questions about their conquerers. One asked One asked whether the Americans contemplated the abandonment of Berlin which brought an emphatic denial from General Hays and another whether Americans really believed in pushing a positive policy in Germany which brought an equally emphatic affirmative from Mr. Warburg.

It is right here, when the uninformed, anxious mind of the ordinary citizen grapples with the informed or at least opinionated minds of the experts that "Town Meeting" ceases to be just another forum program and becomes a real town meeting. The idea is not just to listen but to take part. In discussing the responsibility of education in the post war world, George V. Denny, moderator of the program, once declared: "Man is afraid of ideas because he has not been trained to use them."

"Town Meeting" won't help anyone to use ideas but it will encourage him to tumble them, to handle them and to find out what they are. Just how well "Town Meeting" succeeds in stimulating discussion among its listeners was demonstrated earlier this year when the American Broadcasting Company moved it from Thursday to Tuesday nights in order to protect the rest of its Thursday night programs. "Town Meeting", a network official explained, stirred up the listeners to such extent that they turned off the radio to continue the argument. No higher compliment could have been paid.

Losing Tendencies Prevail In Stock Market After Fairly Fast Opening

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP) — A smattering of stock market leaders attracted timid bidding today but the direction was downward for the majority of the more active performers.

Losing tendencies prevailed after a fairly fast opening. Dealings slowed at intervals. There were a few comebacks in the final hour but the majority of rails softened and declines of fractions to two points or so predominated at the close. Volume of 720,000 shares compared with 930,000 Friday and 750,000 last Monday

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .3 of a point at 65, its third successive dip. The utilities average edged into new low ground for 1947. Of 973 issues registering, 549 fell and 218 rose.

Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway was up 2¼ at 17½.

Liggett and Myers conceded 2¾ at 88 and International Business Machines

Off a point or better were Southern Railway 34⅞, du Pont 187 and American Can 82¾.

Backward in the curb were Kaiser-Frazer and Root Petroleum. Turnover here was 230,000 shares versus 220,000 in the previous full session.

A long list of railroad obligations beat a further retreat in today's bond market although some resistant spots appeared.

In other sections of the list quotations were well mixed, with price changes in either direction generally held to fractions.

Dealings held at a moderate pace, total sales of $4,370,000 comparing with $5,250,000 in the latest five-hour session Friday.

Most United States government issues held close to their previous level in over-the-counter dealings although the 2½s of September 1967-72 were off 5-32 at 103 17-32 bid.

DRIVER ACQUITTED OF MANSLAUGHTER FACES TIPSY CHARGE

WINCHESTER, Va.—Percy Carl Sponaugle, Franklin, W. Va., posted $500 bond here for a hearing in Trial Court December 19 on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor after a manslaughter charge was dismissed for lack of evidence.

The manslaughter charge was lodged against Sponaugle following a collision about a year ago between the truck he was driving and a car operated by Mrs. Alverta Steel, who was killed in the crash.

The charge was dropped after Judge Elliott Marshall sustained a motion to strike out all evidence on the grounds that nothing had been presented to show that Sponaugle had been driving at an excessive speed as set forth in the bill of particulars on behalf of the Commonwealth.

Judge Marshall dismissed the jury and ordered Sponaugle discharged but directed the issuance of a bench warrant charging the Franklin man with driving under the influence of intoxicants.

Three damage suits arising from the accident have been compromised and settled out of court for undisclosed sums.

Beer Sipping Robbin Knows A Good Home

CHICAGO — (AP) — A bird in good hands won't go back to a bush.

This seems to fit the strange case of Nicodemus, the robin. He fell out of a tree in August, and the Charles Chantells took him into their home. He developed a taste for ground beef and an occasional sip of beer. Now he spurns worms, shuns other birds, and like the man who came to dinner, he won't leave.

DRIVER ACQUITTED OF MANSLAUGHTER FACES TIPSY CHARGE

WINCHESTER, Va.—Percy Carl Sponaugle, Franklin, W. Va., posted $500 bond here for a hearing in Trial Court December 19 on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor after a manslaughter charge was dismissed for lack of evidence.

The manslaughter charge was lodged against Sponaugle following a collision about a year ago between the truck he was driving and a car operated by Mrs. Alverta Steel, who was killed in the crash.

The charge was dropped after Judge Elliott Marshall sustained a motion to strike out all evidence on the grounds that nothing had been presented to show that Sponaugle had been driving at an excessive speed as set forth in the bill of particulars on behalf of the Commonwealth.

Judge Marshall dismissed the jury and ordered Sponaugle discharged but directed the issuance of a bench warrant charging the Franklin man with driving under the influence of intoxicants.

Three damage suits arising from the accident have been compromised and settled out of court for undisclosed sums.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my Mother, Mrs. Rebecca Moore.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their expressions of kindness and sympathy following the death of our husband and father, Conda G. Lashley. We also wish to thank the Rev. Hall Sharp, the pallbearers and those who sent floral tributes and those who donated the use of their cars.

MRS. CONDA LASHLEY; SONS, ROBERT AND RALPH.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all our friends and neighbors who were so kind and helpful during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved son, husband and brother, Claude Duvall Grove. We also wish to thank Rev. J. C. Ledbetter, Rev. E. S. Price of Romney, the Elders from Frostburg, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, those who sent floral tributes and those who loaned cars for the funeral.

His Dad, Mother, Wife, Brothers and Sisters.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my Mother, Mrs. Rebecca Moore.

Could I but have one gift from God,
Mother, I would ask for you
To live again those happy hours,
I used to spend with you.
Tis lonesome here without you,
And sad the weary way,
For life is not the same to me
Since the day you went away.

Game Warden's Thermometer Is A Lie Detector

AP Newsfeatures

DENVER—Thermometers are the latest threat to game law violators in Colorado.

A warden checking three deer at night recently was told by the hunters that the animals had been killed before sundown. But the body temperature indicated the bucks had been felled within the hour.

So the warden did some backtracking, found empty shells and fresh entrails on the trail—and secured convictions and $100 fines for "spotlighting."

Similar methods will be used on duckhunters who have eight ducks and claim four were killed one day, four another.

Haile Selassie Gets Furniture And Sympathy

COPENHAGEN — (AP) — Haile Selassi, Emperor of Ethiopia, has ordered a set of furniture from Denmark.

The preiodical of the Danish Furniture Joiners Organization comments:

"We learn that some furniture in Danish renaissance style has been sold to the emperor which has caused us considerable unrest . . . We Danes have a reputation for being a humanistic people and it certainly had been better if one had abstained from adding Danish renaissance furniture to the chain of disasters which have fallen upon Selassie since Mussolini's aggression."

Last Nazi Sailors Leaving Denmark

COPENHAGEN—(AP)—In a few weeks the last remnants of the former German occupation forces in Denmark will leave Danish territory. They are some 100 sailors now completing minesweeping in Danish waters, until Danish minesweepers will take over. Since V-E Day, 4,000 German sailors have participated in the minesweeping of the Skagerrak, theatre of the Battle of Jutland between German and British naval forces during World War I.

Pension Plan

employe should be compelled to retire until he wishes to do so.

In contrast to the company's proposal that no provision for employe representation be made on the administrative pension committee, the union has asked that a central administrative group be set up, composed of a representative of hourly workers in each plant together with an equal number of company representatives.

Contributions Cited

The company's plan suggests a one per cent contribution by employes on the average monthly wage between $50 and $250, will one and one-quarter per cent on wages over $250.

In contrast, the union has suggested a higher contribution by each employe so as to provide for better pension upon retirement. The stipulation is also suggested that employes' contributions plus interest be returnable if a worker's services are terminated for any reason.

Referring to the company's statement that the cost of the pension as approximated during contract negotiations would amount to $4,848,000 for past service and $300,000 for future service, the union stated many factors are involved which would reduce the cost "to a great degree."

Pensions provided under the company's proposal would not be as generous as those in many other companies, according to the union statement.

At present pay levels, union officials said, the average worker would probably not receive more than $40 or $50 monthly if he retires within the next 10 or 15 years. They added that the 250 employes who will be eligible to retire next April 1 would probably not receive "much above" $25 monthly under the company's suggested plan.

Referendum Set For Keyser Fire Hall Bond Issue

Voting Scheduled For December 30

By JUNE B. ROLLEY

KEYSER, W. Va.—Mayor John C. Freeland and the City Council, which held a special meeting with the seven-member Citizens Committee last night, approved an order authorizing a referendum election on the question of floating a $35,000 bond issue to raise more funds toward the construction of a municipal fire hall.

The referendum will be held December 30.

The order was prepared by City Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr., following the presentation of a petition signed by Keyser voters.

A three-fifths majority of the total number of those voting in the referendum will be necessary for approval of the bond issue.

The council and the Citizens Committee also approved an order authorizing an unspecified increase of the Keyser tax levy in the event the bond issue is approved.

Officials pointed out that the bond issue became almost necessary when it was discovered that the $37,000 now available for constructing the fire hall would be insufficient to complete the job.

Mayor Freeland said $4,000 of the contemplated $35,000 bond issue would be used toward retirement of a previous issue, leaving $31,000 to be applied to cost of building the fire hall.

The city itself will carry out construction of the two-story brick structure, which will be located at the corner of Center and Mineral Streets. Frank Snider, Keyser contractor, will be in charge of the work.

Harry C. Kight was elected chairman of the Citizens Committee at last night's meeting.

Decorations Ordered

Christmas decorations for Keyser streets have been ordered, and a house-to-house canvass will start today for contributions toward the $1,000 needed to pay for them, members of the Keyser Business and Professional Association announced at a meeting last night.

Stores will remain open until 9 p. m. daily, starting December 13, and will close at 6 p. m. on Christmas Eve. The normal closing hour is 5 p. m.

Harry Groudon, chairman of the membership committee, reported the association now numbers 117 paid-up members.

The next meeting will be held the first Monday in January, when a proposed constitution and bylaws will be submitted for approval. The committee in charge is R. O. Martin, Coyd Yost and Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr., and Donald C. Hott.

Reburial Rites Held For Pvt. Harmon

A funeral service for Pvt. Harold G. Harmon, 36, who was killed November 22, 1944, in the Battle of the Bulge, was conducted last Wednesday in Ravenswood, W. Va. He was a brother of Ralph Harmon, this city, who attended the service.

Rev. Varial Winters, pastor of Elizabeth Baptist Church, officiated and reburial was in Pine Hill Cemetery, Ripley, W. Va.

Pvt. Harmon entered service April 3, 1944, and was assigned to Company A, 26th Infantry Division. In addition to the brother here, he is survived by his widow and three children, the father, another brother, a stepbrother and two half-sisters.

The Sandyville Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion of Ravenswood and Ripley accorded full military honors.

Warsaw Estimates 100,000 Bodies In Ruins

WARSAW—(AP)—There are still 100,000 bodies of Poles under the debris and rubble of Warsaw—the city that survived six years of war, two insurrections and a long Nazi occupation.

That's the latest estimate by municipal authorities who almost daily are finding mass collections of corpses as they proceed with reconstruction work. Thirty-seven thousand bodies have been found.

Municipal authorities also say they have collected 20 tons of human ashes at sites of crematoriums maintained by the Nazis.

Game Warden's Thermometer Is A Lie Detector

AP Newsfeatures

DENVER—Thermometers are the latest threat to game law violators in Colorado.

A warden checking three deer at night recently was told by the hunters that the animals had been killed before sundown. But the body temperature indicated the bucks had been felled within the hour.

So the warden did some backtracking, found empty shells and fresh entrails on the trail—and secured convictions and $100 fines for "spotlighting."

Similar methods will be used on duckhunters who have eight ducks and claim four were killed one day, four another.

Haile Selassie Gets Furniture And Sympathy

COPENHAGEN — (AP) — Haile Selassi, Emperor of Ethiopia, has ordered a set of furniture from Denmark.

The preiodical of the Danish Furniture Joiners Organization comments:

"We learn that some furniture in Danish renaissance style has been sold to the emperor which has caused us considerable unrest . . . We Danes have a reputation for being a humanistic people and it certainly had been better if one had abstained from adding Danish renaissance furniture to the chain of disasters which have fallen upon Selassie since Mussolini's aggression."

Last Nazi Sailors Leaving Denmark

COPENHAGEN—(AP)—In a few weeks the last remnants of the former German occupation forces in Denmark will leave Danish territory. They are some 100 sailors now completing minesweeping in Danish waters, until Danish minesweepers will take over. Since V-E Day, 4,000 German sailors have participated in the minesweeping of the Skagerrak, theatre of the Battle of Jutland between German and British naval forces during World War I.

Pension Plan

employe should be compelled to retire until he wishes to do so.

In contrast to the company's proposal that no provision for employe representation be made on the administrative pension committee, the union has asked that a central administrative group be set up, composed of a representative of hourly workers in each plant together with an equal number of company representatives.

Contributions Cited

The company's plan suggests a one per cent contribution by employes on the average monthly wage between $50 and $250, will one and one-quarter per cent on wages over $250.

In contrast, the union has suggested a higher contribution by each employe so as to provide for better pension upon retirement. The stipulation is also suggested that employes' contributions plus interest be returnable if a worker's services are terminated for any reason.

All employes would receive Social Security benefits in addition to their pension.

Referring to the company's statement that the cost of the pension as approximated during contract negotiations would amount to $4,848,000 for past service and $300,000 for future service, the union stated many factors are involved which would reduce the cost "to a great degree."

Pensions provided under the company's proposal would not be as generous as those in many other companies, according to the union statement.

At present pay levels, union officials said, the average worker would probably not receive more than $40 or $50 monthly if he retires within the next 10 or 15 years. They added that the 250 employes who will be eligible to retire next April 1 would probably not receive "much above" $25 monthly under the company's suggested plan.

Referendum Set For Keyser Fire Hall Bond Issue

Voting Scheduled For December 30

By JUNE B. ROLLEY

KEYSER, W. Va.—Mayor John C. Freeland and the City Council, which held a special meeting with the seven-member Citizens Committee last night, approved an order authorizing a referendum election on the question of floating a $35,000 bond issue to raise more funds toward the construction of a municipal fire hall.

The referendum will be held December 30.

The order was prepared by City Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr., following the presentation of a petition signed by Keyser voters.

A three-fifths majority of the total number of those voting in the referendum will be necessary for approval of the bond issue.

The council and the Citizens Committee also approved an order authorizing an unspecified increase of the Keyser tax levy in the event the bond issue is approved.

Officials pointed out that the bond issue became almost necessary when it was discovered that the $37,000 now available for constructing the fire hall would be insufficient to complete the job.

Mayor Freeland said $4,000 of the contemplated $35,000 bond issue would be used toward retirement of a previous issue, leaving $31,000 to be applied to cost of building the fire hall.

The city itself will carry out construction of the two-story brick structure, which will be located at the corner of Center and Mineral Streets. Frank Snider, Keyser contractor, will be in charge of the work.

Harry C. Kight was elected chairman of the Citizens Committee at last night's meeting.

Decorations Ordered

Christmas decorations for Keyser streets have been ordered, and a house-to-house canvass will start today for contributions toward the $1,000 needed to pay for them, members of the Keyser Business and Professional Association announced at a meeting last night.

Stores will remain open until 9 p. m. daily, starting December 13, and will close at 6 p. m. on Christmas Eve. The normal closing hour is 5 p. m.

Harry Groudon, chairman of the membership committee, reported the association now numbers 117 paid-up members.

The next meeting will be held the first Monday in January, when a proposed constitution and bylaws will be submitted for approval. The committee in charge is R. O. Martin, Coyd Yost and Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr., and Donald C. Hott.

Warsaw Estimates 100,000 Bodies In Ruins

WARSAW—(AP)—There are still 100,000 bodies of Poles under the debris and rubble of Warsaw—the city that survived six years of war, two insurrections and a long Nazi occupation.

That's the latest estimate by municipal authorities who almost daily are finding mass collections of corpses as they proceed with reconstruction work. Thirty-seven thousand bodies have been found.

Municipal authorities also say they have collected 20 tons of human ashes at sites of crematoriums maintained by the Nazis.

Airport Manager Applicant Meets With Commission

Suggests Salary Of $400-$500 Monthly

An applicant to manage the Cumberland Municipal Airport conferred yesterday with three members of the Airport Commission, and was informed the commission will operate the airport in the name of the City of Cumberland and will employ a manager for that purpose in the event the port is not leased.

The applicant, Arthur A. Belt, Shanks, W. Va., operator of the Belt Aircraft Corporation formerly located at Flushing Airport, Flushing, L. I., was given that information at a meeting with Mayor Thomas S. Post and Oscar C. Gurley, commission members, and T. Donald Shires, commission secretary.

Belt said he thought managing the field would be worth $400 to $500 a month, but said he would be willing to live at the airport and would consider the apartment in the administration building as a part of his pay.

The present lessee, Cumberland Airways, Inc., is not expected to renew its contract which expires December 31, and the Airport Commission has asked for bids for operation of the field.

These bids are due on Thursday and will be opened at a commission meeting December 1. Belt was informed the commission will know more about the future set-up once these bids are opened.

Meanwhile, one of several parties interested in operation of the airport informed Shires yesterday that he expects to be in Cumberland today to submit two proposals to the commission. He is Charles Frew, operator of one of two airports at York, Pa.

Belt, 29, said he is a native of Cumberland and worked for Edwards Flying Service, Inc., at Flushing Airport for three years, assisting in management of three government training programs. He also was associated in distribution of Stinson aircraft, resigning in 1941 to start the Belt Aircraft Corporation.

Obtaining his private flying license in 1940, Belt said he has had broad flying experience and that most of his 800 hours of flying has been cross country. He added that he studied engineering for a year at Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va., and served two years in the Merchant Marine.

Rev. William A. Eisenberger, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will participate in the service.

"Thanksgiving" will be the subject of the Bible Lesson-Sermon in all Church of Christ, Scientist, Thursday, according to an announcement made yesterday. # Lions Christmas Tree Sale Slated To Start Dec. 15

Finances Kiddie Party And Project For Blind

The Cumberland Lions Club's third annual Christmas tree sale to raise funds for its annual Christmas Kiddies Party and to help finance its sight conservation program and aid to the blind, will begin about December 15, according to Alvin E. Yaste, secretary-treasurer.

As in past years, about 1,500 to 2,000 trees will be placed on sale at the North Centre Street lot where the Times-News war map was located.

Some 175 to 200 deserving children from Cumberland's elementary schools and the Keating Memorial Day Nursery are to be invited to the club's Kiddie Party which will be held in Central Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on December 17.

The party will be marked by a visit from Santa Claus who will present a red stocking full of candy and toys to each youngster present after the turkey dinner.

Entertainment will include feats of magic by Oscar Parrish and his rabbit, Oscar, Jr., selections by the Lions Glee Club and either the Fort Hill or Allegany High School orchestra.

As part of its year-around sight conservation program, for which some of the funds received from the Christmas tree sale will be allocated, the club is sponsoring nine deserving Allegany County children who are students at the Maryland School for the Blind at Overlea, Baltimore County, and otherwise would be unable to attend the school.

This is in addition to its program of furnishing an average of six pairs of eyeglasses monthly to children in the county who otherwise could not afford them. No limit is set on the number of pairs of glasses so provided. This program operates through co-operation of the Health Department.

In its project of aiding children at the School for the Blind, the club has been providing clothing, eye examinations and eyeglasses. Recently it bore the expense of a tonsillectomy of one of the students.

Supplementing this work, the club has forwarded to the superintendent of the school a considerable sum of money to be used in his discretion for supplying the needs of the county children who are students there. This same assistance will be given to any other children of the county who may enter the school.

Furnace Failure Closes St. Mary's Parochial School

Sisters In Convent Also Without Heat

St. Mary's Parochial School, Oldtown Road was closed yesterday and students were sent home by the principal, Sister Francelle, as the result of a furnace failure. There will be no school classes held this week, but it is hoped the heating plant will be repaired by next Monday, school officials said.

The school, and St. Mary's Convent, are situated in the same building, and the Sisters who teach in the school have their living quarters in a part of the building.

Yesterday, and all last night, the Sisters remained at the convent, with little heat except that furnished by a couple of small electric heaters. With the weather growing colder, and chances of no heat for several days, it is being considered possible that the 13 Sisters housed there, may be moved elsewhere temporarily.

Officials of the parish said last night an entirely new boiler and heating plant was installed in the school and convent building a short time ago, but the whole thing ceased operations over the weekend and cracks developed in several places. A large coal-fired steam plant, the furnace heats 12 class rooms, several large corridors, and a dozen or more other rooms in the combined building.

St. Mary's school includes all elementary grades as well as high school, and enrollment is approximately 365 students, with the majority in the lower grades.

St. Mary's officials hope that repairs can be made to the furnace this week, and said work is already underway. Parish officials said that school will open Monday, unless further announcement is made.

Series Of Radio Programs Planned By P-TA Council

The Allegany County Council of Parent-Teacher Association held its regular business meeting and a workshop last night at the board of education office.

Mrs. Stanley Buckley announced that the book, Bring's Adventure Story, will be used for the series of radio programs, which will begin at 7:45, December 4, under the sponsorship of the County Council. Mrs. John E. Lancaster, was appointed chairman of the committee in charge of the Founders Day program to be observed at the February meeting. She will name her own committee. Dates for the state Parent-Teacher convention was announced for December 7-8 and 9.

During the work shop Mrs. Franklin Martens, Publications chairman; Claire Mease, Safety chairman; Dr. Adam Baer, Social Hygiene chairman; Herbert Heineman, Library chairman and Miss Mary G. Walsh were in charge.

Mrs. Martens emphasized the importance of the National P-T magazine and urged all parents to subscribe to it. A $10 award has been offered by the County Council for the school obtaining the greatest number of subscriptions during the contest, which began at the last meeting and will close in June.

Mr. Mease spoke on doing things safely, not only in the school, but in the home and on the streets. He emphasized that parents and teachers should be given safety rules for the children.

Dr. Baer explained that the Social Hygiene field is a new one, not only in Allegany County, but in the state, and suggested following the state program, which is the study of social diseases. He asked each local P-TA to appoint Social Hygiene chairman, and for these to form a study group on the topic.

Mr. Heineman spoke on the county library and reported the committee hopes to meet with the county commissioners in the near future. Miss Walsh conducted a forum on the library work.

H. H. Clegg To Address C Of C Dinner Tonight

Cash And Food Collected By Young Methodists For Strawbridge Home

Kingsley Group Wins Prize For Best Booth

A total of $231 and well over 2,000 cans of food were collected for the Strawbridge Home for Boys at the Thanksgiving Rally of the Sub-District Methodist Youth Fellowship, held last night at Centre Street Methodist Church. The food and cash will be sent to the home later this week.

The Kingsley Church group won the first prize for their booth, for having the largest amount of money collected, which was $86. They received a prize of $5. Second prize was awarded to Centre Street Church group for having the largest amount of food collected. Their booth displayed over 600 cans of food. They received a $3 award.

Centenary Church group won the prize for the most original idea for a booth. It was built to represent a small wagon, and was filled with hay and canned goods. The wheels were covered with paper money and representing how it goes around, and the spokes of the wheels were covered with coins, fastened on with scotch tape.

Other designs were dollar bills pasted on trees, representing the "fruit of the tree."

Booths were arranged by the young people's group from the various churches of the sub-district, and contained the money and food they collected during the week for the Methodist boys home.

Dr. Reid Issac, director of Child Welfare of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church, formerly superintendent of the Strawbridge Home for Boys, was the principal speaker. He outlined the needs of the children and equipment for the home.

Jean Curl, president of the Fellowship, presided at the banquet and business session. Rev. Walter Marion Michaels, pastor of the host church, offered the invocation at the banquet. Announcement was made of the hayride to be held Friday night, leaving the cross roads at 8 o'clock; and the council meeting, at 8, December 8 at Central YMCA.

Barbee Sue Mansfield was chairman of the program which included vocal selections by James Hager, and numbers by the Fort Hill Verse Speaking Choir. Accompanied by Dorothy Raines, Hager sang "The Lord's Prayer." # Three Tons Collected

Three tons of wastepaper were collected yesterday as the monthly campaign got underway in outlying sections. Today the drive will cover the West Side.

State Checking License Records For Delinquents

License Bureau investigators of the State of Maryland have been sent here to investigate delinquent contractors and other business people who have failed to obtain proper licenses to do business, it was revealed yesterday.

A check at the Court House yesterday revealed that only six Allegany County contractors have obtained their annual $15 permits to do business, as required by an act of 1916.

It is estimated there are about 300 firms and individuals in the county, operating as contractors of one form or another, who do more than $5,000 gross business annually, and consequently are covered by this license law.

Mathew A. Powers, chief inspector of state licenses, estimated there were 3,000 or more delinquent contractors in Baltimore City alone, but added it was not possible yet to give an estimate for the state.

The 1916 act had never been generally enforced but the attorney general, Hall Hammond, has ruled that all contractors who have not taken out the $15 license fee must do so and also pay the 10 per cent penalty for each of the last four years. The attorney general ruled that a four-year period of limitations applies to the situation.

Baltimore city officials had hopes of collecting several hundred thousand dollars in back fees when City Councilman William J. Muth recently stumbled upon a 1916 state regulation requiring all contractors to take out an annual $15 license if they gross more than $5,000 worth of business a year. Mayor d'Alesandro asserted the fees might go far toward balancing the city budget.

However, Attorney General Hall Hammond has ruled that the fees belong to the state and declared that all such fees up to and including 1947 would belong to the state. He said next year's fees would be available to Baltimore and the counties under the new "Sherbow Plan," which gives such revenues to the state subdivision in which they are collected.

Pension Plan Is Considered For Paper Workers

Union, Company Make Proposals

Several meetings have been held in Washington recently to discuss a pension plan for employes at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, the office of CIO Local 676, United Paper Workers of America, announced yesterday.

Murray W. Latimer, a recognized expert in the field, whose services were secured by the union, has made several proposals which are being considered by the New York headquarters of the company.

The company has proposed a $25 minimum pension, as compared to the union request for a $50 minimum.

Employes must be at least 30 years old with one year of service to be eligible for the plan, according to the company's recommendation. Past service would be paid for only on the basis of years worked after an employe reaches the age of 30.

Age Limit Proposed

The union, pointing out that if an employe is 31 and has worked for the company 11 years, he would be entitled to only one year's past service, recommended that all past service, minus five years, be paid for by the company.

Employes should also be permitted to join the pension program before they are 30, the union stated.

Under the company's proposal, an employe must retire at the age of 65 unless company permission is granted to extend the time in individual cases. The union has asked that employes be given the right to retire at 65 but that no

Colder Weather And Snow Flurries Reported In Area

Snow flurries, high wind and dropping temperatures were reported in the tri-state area last night with colder weather expected today.

Almost an inch—.82 to be exact of rain fell in Cumberland yesterday and intermittent showers were reported throughout the county, along with snow flurries in some sections around 9 p. m.

State Police reported it snowed "hard" at Cresaptown for a short time but that none of it laid. Light flurries were reported in LaVale.

In Garrett County, State Police said snow mixed with rain fell in the Grantsville section, beginnng about 5:30 p. m., but that the snow melted as it hit the ground, except on the top of Big Savage Mountain and on Keyser's Ridge. Strong winds were reported.

Pennsylvania State Police at Somerset and Bedford reported snow flurries in both sections along with high winds, and the Western Maryland Railway dispatcher here said he had been informed of snow flurries late yesterday at Deal, Pa., and Thomas, W. Va.

High wind was reported at both Deal and Thomas, with the temperature at the former down to 26 degrees at 10:30 p. m. and at the latter down to 28 at the same hour.

In Cumberland, after hitting a maximum of 55 degrees yesterday, the mercury had slumped to 37 last night, but the strong wind blowing gave the impression it was much colder here.

East of Cumberland, at Hagerstown and Frederick, State Police said it was dry and windy last night.

Car And School Bus Wreck At Fort Hill

A 1933 sedan was badly damaged yesterday morning when it collided with a school bus loaded with children, in front of Fort Hill High School on Greenway Avenue, but no injuries were reported, according to police.

The collision occurred at 8:30 a. m., police reported as the bus driver, John Hardinger attempted to turn into the circle at the school. According to a police report, the bus, owned by Ward Wilson, made a left hand turn and struck the machine.

Police identified the driver of the car as Harry W. Robboson, 540 Central Avenue. No charges were preferred, according to police, who said Officer William McGraw investigated.

Officers Richard Lashley, who removed the tree, said it measured about 18 inches in thickness and pulled an electrical wire running to a street light down too. The wire was later repaired, he said.

Two Youths Held After Admitting Theft Of Calf

Police Say Meat Sold Privately

Cpl. R. R. Karickhoff, West Virginia State Police, said Nile Shuck, 19, Dawson, and Gilbert Lease, Fort Ashby, admitted stealing a calf from the farm of Jesse Simpson near Keyser, on the early morning of November 18 and butchering it near Cresaptown.

According to police the two youths killed the calf on the Simpson farm and then carried it to Maryland where they skinned and carved it. The meat was sold to private homes in the Cumberland-Cresaptown section, police said.

Shuck was arrested early yesterday morning in Maryland by Trooper Thomas G. Barton and turned over to West Virginia authorities after he waived extradition. He was held in Cumberland's City Jail for several hours.

Lease was arrested at his home by Cpl. Karickhoff and Trooper Frank Bowley Sunday and was taken to Mineral County Jail.

Both youths yesterday admitted stealing and butchering the calf and told authorities that the sale of the meat netted hem $7 in cash and a fifth of whisky. Police said they made several sales to unsuspecting persons.

Both West Virginia and Maryland State Police have been investigating the case for the past week.

Cpl. Karickhoff said the youths will be held in Mineral County Jail pending a preliminary hearing at the discretion of the Mineral County prosecuting attorney.

Pluckett Forfeits Drunk Driving Bond

Enoch J. Plunkett, 100 Mt. Pleasant Street, Frostburg, yesterday forfeited $113.90 bond on charges of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and reckless driving, when he failed to appear in Trial Magistrates Court for a hearing.

Pluckett was arrested Saturday by Trooper Milton Hart, Maryland State Police, and held in Allegany County Jail several hours until bond was posted. He was apprehended on Route 40 at Clarysville.

Donald S. Sheetz, 49 South Street, identified as the driver of a car, which plunged over a 20 foot embankment near Cresaptown Saturday night, forfeited $6.45 on a reckless driving charge.

Trooper G. M. Rotruck preferred charges. He said the car rolled over several times after leaving the road but no one was injured.

Donald W. Humbertson, 31 Davidson Street, forfeited $6.45 on a charge of failing to halt at a boulevard stop sign on Route 40 in LaVale Sunday.

Vernon C. Beachy, Grantsville, forfeited $3.45 for failure to stop at an intersection on Route 40, LaVale, Saturday. Gilbert L. Markwood, 826 Columbia Avenue, forfeited $11.45 for exceeding 50 miles per hour on Route 220 at Bowling Green Saturday.

Billy M. Darlington, 43, Boone Street, forfeited $11.45 for exceeding 50 miles an hour Friday on Braddock Road. Trooper Rotruck preferred all the charges.

State Head 40 And 8 Undergoes Operation

Charles G. Smith, Mt. Savage Road, grand chef de gare of the State of Maryland 40 and 8, who underwent an operation at Allegany Hospital, November 15, is reported improving. His physicians say, however, he will be hospitalized about two more weeks.

Police Study Two Motives In Death Of Newlyweds

Learn Of Another Girl; Objections

Two possible motives were being studied last night by Pennsylvania State Police to determine the reason for a double suicide pact between a former Cumberland man and his bride of one day, who were found dead Sunday in a parked car near Greensburg, Pa.

Authorities said they learned that Bridges Winston Pittard, 24, the bridegroom, had been flying to New York from his suburban Pittsburgh home to see another girl friend, and also that the parents of the bride, the former Helen Grove Brown, 21, were objecting to the marriage.

Pvt. Leo DePolo, Pennsylvania State Police, said a verbal verdict of suicide by carbon monoxide gas had been given in the death of the pair, who were married by a Pittsburgh alderman Friday night, one day before their scheduled church wedding.

Objected To Marriage

Pittard's father, police said, declared that his son had gone to New York several times in the past three months to see a girl friend whom he met while serving with the United States Army.

The father also told police, they said, that the dead girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos T. Brown, Bellevue, a suburb of Pittsburgh, had objected to a marriage between their daughter and Pittard.

Investigation yesterday proved that an empty sleeping tablet box, found in the car, was the property of the girl's father, and was apparently taken by her shortly before they left on what appeared to be a secret honeymoon trip.

Police said also that the hose used to pipe carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust pipe into the car, was a "brand new" hose off a vacuum cleaner, which the pair apparently purchased.

Pittard's father told police that he found a piece of red hose and a box of tape in the rear seat of his car last Thursday after his son had used the car. He said he attached no significance to it at the time and threw it in the house where it still is.

Pittard, a former Allegany High School student, and his bride, who visited here last August, were found dead in a car that had been rented from a Pittsburgh agency one a lonely road in back of a Greensburg cemetery.

Were Well Dressed

Authorities explained also that they found another medicine box in the car, and said there were about three tablets of an undetermined medicine melted together on the bottom of the box. Police said they had not yet learned the identity of the New York girl whom Pittard was visiting.

Medical officials in West Moreland County, where the couple was found, declared last night that no autopsy would be performed and indicate that the investigation may be closed without further effort to establish a motive.

The couple were to have been married at a church wedding Saturday, and police said to their knowledge, neither of their parents knew that they were married Friday night. The bride called Miss Jane Mitchell, who was to be a bridesmaid at the church wedding, and told her they were leaving for New York on a honeymoon trip Friday night, according to police.

Both victims were well dressed and about $200 was found in their packages in the car. Police said they were lying in each other's arms in the back seat when the bodies were found.

Two Home Building Permits Granted

Building permits for construction of two new homes were granted yesterday in the office of the City Engineer.

One permit was issued to W. A. McKinney, 810 Ashland Avenue, for a one-story concrete block house covered with stucco, measuring 28 by 36 feet, on Lot 79, Ashland Avenue. Cost is estimated at $5,000.

A permit also was granted to Benjamin R. Valentine, rear 1123 Bedford Street, to build a one-story brick house, 34 by 32 feet, on Lot 6, Valentine Avenue. Cost is estimated at $3,000.

Frank R. Fleckenstein was granted a permit to build a 20 by 25 foot concrete block garage in the rear of 520 Greene Street at an estimated cost of $200.

TEMPERATURE READING

The temperature hit a maximum of 55 degrees here yesterday, rising to that mark from an overnight low of 40, but last night at 9:30 the mercury had declined to 37 degrees. An hour later it was down to 34. Rainfall for the day totaled .82 of an inch. Today's forecast is for considerable cloudiness, windy and colder with freezing temperatures expected tonight.

Artificial Fish Pond Is Built On Kolb Farm Near Flintstone

The artificial pond, providing about half an acre of surface, was constructed with equipment of the Allegany Soil Conservation Service on the farm off Route 40, at the foot of Martin's Mountain.

The by-pass pond, according to Philip J. Walter, soil conservationist, has already been filled by water piped from the nearby Dickerson Run.

Kolb, who is president of the Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company, expects the pond to furnish recreation as well as a supply of water for fire fighting and as a source of drinking water for stock.

A somewhat similar pond has been in operation on the farm of Stanley Weimer in Mt. Savage, for several years but was built on the site of a former reservoir.

Although all of the actual construction has been completed, the pond will still have to be seeded and stocked before Mr. Kolb and his friends can catch their first mess of fish.

Such ponds, Mr. Walter said, are usually stocked with small mouth bass and blue gill sunfish at the rate of one bass to 10 sunnies so that about 50 bass may be placed in the pond when conditions are right.

With proper care, an acre pond will provide more fish than the average family will catch with a hook and line, he added.

The Soil Conservation Service, he added, is interested in artificial ponds for a number of reasons, he added. Besides the obvious value of the fishing as a means of recreation and to vary the diet of farm families, the water supply is invaluable for fire fighting, as water for stock and to provide water for orchard spraying. The presence of the water is also useful in aiding wild life.

Over $1,000 In Social Security Payments Lost In Area Each Month

Payments are being lost at the approximate rate of $1,000 a month by residents of the Cumberland area who fail to file claims for Social Security benefits through the Cumberland field office, William W. Wood, Jr., manager, reported yesterday.

A recent test reveals that in a four week period from September 29, 1947, and October 24, 1947, six persons lost payments of $1,075 through delays in filing claims for Social Security benefits, he said.

Of these six, two were wage earners over 65, one was the wife of a wage earner over 65 who herself has become 65, one was an elderly widow and the last was a widow with a small child, he said.

Money Is Lost

All of these persons are now getting their Social Security payments but all lost considerable money through the delays in filing of claims.

The trouble, he explained, is that these and many other persons have not bothered to come to the Cumberland field office to ask about their rights either as a retired worker at age 65 or as a survivor of a deceased wage earner.

Payments under the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Law are never

Sufficient Oil Supply For Winter Months Is Doubtful, MacBeth Says

Despite recently improved conditions in the oil industry, R. B. MacBeth, chairman of Allegany-Garrett Counties Oil Industry's Public Relations Committee, said it is doubtful, if East Coast requirements will be met this winter.

The situation will be even more serious should the weather prove severe and householders, motorists and other users of petroleum products fail to co-operate in spreading available supplies.

The petroleum supply, which has been at a critical low, was aided slightly by the Federal Government's release of additional tankers and the widespread efforts of oil companies to increase production.

A recent study shows that the Eastern area is almost entirely dependent upon outside sources of supply. Much of this supply reaches the Atlantic Coast by water and the prolonged strike at ship-repair yards along the seaboard raised havoc with the tanker fleet.

Other difficulties in the transportation situation have been caused by the inability of industry to obtain sufficient amounts of steel, electrical supplies and other essential equipment to construct new facilities, such as tank cars, and tank trucks.

Some relief is expected from the widespread co-operation which has been received from public officials and others to keep open the inland waterways for a longer period of time this winter, thus greatly relieving the overburdened tank trucks.

Nationally, the transportation deficiency has been reflected sharply in the stock position of the four major products — gasoline, kerosene, light and heavy fuel oils. As of October 31, the inventory of these products was between 9 and 10 million barrels less than it was a year previous.

This year's demand on the American oil industry is expected to reach a new high. The estimate is 582 gallons for each person in the country.

Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, is planning to participate in the American Legion's biggest nation-wide Christmas party, and at tonight's regular meeting, the local unit's participation will be outlined and committees named, according to Commander Thomas J. "Pat" Farrell.

Last year the local post and its auxiliary participated in the "Gifts For the Yanks Who Gave", and in addition to this project, this year, are planning to donate funds to their Child Welfare Committee for Christmas gifts for needy orphans of veterans, along with other suggestions which might come out of tonight's session, Commander Farrell said.

Other Legion posts in Mountain District are also planning special Christmas activities. Some plan to participate in Community Observances. Others plan to provide baskets and gifts for needy families, and still others plan gifts for hospitalized veterans.

Suggests Salary Of $400-$500 Monthly

An applicant to manage the Cumberland Municipal Airport conferred yesterday with three members of the Airport Commission, and was informed the commission will operate the airport in the name of the City of Cumberland and will employ a manager for that purpose in the event the port is not leased.

The applicant, Arthur A. Belt, Shanks, W. Va., operator of the Belt Aircraft Corporation formerly located at Flushing Airport, Flushing, L. I., was given that information at a meeting with Mayor Thomas S. Post and Oscar C. Gurley, commission members, and T. Donald Shires, commission secretary.

Belt said he thought managing the field would be worth $400 to $500 a month, but said he would be willing to live at the airport and would consider the apartment in the administration building as a part of his pay.

The present lessee, Cumberland Airways, Inc., is not expected to renew its contract which expires December 31, and the Airport Commission has asked for bids for operation of the field.

These bids are due on Thursday and will be opened at a commission meeting December 1. Belt was informed the commission will know more about the future set-up once these bids are opened.

Meanwhile, one of several parties interested in operation of the airport informed Shires yesterday that he expects to be in Cumberland today to submit two proposals to the commission. He is Charles Frew, operator of one of two airports at York, Pa.

Belt, 29, said he is a native of Cumberland and worked for Edwards Flying Service, Inc., at Flushing Airport for three years, assisting in management of three government training programs. He also was associated in distribution of Stinson aircraft, resigning in 1941 to start the Belt Aircraft Corporation.

Obtaining his private flying license in 1940, Belt said he has had broad flying experience and that most of his 800 hours of flying has been cross country. He added that he studied engineering for a year at Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va., and served two years in the Merchant Marine.

Lions Christmas Tree Sale Slated To Start Dec. 15

Finances Kiddie Party And Project For Blind

The Cumberland Lions Club's third annual Christmas tree sale to raise funds for its annual Christmas Kiddies Party and to help finance its sight conservation program and aid to the blind, will begin about December 15, according to Alvin E. Yaste, secretary-treasurer.

As in past years, about 1,500 to 2,000 trees will be placed on sale at the North Centre Street lot where the Times-News war map was located.

Some 175 to 200 deserving children from Cumberland's elementary schools and the Keating Memorial Day Nursery are to be invited to the club's Kiddie Party which will be held in Central Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on December 17.

The party will be marked by a visit from Santa Claus who will present a red stocking full of candy and toys to each youngster present after the turkey dinner.

Entertainment will include feats of magic by Oscar Parrish and his rabbit, Oscar, Jr., selections by the Lions Glee Club and either the Fort Hill or Allegany High School orchestra.

As part of its year-around sight conservation program, for which some of the funds received from the Christmas tree sale will be allocated, the club is sponsoring nine deserving Allegany County children who are students at the Maryland School for the Blind at Overlea, Baltimore County, and otherwise would be unable to attend the school.

This is in addition to its program of furnishing an average of six pairs of eyeglasses monthly to children in the county who otherwise could not afford them. No limit is set on the number of pairs of glasses so provided. This program operates through co-operation of the Health Department.

In its project of aiding children at the School for the Blind, the club has been providing clothing, eye examinations and eyeglasses. Recently it bore the expense of a tonsillectomy of one of the students.

Supplementing this work, the club has forwarded to the superintendent of the school a considerable sum of money to be used in his discretion for supplying the needs of the county children who are students there. This same assistance will be given to any other children of the county who may enter the school.

Furnace Failure Closes St. Mary's Parochial School

Sisters In Convent Also Without Heat

St. Mary's Parochial School, Oldtown Road was closed yesterday and students were sent home by the principal, Sister Francelle, as the result of a furnace failure. There will be no school classes held this week, but it is hoped the heating plant will be repaired by next Monday, school officials said.

The school, and St. Mary's Convent, are situated in the same building, and the Sisters who teach in the school have their living quarters in a part of the building.

Yesterday, and all last night, the Sisters remained at the convent, with little heat except that furnished by a couple of small electric heaters. With the weather growing colder, and chances of no heat for several days, it is being considered possible that the 13 Sisters housed there, may be moved elsewhere temporarily.

Officials of the parish said last night an entirely new boiler and heating plant was installed in the school and convent building a short time ago, but the whole thing ceased operations over the weekend and cracks developed in several places. A large coal-fired steam plant, the furnace heats 12 class rooms, several large corridors, and a dozen or more other rooms in the combined building.

St. Mary's school includes all elementary grades as well as high school, and enrollment is approximately 365 students, with the majority in the lower grades.

St. Mary's officials hope that repairs can be made to the furnace this week, and said work is already underway. Parish officials said that school will open Monday, unless further announcement is made.

Series Of Radio Programs Planned By P-TA Council

The Allegany County Council of Parent-Teacher Association held its regular business meeting and a workshop last night at the board of education office.

Mrs. Stanley Buckley announced that the book, Bring's Adventure Story, will be used for the series of radio programs, which will begin at 7:45, December 4, under the sponsorship of the County Council. Mrs. John E. Lancaster, was appointed chairman of the committee in charge of the Founders Day program to be observed at the February meeting. She will name her own committee. Dates for the state Parent-Teacher convention was announced for December 7-8 and 9.

During the work shop Mrs. Franklin Martens, Publications chairman; Claire Mease, Safety chairman; Dr. Adam Baer, Social Hygiene chairman; Herbert Heineman, Library chairman and Miss Mary G. Walsh were in charge.

Mrs. Martens emphasized the importance of the National P-T magazine and urged all parents to subscribe to it. A $10 award has been offered by the County Council for the school obtaining the greatest number of subscriptions during the contest, which began at the last meeting and will close in June.

Mr. Mease spoke on doing things safely, not only in the school, but in the home and on the streets. He emphasized that parents and teachers should be given safety rules for the children.

Dr. Baer explained that the Social Hygiene field is a new one, not only in Allegany County, but in the state, and suggested following the state program, which is the study of social diseases. He asked each local P-TA to appoint Social Hygiene chairman, and for these to form a study group on the topic.

Mr. Heineman spoke on the county library and reported the committee hopes to meet with the county commissioners in the near future. Miss Walsh conducted a forum on the library work.

Cash And Food Collected By Young Methodists For Strawbridge Home

Kingsley Group Wins Prize For Best Booth

A total of $231 and well over 2,000 cans of food were collected for the Strawbridge Home for Boys at the Thanksgiving Rally of the Sub-District Methodist Youth Fellowship, held last night at Centre Street Methodist Church. The food and cash will be sent to the home later this week.

The Kingsley Church group won the first prize for their booth, for having the largest amount of money collected, which was $86. They received a prize of $5. Second prize was awarded to Centre Street Church group for having the largest amount of food collected. Their booth displayed over 600 cans of food. They received a $3 award.

Centenary Church group won the prize for the most original idea for a booth. It was built to represent a small wagon, and was filled with hay and canned goods. The wheels were covered with paper money and representing how it goes around, and the spokes of the wheels were covered with coins, fastened on with scotch tape.

Other designs were dollar bills pasted on trees, representing the "fruit of the tree."

Booths were arranged by the young people's group from the various churches of the sub-district, and contained the money and food they collected during the week for the Methodist boys home.

Dr. Reid Issac, director of Child Welfare of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church, formerly superintendent of the Strawbridge Home for Boys, was the principal speaker. He outlined the needs of the children and equipment for the home.

Jean Curl, president of the Fellowship, presided at the banquet and business session. Rev. Walter Marion Michaels, pastor of the host church, offered the invocation at the banquet. # State Checking License Records For Delinquents

License Bureau investigators of the State of Maryland have been sent here to investigate delinquent contractors and other business people who have failed to obtain proper licenses to do business, it was revealed yesterday.

A check at the Court House yesterday revealed that only six Allegany County contractors have obtained their annual $15 permits to do business, as required by an act of 1916.

It is estimated there are about 300 firms and individuals in the county, operating as contractors of one form or another, who do more than $5,000 gross business annually, and consequently are covered by this license law.

Mathew A. Powers, chief inspector of state licenses, estimated there were 3,000 or more delinquent contractors in Baltimore City alone, but added it was not possible yet to give an estimate for the state.

The 1916 act had never been generally enforced but the attorney general, Hall Hammond, has ruled that all contractors who have not taken out the $15 license fee must do so and also pay the 10 per cent penalty for each of the last four years. The attorney general ruled that a four-year period of limitations applies to the situation.

Baltimore city officials had hopes of collecting several hundred thousand dollars in back fees when City Councilman William J. Muth recently stumbled upon a 1916 state regulation requiring all contractors to take out an annual $15 license if they gross more than $5,000 worth of business a year. Mayor d'Alesandro asserted the fees might go far toward balancing the city budget.

However, Attorney General Hall Hammond has ruled that the fees belong to the state and declared that all such fees up to and including 1947 would belong to the state. He said next year's fees would be available to Baltimore and the counties under the new "Sherbow Plan," which gives such revenues to the state subdivision in which they are collected.

Mechanic Is Injured

Pension Plan Is Considered For Paper Workers

Union, Company Make Proposals

Several meetings have been held in Washington recently to discuss a pension plan for employes at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, the office of CIO Local 676, United Paper Workers of America, announced yesterday.

Murray W. Latimer, a recognized expert in the field, whose services were secured by the union, has made several proposals which are being considered by the New York headquarters of the company.

The company has proposed a $25 minimum pension, as compared to the union request for a $50 minimum.

Employes must be at least 30 years old with one year of service to be eligible for the plan, according to the company's recommendation. Past service would be paid for only on the basis of years worked after an employe reaches the age of 30.

Age Limit Proposed

The union, pointing out that if an employe is 31 and has worked for the company 11 years, he would be entitled to only one year's past service, recommended that all past service, minus five years, be paid for by the company.

Employes should also be permitted to join the pension program before they are 30, the union stated.

Under the company's proposal, an employe must retire at the age of 65 unless company permission is granted to extend the time in individual cases. The union has asked that employes be given the right to retire at 65 but that no

Colder Weather And Snow Flurries Reported In Area

Snow flurries, high wind and dropping temperatures were reported in the tri-state area last night with colder weather expected today.

Almost an inch—.82 to be exact of rain fell in Cumberland yesterday and intermittent showers were reported throughout the county, along with snow flurries in some sections around 9 p. m.

State Police reported it snowed "hard" at Cresaptown for a short time but that none of it laid. Light flurries were reported in LaVale.

In Garrett County, State Police said snow mixed with rain fell in the Grantsville section, beginnng about 5:30 p. m., but that the snow melted as it hit the ground, except on the top of Big Savage Mountain and on Keyser's Ridge. Strong winds were reported.

Pennsylvania State Police at Somerset and Bedford reported snow flurries in both sections along with high winds, and the Western Maryland Railway dispatcher here said he had been informed of snow flurries late yesterday at Deal, Pa., and Thomas, W. Va.

High wind was reported at both Deal and Thomas, with the temperature at the former down to 26 degrees at 10:30 p. m. and at the latter down to 28 at the same hour.

In Cumberland, after hitting a maximum of 55 degrees yesterday, the mercury had slumped to 37 last night, but the strong wind blowing gave the impression it was much colder here.

East of Cumberland, at Hagerstown and Frederick, State Police said it was dry and windy last night.

Artificial Fish Pond Is Built On Kolb Farm Near Flintstone

The first fish pond to be constructed in Allegany County was completed last week on the farm home of Lester Kolb, well known Flintstone area contractor.

The artificial pond, providing about half an acre of surface, was constructed with equipment of the Allegany Soil Conservation Service on the farm off Route 40, at the foot of Martin's Mountain.

The by-pass pond, according to Philip J. Walter, soil conservationist, has already been filled by water piped from the nearby Dickerson Run.

Kolb, who is president of the Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company, expects the pond to furnish recreation as well as a supply of water for fire fighting and as a source of drinking water for stock.

A somewhat similar pond has been in operation on the farm of Stanley Weimer in Mt. Savage, for several years but was built on the site of a former reservoir.

Although all of the actual construction has been completed, the pond will still have to be seeded and stocked before Mr. Kolb and his friends can catch their first mess of fish.

Such ponds, Mr. Walter said, are usually stocked with small mouth bass and blue gill sunfish at the rate of one bass to 10 sunnies so that about 50 bass may be placed in the pond when conditions are right.

With proper care, an acre pond will provide more fish than the average family will catch with a hook and line, he added.

The Soil Conservation Service, he added, is interested in artificial ponds for a number of reasons, he added. Besides the obvious value of the fishing as a means of recreation and to vary the diet of farm families, the water supply is invaluable for fire fighting, as water for stock and to provide water for orchard spraying. The presence of the water is also useful in aiding wild life.

Over $1,000 In Social Security Payments Lost In Area Each Month

Payments are being lost at the approximate rate of $1,000 a month by residents of the Cumberland area who fail to file claims for Social Security benefits through the Cumberland field office, William W. Wood, Jr., manager, reported yesterday.

A recent test reveals that in a four week period from September 29, 1947, and October 24, 1947, six persons lost payments of $1,075 through delays in filing claims for Social Security benefits, he said.

Of these six, two were wage earners over 65, one was the wife of a wage earner over 65 who herself has become 65, one was an elderly widow and the last was a widow with a small child, he said.

Money Is Lost

All of these persons are now getting their Social Security payments but all lost considerable money through the delays in filing of claims.

The trouble, he explained, is that these and many other persons have not bothered to come to the Cumberland field office to ask about their rights either as a retired worker at age 65 or as a survivor of a deceased wage earner.

Payments under the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Law are never

Strong Wind Blows Tree Down On Street

A strong wind which followed yesterday's downpour of rain toppled over a dead tree on Mt. Royal Avenue, near the school, and blocked traffic for a short time, until officers from the Cumberland Police Department removed it.

Officers Richard Lashley, who removed the tree, said it measured about 18 inches in thickness and pulled an electrical wire running to a street light down too. The wire was later repaired, he said.

Two Youths Held After Admitting Theft Of Calf

Police Say Meat Sold Privately

Cpl. R. R. Karickhoff, West Virginia State Police, said Nile Shuck, 19, Dawson, and Gilbert Lease, Fort Ashby, admitted stealing a calf from the farm of Jesse Simpson near Keyser, on the early morning of November 18 and butchering it near Cresaptown.

According to police the two youths killed the calf on the Simpson farm and then carried it to Maryland where they skinned and carved it. The meat was sold to private homes in the Cumberland-Cresaptown section, police said.

Shuck was arrested early yesterday morning in Maryland by Trooper Thomas G. Barton and turned over to West Virginia authorities after he waived extradition. He was held in Cumberland's City Jail for several hours.

Lease was arrested at his home by Cpl. Karickhoff and Trooper Frank Bowley Sunday and was taken to Mineral County Jail.

Both youths yesterday admitted stealing and butchering the calf and told authorities that the sale of the meat netted hem $7 in cash and a fifth of whisky. Police said they made several sales to unsuspecting persons.

Both West Virginia and Maryland State Police have been investigating the case for the past week.

Cpl. Karickhoff said the youths will be held in Mineral County Jail pending a preliminary hearing at the discretion of the Mineral County prosecuting attorney.

Pluckett Forfeits Drunk Driving Bond

Enoch J. Plunkett, 100 Mt. Pleasant Street, Frostburg, yesterday forfeited $113.90 bond on charges of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and reckless driving, when he failed to appear in Trial Magistrates Court for a hearing.

Pluckett was arrested Saturday by Trooper Milton Hart, Maryland State Police, and held in Allegany County Jail several hours until bond was posted. He was apprehended on Route 40 at Clarysville.

Donald S. Sheetz, 49 South Street, identified as the driver of a car, which plunged over a 20 foot embankment near Cresaptown Saturday night, forfeited $6.45 on a reckless driving charge.

Trooper G. M. Rotruck preferred charges. He said the car rolled over several times after leaving the road but no one was injured.

Donald W. Humbertson, 31 Davidson Street, forfeited $6.45 on a charge of failing to halt at a boulevard stop sign on Route 40 in LaVale Sunday.

Vernon C. Beachy, Grantsville, forfeited $3.45 for failure to stop at an intersection on Route 40, LaVale, Saturday. Gilbert L. Markwood, 826 Columbia Avenue, forfeited $11.45 for exceeding 50 miles per hour on Route 220 at Bowling Green Saturday.

Smith is well known here as a veteran, former member of the City Fire Department, former city fire inspector, active Legionnaire, and operator of a Baltimore Avenue store. He was elected to the highest state office of the 40 and 8 at the annual convention in Baltimore late last summer.

Police Study Two Motives In Death Of Newlyweds

Learn Of Another Girl; Objections

Two possible motives were being studied last night by Pennsylvania State Police to determine the reason for a double suicide pact between a former Cumberland man and his bride of one day, who were found dead Sunday in a parked car near Greensburg, Pa.

Authorities said they learned that Bridges Winston Pittard, 24, the bridegroom, had been flying to New York from his suburban Pittsburgh home to see another girl friend, and also that the parents of the bride, the former Helen Grove Brown, 21, were objecting to the marriage.

Pvt. Leo DePolo, Pennsylvania State Police, said a verbal verdict of suicide by carbon monoxide gas had been given in the death of the pair, who were married by a Pittsburgh alderman Friday night, one day before their scheduled church wedding.

Objected To Marriage

Pittard's father, police said, declared that his son had gone to New York several times in the past three months to see a girl friend whom he met while serving with the United States Army.

The father also told police, they said; that the dead girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos T. Brown, Bellevue, a suburb of Pittsburgh, had objected to a marriage between their daughter and Pittard.

Investigation yesterday proved that an empty sleeping tablet box, found in the car, was the property of the girl's father, and was apparently taken by her shortly before they left on what appeared to be a secret honeymoon trip.

Police said also that the hose used to pipe carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust pipe into the car, was a "brand new" hose off a vacuum cleaner, which the pair apparently purchased.

Pittard's father told police that he found a piece of red hose and a box of tape in the rear seat of his car last Thursday after his son had used the car. He said he attached no significance to it at the time and threw it in the house where it still is.

Pittard, a former Allegany High School student, and his bride, who visited here last August, were found dead in a car that had been rented from a Pittsburgh agency one a lonely road in back of a Greensburg cemetery.

Were Well Dressed

Authorities explained also that they found another medicine box in the car, and said there were about three tablets of an undetermined medicine melted together on the bottom of the box. Police said they had not yet learned the identity of the New York girl whom Pittard was visiting.

Medical officials in West Moreland County, where the couple was found, declared last night that no autopsy would be performed and indicate that the investigation may be closed without further effort to establish a motive.

The couple were to have been married at a church wedding Saturday, and police said to their knowledge, neither of their parents knew that they were married Friday night. The bride called Miss Jane Mitchell, who was to be a bridesmaid at the church wedding, and told her they were leaving for New York on a honeymoon trip Friday night, according to police.

Both victims were well dressed and about $200 was found in their packages in the car. Police said they were lying in each other's arms in the back seat when the bodies were found.

A permit also was granted to Benjamin R. Valentine, rear 1123 Bedford Street, to build a one-story brick house, 34 by 32 feet, on Lot 6, Valentine Avenue. Cost is estimated at $3,000.

The collision occurred at 8:30 a. m., police reported as the bus driver, John Hardinger attempted to turn into the circle at the school. According to a police report, the bus, owned by Ward Wilson, made a left hand turn and struck the machine.

Police identified the driver of the car as Harry W. Robboson, 540 Central Avenue. No charges were preferred, according to police, who said Officer William McGraw investigated.

Divorce Decree

Sufficient Oil Supply For Winter Months Is Doubtful, MacBeth Says

Despite recently improved conditions in the oil industry, R. B. MacBeth, chairman of Allegany-Garrett Counties Oil Industry's Public Relations Committee, said it is doubtful, if East Coast requirements will be met this winter.

The situation will be even more serious should the weather prove severe and householders, motorists and other users of petroleum products fail to co-operate in spreading available supplies.

The petroleum supply, which has been at a critical low, was aided slightly by the Federal Government's release of additional tankers and the widespread efforts of oil companies to increase production.

A recent study shows that the Eastern area is almost entirely dependent upon outside sources of supply. Much of this supply reaches the Atlantic Coast by water and the prolonged strike at ship-repair yards along the seaboard raised havoc with the tanker fleet.

Other difficulties in the transportation situation have been caused by the inability of industry to obtain sufficient amounts of steel, electrical supplies and other essential equipment to construct new facilities, such as tank cars, and tank trucks.

Some relief is expected from the widespread co-operation which has been received from public officials and others to keep open the inland waterways for a longer period of time this winter, thus greatly relieving the overburdened tank trucks.

Nationally, the transportation deficiency has been reflected sharply in the stock position of the four major products — gasoline, kerosene, light and heavy fuel oils. As of October 31, the inventory of these products was between 9 and 10 million barrels less than it was a year previous.

This year's demand on the American oil industry is expected to reach a new high. The estimate is 582 gallons for each person in the country.
